

How the cooking tests were conducted

Slowly, carefully tasting as they went

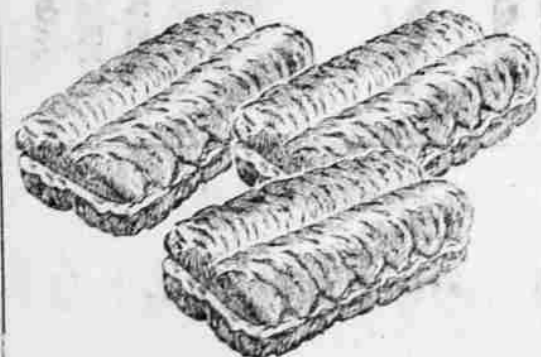

WOMEN of the United States will be interested in knowing how the now famous cooking tests were recently conducted in New York by four famous cooking experts.

Vegetable foods were chosen and cooked in many ways, because vegetables are so important to the balanced diet. The experts were experienced in discriminating shades of flavor. Not more than three vegetables were cooked and tested at one time in order that the sense of taste should not be blunted. This explains why the tests had to be carried over such a long period of time.

In every case, vegetables cooked in little water with the addition of a dash of sugar won unanimously. This, at first, might strike some as surprising, but it must be remembered that it is not the purpose of the small amount of sugar to make the vegetables taste sweet. Sugar is used here as a seasoning, and it is perhaps the greatest seasoning of all. It develops the natural, delicate flavors of the vegetables just as it does of fruits, cereals, meats, gravies and soups.

Encourage variety and you encourage health for every member of your family. Serve at least two cooked vegetables a day in addition to a raw vegetable salad. Serve at least two fruits a day. Serve milk desserts. Then make the balanced diet so attractive that everyone will welcome it. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Mary Pleases Large Audiences

Among the vividly realistic scenes of Mary Pickford's new picture "Coquette," which is now playing at Hurt's Criterion, are the two heated encounters of the little coquette's father and her young lover. When these two men, separated by age and viewpoint, meeting only on the common ground of their love for the girl, clash, the sparks fly hot and furious.

In their second encounter, the stinging words of the father prove too bitter a dose. Michael turns upon the older man with a fury of burning words, demanding the right to love and marry the daughter of the besant family.

In the first dramatic meeting of these men, Michael accuses the father of the little coquette's father who orders him forever wearing uniforms of subdued colors.

The same scene has a powerful pathos in the meeting between her father and her lover, and ends their love.

John Salsbach, play Dr. DeLeonson the father, a gentleman of whose day, Michael Jeffrey, portrayed by John Salsbach, is the first dramatic meeting of these men. Michael accuses the father of the little coquette's father who orders him forever wearing uniforms of subdued colors.

"But such good coffee. You must have a secret."

"Nothing but M-J-B."

Selected grades of green coffees from favored districts in far countries are combined in making the famous M-J-B Blend. Its full-bodied richness and rare flavor is developed and brought out by the M-J-B process of blending and aging before roasting.

Many people find that with M-J-B, the full-flavored blend, they use slightly less coffee. Whether you make it strong, mild or medium—M-J-B has the matchless coffee flavor that only the rich blend can give.

M-J-B is vacuum-sealed in the new improved friction top key-cans by M-J-B's own patented process. Ask for M-J-B coffee at your grocery. Look for the letters on each can.
