

NEWS of the DAY in PICTURES

MOST APPEALING does Nancy Carroll, young cinema actress, seem here. She is wearing the costume in which she appears in the film "Burlesque."

HAPPY DAYS ARE THESE, as every one knows, that this youthful disciple of Izaak Walton is enjoying near Kansas City, Mo. He seems to have discovered a most beautiful spot for his fishing, from the looks of the scenery.

WHEN HELEN WILLS, world's foremost woman tennis player, was presented to the English court recently, she was dressed in this manner. The gown is an ensemble of ivory white satin.

APPETIZING ODORS of frying bacon attracted the attention of this grizzly in his high perch in a tree, and he wants some. Being a pet bear in one of the large western parks, campers usually fulfill his wants.

YES, THIS IS MONKEY BUSINESS, and plenty of it. One hundred and fifty-five Abyssinian baboons were turned loose in new quarters at the Detroit zoo recently. The quarters offer an unobstructed view to spectators, and, as a result, the monkeys' playground seems to be the most popular spot around the zoo.

A MOST STRIKING SCENE is this one of the Palace of Arts in the American Plaza of the Ibero-American Exposition at Seville, Spain. Powerful lights illuminated the building at night. It was one of the show places of the exposition.

STRAW HAT SEASON, EH? Well, not to the Duke of York. The Duke and Duchess are pictured here in their coach at Edinburgh. The Duke is wearing the official costume of Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

CUTTING AWAY A CABLE, which is 306 feet from anchor to anchor and which is made up of 37 smaller cables doesn't strike one as an easy task. But that was done on the Ambassador bridge which spans the river between Detroit and Windsor. The old cable was too brittle and must be replaced. A workman busy at his task is shown in the inset. The bridge, shown here, will afford users an excellent view of the surrounding county.

ONLY WOMAN on President Hoover's law enforcement commission is Miss Ada M. Comstock, prominent educator. She is shown here at her desk at Radcliffe College.
