PITCHING STARS DISPLAY WARES MONDAY GAMES

Grimes and Grove Show Why They're Poison to Batsmen — Cubs and Giants Keep Step With Pirates — Gehrig Clouts Homer.

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer Yesterday's battles along the major league front failed to shake up the standings to any marked degree, but they did give Burleigh Grimes and Bob Grove a chance to show why they're the leading pitchers in their respective leagues...

Grimes now can show 14 victories against one defeat. Grove's record is 14 and 2. The Pirates made Grimes' task easy by getting to Johnny Morrison, their old teammate, early...

The Cubs and Giants kept step with the Pirates. Chicago trouncing Boston, 11 to 3 behind Hal Carlson's five-hit pitching while the Giants were beating Cincinnati for the third straight, 2 to 0. Lou Benton gave the Reds only three scattered hits.

In the other National league engagement, the Phillies made it three out of four from the fading St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 5, despite four hits by Chick Hafey.

The Yankees kept step by burying St. Louis under a 10 to 2 count, hammering three Brown pitchers for 16 hits, including Lou Gehrig's 22nd homer of the year. George Pipparis granted only four hits and retired the first 13 men to face him.

Washington and Detroit split a double bill, the Senators grabbing the first, 5 to 4, at George's expense when Johnson's error permitted the winning run to score in the 10th. The Tigers slugged out 16 hits to take the second game, 16 to 6. Four runs came over when Marty McManus hammered a home run with the bases filled in the first inning.

Four runs in the sixth sent Cleveland at 5 to 2 triumph over Danny MacFayden and the Boston Red Sox.

FAVOR STRANGLER OVER SONNENBERG IN MATCH TONIGHT

BOSTON, July 9. (AP)—There will be a third meeting here tonight between Gus Sonnenberg, king of the heavyweight wrestlers, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, the man he toppled from the throne. Strange as it may seem, the Strangler reigns favorite for the third time.

Mat-wise experts professed to believe that Sonnenberg's almost continuous defense of his title since he acquired it six months ago, had left him somewhat ragged. They also gave weight to Lewis' claim that he had developed a perfect defense for the six-year-old hero's famous flying tackle, the most dangerous hold in the champion's repertory and the only one which has served to avert disaster in several close matches.

The bout at Fenway park will be witnessed by sports commissioners from three states—Illinois, where Sonnenberg is under suspension; Rhode Island and Connecticut. Joe Coffey and "Doc" Krone, rival Chicago promoters, accompanied Commissioner Samuel P. Luzzo of the Illinois state athletic commission.

Coffey and Krone announced they had signed both principals, the winner to meet an opponent selected by the Illinois commission in a match at Chicago around Labor day.

ROGUE RIVER HAS GREATER VARIETY OF FISH SPECIES

Perhaps Rogue river today can really boast of a larger number of species of fish than any mountain stream in the west. As James H. McCool, featured writer of the Oregonian, in his column, "Wild Life Lines," These fish range from the sluggish carp and catfish to the tiger chinook salmon and steelhead trout. The great variety of the finny tribe at present in the river is the result of persistent planting of fingerlings in recent years. The original native fish of the stream were chinook and silver-side salmon and the steelhead and cutthroat, which were the natural food of the feeding fish in the river. These salmon and trout after their birth and first season of infant life migrated from the fresh water of the river to the reviving salt water of the Pacific ocean, to reappear at maturity in the river to propagate their offspring.

The first importation and planting of fish in the Rogue were the much-depleted carp, which now fairly swarm in the impounded waters of the Gold Ray dam and the slack-water bays of the lower river. As it has been related, and it is a sad story to relate, prior to 1880, carp were unknown in Oregon. But on May 14 of that year Captain John Harlow imported 35 German carp on the steamer Elder.

Later Oregon waters grew crazy, and in 1883 the government sent out a few thousand young carp, which were distributed in Oregon and Washington. Hundreds of persons in the two states got them for ponds and aquariums, with visions of reaping fortunes in raising carp. Hanson, a prominent German farmer with a large acreage on Rogue River between the two Table Rocks, received a consignment of the first carp in 1884 and planted them in the sloughs on his premises. The carp grew and propagated much on the order of a golden pig. Unfortunately, after several years, the major part of Hanson's thriving millions of carp escaped into the Rogue river when the flood waters swept over the sloughs.

