GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

The mystery of Andrew Ogden's murder is solved. Romance has survived the hazards of suspicion and intrigue: Lucy and Jerry are happy — married. One important point remains to be cleared up in today's — the final — chapter of "Gold Bullets."

CHAPTER 49.

According to Poe.

Sixty-nine is waiting on for much of this sort of thing and I am glad it is over. Mrs. Moffit has just been in brooding over me with a hot lemonade and a dish of warm olive oil. But not she has gone, and in my old carpet slippers, "olyandria at my feet, I am drowsing over my book and absorbing the pleasant heat from the crackling eucalyptus log in the grate.

I am fearfully alone tonight. Andrew gone and Lucy going — not really going, and I am gaining something unusual in nephews, she tries to assure me, as if I didn't know—leaves me desolate of spirit.

My drowsing eyes fell on a calendar frame and on the wall. It is an old calendar and there are many pencilings on the curled and yellow top date sheet which records the days of the month of July, 1896. The calendar advertises Brewer's whiskey and its mount pictures a voluptuous lady. Lucy says it is inartistic. Mrs. Moffit says it is sinful, and both of them say I should burn it. Well, I'll take it down after I've had my little joke on Lucy.

Sitting up with a start, I saw that Lucy and Jerry had come in. They have been making love most of the day and I have had hardly a word with them.

"Oh, you were asleep, Uncle John," Lucy cried distressfully.

"Nothing of the sort!" I snapped. "I was reading."

Lucy laughed and kissed me and Jerry grinned and dropped his arm over my shoulder, both of them then perched upon the arms of my chair. I love to have them near me. Their bounding youthfulness warms my cooling blood. Jerry picked up my book, which had somehow slid behind my back.

"Poe," Lucy sniffed, as she caught sight of the volume. Lucy reads Wells and Shaw and Mencken. "You'll have a nightmare, Uncle John."

"No," I said with a little secret smile. "I was only reading The Purloined Letter. I had been thinking of your wedding present."

"What has The Purloined Letter to do with our wedding present?" Lucy demanded, greatly astonished.

"Not your real wedding present, my dear," I said banteringly. Just a—a temporary gift. A real wedding present requires prayerful meditation."

"For an elderly bachelor you are wonderfully wise," Lucy informed me. "But—I insist, What has The Purloined Letter got to do with our temporary wedding present?"

"Dear me!" I exclaimed. "Don't you remember the story of The Purloined Letter? Listen, then:

"A minister of France has stolen an important letter and hidden it in his house. Its recovery is imperative and the highly trained services of the French police are enlisted. At various times during the minister's absence the police examine his house with characteristic thoroughness. They examine every square inch of his rooms and furniture. And — they fail. They fail because they are mathematicians without imagination — and because the minister is a poet as well as a mathematician. Poe's detective is called in. He reasons that the minister, knowing the conventional thoroughness of the French police, is too clever to conceal the letter in the conventional way; he reasons that the minister will leave it where it is so apparent to the eye that it will be ignored. Poe's detective is right — and the letter is found in an old envelope stuck carelessly in a pasteboard card-rack hung on the wall."

"But I still don't see what you mean!" Lucy cried impatiently. "Do you, Jerry?"

"I'm listening," he grinned. "Go ahead, Uncle John."

Jerry is a smart lad and I chuckled.

"Cast your minds back to that poker game, Lundy is left alone in his room with his ill-gotten winnings. The check and the mining transfer represent, in his estimation, around half a million dollars. These papers are not negotiable to anybody else, but their value is known and if they get into unscrupulous hands they could be sold back to either Lundy or Peterson for a considerable sum. Torriddy is full of desperate characters—doesn't it boast of being the 'toughest town in the west'?—and Lundy decides against carrying them around on his person until he records the one and cashes the other. His desk is too flimsy to protect them and his safe is broken. What, then, does he do with them?"

"You know very well what he did with them!" Lucy exclaimed, shaking me.

Lucy—nestled against her uncle—seemed inexpressibly dear to him.

"Come on, Uncle John," Jerry grinned. "Lucy can't stand it any longer."

I beamed on the boy. "Now Lundy was a bit of a poet—witness that 'secret' room. He placed the check and the transfer between the leaves of that calendar and made them secure with three thumb tacks driven into the wall. And there they stayed for 29 years. And—here they are!"

With a dramatic gesture which I had been practicing since last night I whipped the check and the transfer out of my pocket and presented them to Jerry. He took them reverently and the three of us looked at them together. The pink check had faded a little, the transfer had yellowed. That sprawling "Alex Peterson" . . . rising out of the dust of 30 years ago . . . clutched at my throat . . . It was like seeing his dear face again. The bold "Jim Lundy" and the cramped "Tex Marcoy" were haunted irreverencies. A lump climbed into my throat and I shut my eyes. When I opened them again a tear had fallen on the signature on the check, running the indelible writing into the brittle paper.

"I shall keep these," Jerry said presently in a queer, choked voice.

"No. You must burn them."

He looked at me with understanding coming in his eyes—Andrew's eyes.

"Yes," he nodded, "you are right. Dad intended to burn them."

