

FIRE FOILED RESCUE OF POLE PILOT

Major Kubala Tried Vainly to Rescue Comrade When Fliers Crashed — Cabin Filled With Flame By Explosion—Rescuers Burned in Attempt to Free Idzikowski.

HORTA, Azores, July 16.—(AP)—Major Casimir Kubala, painfully injured himself, tried in vain to rescue his comrade, Major Ladyslaw Idzikowski, from their burning plane, the Marshal Pilsudski, when it crashed in Graciosa Island Saturday night ending a trans-Atlantic venture.

The first complete account of the disastrous termination of the two Polish fliers' brilliant attempt to fly from LeBourget to New York was given to the Associated Press today by a witness, one of those who sought to save the lives of both airmen.

His narrative revealed that both Kubala and Idzikowski were found strapped inside their plane, which was upside down in a cornfield, near the village of Santa Cruz. Idzikowski's legs appeared to be broken and so plinned beneath him that he could not be extricated from the cabin before the gasoline tanks exploded and set the plane afire.

Those attempting the rescue believed Idzikowski was already dead when finally the advancing flames made them desist. Kubala, slightly dazed with fumes from the gasoline tank, which had been opened to permit dumping, attempted to rush into the cabin, a virtual cauldron of flame, for one last effort, but the crowd held him back.

Major Idzikowski's body was not removed from the plane until day-break Sunday, a military guard standing by all night. A ceremony general was given at Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Polish training ship Iskra arrived at Santa Cruz at 5 p. m. Sunday and the body was withdrawn from its vault and placed aboard it for transportation to Poland.

The Iskra will bring the body and Major Kubala to Horta. Major Kubala's condition has caused no anxiety. He received painful injuries to the head.

It was just after 7 p. m. local time, (13 p. m. E. S. T.) Saturday when the big gray plane appeared over Graciosa. No one was able to indicate a suitable landing place.

The plane suddenly descended in a field a few miles from Santa Cruz and the village's entire population rushed to the scene, finding it upside down. It had crashed through a low stone wall where one wing was caught, swinging it around and capsizing it.

While the rescuers worked there a terrific explosion, the force of which threw the rescuers to the ground.

The plane immediately caught fire and several of the rescuers were burned. They saw the flames licking at the body of the luckless Idzikowski, and never abandoned their labor until they felt he was dead and it would be futile and dangerous to try further. The scene drove Kubala, painfully injured, almost to frenzy.

Hunt's Craterian Wednesday

Scene from "The Time, The Place and the Girl"

College football heroes have been good-naturedly satirized in "The Time, The Place and the Girl" from the famous stage success, around a character who is a composite of all the gridiron heroes of the day.

It is a talking and singing picture coming to Hunt's Craterian tomorrow.

FOUNDER OF WALLACE OPEN AIR SCHOOL ON VACATION VISIT HERE

Nestled in the hills of Piedmont, California, is the Mary Wallace school, limited to 40 students, with all the classes in the open under the trees. Mary Wallace described her unique plan yesterday as she sat in the room of her hostess, Dr. Emily Holton at the Hotel Medford, looking out the window at the hills of Medford. Miss Wallace has spent the past week enjoying the various scenic attractions and resorts of southern Oregon.

One of the most noted tutors in the state of California for many years, Miss Wallace decided five years ago to found a school upon the principles of education which aimed toward the fullest development of the individual. She did not care to teach the sub-normal child—rather to start with the normal one and develop him or her to the fullest capacity.

The physical as well as mental and spiritual phases were to be given their chance to grow. With all the classes held out of doors, the year round, this small school of children are kept in almost perfect physical condition. Even the ordinary cold, which Miss Wallace says is the bugbear of every instructor, has been almost entirely eliminated. Limiting the school to 40 students, including small boys through the grade school and girls up through high school, each child is given individual attention not only in scholarship, but in the acquisition of the social graces and in physical development.

Miss Wallace is now working on a book, describing her system of education, which she expects to have on the press in the not too distant future.

Ed Walsh holds the strikeout record for a world series game, killing off 13 in 1906.

SOCIAL CONTACTS FORM CHARACTER BOY SCOUTS TOLD

"You never meet a person, but what they change you—either for better or for worse," stated A. West last evening at the Boy Scout banquet of troop 7 at the Methodist church, south. Mr. West emphasized the fact that people are always influenced by those they meet. He told the boys to always try to influence others for right—"That is character building," he said.

Mr. West also said that if they ever joined organizations of any kind, to always support them, to be present at every meeting, or else not belong. He said they should always consider whether or not they intended to support this club, or lodge, whatever it might be, and if they could not support it 100 per cent, not to join. "You are just like dead wood clogging up a stream when you are merely a 'John', and take no active part in the work."

Following the banquet, which was prepared by Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. W. C. Rice and Mrs. Hattie Starkey, the regular scout meeting was held. Officers were elected, with the meeting in charge of Harold Burleson, scoutmaster, Billy Bray and Willard Crawford, who were elected patrol leaders, and Howard West, scribe and treasurer.

Points were counted for good turns, the number of boys in uniform, and advancements, to count on the contest between all the patrols in Crater Lake council, which includes Jackson and Josephine counties. The patrol having the most points by August 20, will take a trip to San Francisco by automobile, accompanied by their leader and W. L. Bricker. They will visit different scout camps on the trip, and will return by way of the Redwood highway.

New Officers of White Rock Co.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 16.—(AP)—The Last Man's club, organized 46 years ago by 314 members of B. Company, First Minnesota Volunteers, will hold its annual dinner next Sunday, but what once was a joyous banquet will be this year only a quiet dinner by three old men.

John F. Goff, 86; Peter O. Hall, 91, and Charles Lockwood, 87, are all that are left of the gallant company. This year they are dining at the home of Goff's daughter. In other days, the dinners were held at the inn in Stillwater, Minn., but now the survivors are too feeble to make the journey there.

In the center of the table Sunday night will be bottle of wine which was obtained at the first gay gathering and which will be used by the last surviving member to drink a toast to his departed comrades.

The dinner is held each year on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run.

Another Co-Operative Achievement

Co-operative organization in Medford has lowered buying prices for you even to the extent of cost selling, which is not good business for seller or buyer.

Independent business, organized for profit and profit only, is selling Sulphate of Ammonia at cost. Why?

Pool car buying and pool car selling methods originated by Co-operatives are adopted by independents and carried to an extreme. Why?

Co-operatives appear to be a success when their methods are so readily adopted and pushed.

THE MEDFORD FARMERS' EXCHANGE CO-OPERATIVE

is now in a position to meet any such pool deals, although it is not healthy business. Place your order for Sulphate of Ammonia with us now at 85¢ per ton. Price subject to change without notice.

POLES DUBIOUS OVER LATEST SHAW PLAY

WARSHAW.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw's play "Apple Cart" which had its world premier here, was received by the Polish people with serious question of its propriety, though it created much interest and was attended by leading Polish literary and political lights.

The play deals with an imaginary conflict between the King of England and Parliament in 1902, when America offers to give up its independence and become a dominion of the British empire. The king understands that this would mean that England would be swallowed immediately by the newer country.

The king decides to abdicate and run for a seat in parliament, but the prime minister withdraws a demand that the king resign the right of veto, rather than see him as a competitor in the house of commons.

Shaw was not present at the premiere. He is reported to have selected Warsaw for the opening because of interest here in things political.