The first planting of game fish in the Rogue started with the first artificial propagation of game fish by the government and state, went the rainbow trout, and in recent years nearly every known species of trout has been liberated in the cold waters of the river. However, the recent planting of black bass, catfish and crappies in Rogue river and the lakes of southern Oregon, afford more sport to a larger number of people than in the palmy days of the native fish.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP) After moving irregularly higher in the early trading today, the stock market ran into a brief flurry of selling, only to head upwards again in impressive fashion by early afternoon. Call money held firm at 8 per cent and there was some calling of loans, giving rise to fears that it might go higher. It was rumored that some of the larger banks were endeavoring to prevent any further increase.

The list showed much improvement in the final hour, when a number of shares made sharp advances. Columbian Carbon jumped 12 points to 297, a new high, while American Telephone and Telegraph established a new high when it touched 240 3/4. United States Steel reached 201 again. Southern Railway, National Cash Register, United Steel Products preferred, Montgomery Ward and Abernethy and Strauss were up from three to six points each. The close was strong. Total sales approximated 4,000,000 shares.

PLAN TARIFF TO HELP FARMER SAYS HAWLEY

SALEM, Ore., July 9. (AP)—Agricultural relief is the major consideration in the pending tariff bill, and the bill is so designed to cause the profitable products that do not supply fully the American market to supplant in part the growing of wheat, corn and other great crops which are produced in excess and at a loss. This comment is made by Congressman W. C. Hawley, chairman of the ways and means committee in the house and whose name the tariff bill bears.

Mr. Hawley has returned to Salem to remain about three months. While here he will make his usual inspections about the western Oregon district. "The tariff bill," said Mr. Hawley, "is now the measure of first importance, legislatively, before the American people. The most material changes are in the rates of duties affecting agricultural products. These rates generally have been largely increased for the purpose of affording relief to this industry. Special attention was given to promoting the development of dairying and the growing of fruits, nuts, orange and other crops of which the yearly output does not supply the American market, and for which there is demand at remunerative prices."

"I believe the pending tariff bill, which brings the existing law down to date, will result in the continuance and increase of our prosperity. As to the interests of Oregon," he said, "every industry in the state is provided for in the pending bill."

DECLARE WAR ON YOUNG AUTOISTS IN FAMILY AUTO

District Attorney George Colting and the other local authorities have declared war on boys and girls under 18 years of age driving cars, and especially against parents who allow minor children to drive family cars as it is against the law for anyone under 18 years of age to drive such a vehicle. There are said to be a number of such cases in the city.

The matter was brought to a head by the arrest of Morris Porter, under 15 years of age by Sheriff Ralph Jennings last Saturday night when he saw the youth speeding down West Main street near Sixth street after midnight at 39 miles an hour. At first it was thought that he was driving with the permission of his father, Dr. E. H. Porter, and it was practically decided to cite the father into court.

In Judge Taylor's court yesterday Morris testified that he was driving the car without his father's knowledge, and Dr. Porter, who came to court voluntarily, also testified to the fact.

Horace Morris was fined $15, which he had to pay, as his father refused to do so for him. Morris is a tough luck, however, as he works for his father around the Griggs apartments and as chauffeur of a tractor on the Porter farm. His father, however, advanced the money for the fine, and will take repayment out of Morris' wages.

Morris was told that the speed cops and other authorities will arrest him if he is ever seen driving a car until he is 18 years old.

DOG VETERAN OF A. E. F. IS BURIED IN FLAG'S FOLDS

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 9. (AP)—A stray dog that became a battle-scarred veteran of the A. E. F., today lies in a military grave in a local cemetery.

His tombstone bears the inscription: "Rags—Awarded in action with the American expeditionary forces." The lone mourner at his funeral yesterday was Joseph L. Book, a retired member of the West Orange fire department, to which "Rags" had attached himself during the years following his return from the war.

Book said the dog joined the 11th Engineers one morning in the Argonne, accompanied along with the regiment wherever it went into action and trotted proudly at its head on the march into Germany. The dog was slightly wounded by shrapnel and severely shell shocked. He died a natural death and Book purchased for him a scratched casket about which he wrapped an American flag.