"His last gesture," Lucy whispered. "It will be complete, then."

Jerry slowly tore them into fragments and dropped them onto the crackling log. A burst of flame, a puff of smoke, and they were gone . . . gone as definitely as most of us are when our course is run. We sat in front of the fire with a soothing lassitude stealing into our souls . . . nearer than we had ever been. In a little while they left me.

* * * *

I must have drowsed again, for I came to with a start. Perhaps I had dreamed a little, for my mind was occupied with the thought that tomorrow I had to swallow a bitter pill. Tomorrow I shall be seventy. Ah, well, a man isn't old until he is seventy-five.

"Eh, what, Polyandria?"

But Polyandria was asleep. And so, presently, was I.

Summer Months Hard on Stomach Sufferers

Quick, Natural Relief from Simple Herbal Compound

How much suffering a weak stomach can cause! Painful gas, bloating, sleeplessness, loss of weight—vigor. Bad enough at any time, but when exhausting summer heat is added, strength is drained from the sturdiest body.

But here is one of many thousands who found a way to relief:

Mrs. Minnie Huber, of 945 E. 26th St., Portland, Ore., says: "Ever since I was a girl I suffered from sick headaches and vomiting spells. I weakened so I had no strength for anything. After taking Tanlac, my headaches and sick spells disappeared altogether."

It's never too late to try Tanlac. So go to your druggist now and get a bottle. No mineral drugs—only Nature's own medicinal herbs, but its efficacy is so apparent that often only one bottle is needed to bring desired relief. Money back if it doesn't help.

ORDINANCE NO. 2163

AN ORDINANCE declaring the assessment on the property benefited for the cost of laying paving, curbs and gutters on Park Avenue between Eleventh Street and Dakota Avenue; and directing the Recorder to enter a statement thereof in the Docket of City Liens and to publish a notice thereof as required by the Charter.

THE CITY OF MEDFORD DOTH ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. WHEREAS the City Council did heretofore by resolution declare its intention to lay paving, curbs and gutters on Park Avenue between Eleventh Street and Dakota Avenue; and to assess the cost thereof on the property fronting on said portions of said street in proportion to the frontage of said property and the benefits thereto and did fix the time and place for hearing protests against the laying of paving, curbs and gutters on said street and the assessment of the cost thereof as aforesaid.

AND WHEREAS said resolution was duly posted and published as required by Section 78 of the Charter of said city.

AND WHEREAS a meeting of the council was held at the time and place fixed in said resolution for the purpose of considering any such protests, but no protests were at such time, or at any time made to or received by the council to the laying of paving, curbs and gutters on Park Avenue, or the assessing of the cost thereof as aforesaid, and said council has considered the matter and deeming that said laying of paving, curbs and gutters was and is of material benefit to said city and that all the property to be assessed therefor will be benefited thereby to the extent of the probable amount of the respective assessments to be levied against said property did order the laying of said paving, curbs and gutters.

AND WHEREAS the cost of said paving, curbs and gutters has been and hereby is determined to be the sum of $10,833.60.

NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby further determined that the proportionate share of the cost of laying of paving, curbs and gutters of each parcel of property fronting on said portions of said street is the amount set opposite the description of each piece or parcel of land below and that each piece or parcel of land is benefited by the laying of paving, curbs and gutters to the full extent of the amount so set opposite such piece or parcel and that the respective amounts represent the proportional benefits of said paving, curbs and gutters to said respective parcels of property and also the proportional frontage thereof on said portions of said street and the council does hereby declare each of the parcels of property described below, and each of the same is hereby assessed the amount set opposite each respective description for the cost of laying paving, curbs and gutters.

RESOLUTION NO 252.

A RESOLUTION declaring the intention of the council to cause South Central Avenue to be improved with curb, gutter and pavement from the end of the present pavement to the South line of Boyd Street in the City of Medford, Oregon, and for the assessment of the cost thereof on adjacent property; providing for a meeting of the council to consider protest against said construction and providing for the serving of the owners of adjacent property with notice thereof by the Recorder.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MEDFORD OREGON:

Section 1. That it is the intention of the council to cause South Central Avenue from the end of the present pavement to the South line of Boyd Street in the City of Medford to be improved by placing on both sides of said street a concrete curb and gutter and by paving the same for a width of thirty-six feet and assess upon each lot or part thereof adjoining said improvement its proportionate share of the cost of said improvement.

Section 2. The Council will meet in the Council Chamber at the City Hall on the 2nd day of July, 1929, at 7:30 P. M. at which time and place the owners of said adjacent property are hereby called upon to appear before said council and show cause, if any, why said curb, gutter and paving should not be constructed and why said property should not be assessed for the construction thereof.

Section 3. The City Recorder is hereby directed to serve notice hereof upon the property owners aforesaid by publishing this resolution once in a daily newspaper, printed, published and of general circulation in said city at least ten (10) days before the date of said meeting and by posting five copies of this resolution in five public and conspicuous places in said city for a period of ten days prior to said meeting.

Passed by the city council and signed by me in open session in authentication of its passage this 18th day of June, 1929.

A. W. PIPES, Mayor.

Approved by me this 18th day of June, 1929.
