CROSS CONTINENT HITCH HIKE GIRLS FIND RIDING EASY

"New York to Los Angeles," was the legend painted on the back of the knapsacks of Evelyn Glanston and Paula Hagenstein, who have hiked from New York City since June 19 and are now on the last lap of their journey. The girls, who stopped in Medford last night and left for Los Angeles this morning, were dressed in leather jackets, one wearing a neat skirt and the other hiking pants. They went from New York to Chicago in five days.

"People have been very nice about giving us rides," said one of the young ladies. "We have made stops at all of the interesting places and we never travel on Sunday." They have been but 21 days on the road.

"A trip like this is a great experience and you can't get it on the 'tooth,'" said Miss Glanston. "We have ridden with all kinds of people, from bank presidents to movie directors, and have ridden in everything, including a hearse." The girls were caught in a storm on a long stretch of deserted road in Montana, and were "rescued" by a movie director. The ride in the hearse was also a very novel experience, according to the girls. A car dealer was delivering it to one of his customers and took the girls for 500 miles on their journey.

"We'll always have a soft spot in our hearts for Oregon, as it is one of the most beautiful states we have passed through, and the people have treated us wonderfully here," said the girls. "Every minute is different and we never know how the day will end, but it always seems to end happily. We are going to spend three or four weeks in Los Angeles and then hike back to New York from the southern route and get back to our jobs by the first or second and a half month's vacation is up."

Maurice Chevalier Coming Next Week

Maurice Chevalier comes to Medford's Grand Opera in the record-breaking all-talker, "Immaculate of Paris," July 24 to 27. When Maurice Chevalier made his debut at the Grand Opera in New York, the critics of the metropolitan were as one in sounding his praises. They said that he was Will Rogers, Charlie Chaplin and Al Jolson all under one straw hat, and the production, "Immaculate of Paris," is being proclaimed everywhere.

This French artist is a genius with something of the divine spark that made Beethoven immortal. "Immaculate of Paris" deals with the rise of a punch-drunk pianist and singer, who gets his chance, and makes good. The scenes are laid in the French capital. The setting is in a splendid style. Oil Storage Tanks Made in Medford

Campbell's Sheet Metal Works is now manufacturing iron oil storage tanks at the shop at South Grape street, the first ones being completed this week.

Oil tanks have never before been made in southern Oregon, and during the past year more than $2000 was spent by Campbell's for tanks shipped into Medford for their customers. J. L. Campbell, owner of the sheet metal shop, has installed an expensive Westinghouse electric welding machine, especially designed for manufacturing iron tanks in addition to the electric welding. Campbell's also do extensive welding.

Countryside Alarmed When Rocket Designed by Scientist to Explore the Upper Air Strata Traverses Sky

WORCESTER, Mass., July 19.—The search of a professor of physics at Clark university for a new propellant for rockets designed to explore the upper strata of the air, caused a sensation hereabouts, but left the result of the experiment—figuratively, at least—up in the air.

First reports from the isolated district in which Professor Robert H. Goddard had his 40-foot steel tower and experiment station, were that a flaming meteor had burst with a terrific detonation. Other persons thought an airplane had crashed, and so great was the excitement that two police ambulances dashed through the section looking for victims, while an airplane took off from the Grattan airport in search of the wreckage.

But to Professor Goddard the experiment was only an incident in 17 years of experimentation. He admitted that the projectile might have made slightly more noise than some of the others he has set off at various times, but declared nothing had exploded in the air and there had been no damage except that incident to landing.

He declined to say where the rocket had come down, and scout reports that he was attempting a trip to the moon, as had been rumored. Local statisticians figured that had the rocket been designed with that end in view it failed to reach its objective by something like 238,896 3/4 miles, but estimates of the altitude actually attained varied widely.

The rocket was nine feet long, about 2 1/2 inches in girth and was powered in such a manner that successive charges of explosive were designed to keep it shooting at an even pace through the sky. Professor Goddard said today he is undaunted by what happened, and will continue working on the contrivance.

He issued a statement in which he said that, to him, the experiment was satisfactory, despite the fact that a sensation was caused throughout the community by the results. Professor Goddard refused to discuss his plans further on the ground that he was working for the government in secret research.

President Wallace W. Atwood of Clark university, in speaking of the experiment, said: "Clark university supports Dr. Goddard in his work, as it is one of the greatest pieces of research work in the field of physics being made at this time in the country. We know little about the air. If Dr. Goddard can get his rocket up even 20 miles, the information concerning the atmosphere there would be invaluable."

PATIENCE REWARDED BY DISCOVERY NAME DICK KEEPS SECRET

After a patient wait by the Medford public for two years past, the first name of L. Walter Dick, head of the local weather bureau, who departs tonight for his new duties at Dubuque, Iowa, was here once known, no thanks to the erstwhile Oregonian, however, and now that the mystery has been solved, preparations for the future development of the city and for the big dedication celebration of the new airport can be continued without further distraction.

That name, so long disguised by the initials L. W. D., is not near so bad, as has generally been suspected, and why the weather gentleman did not proudly proclaim it seems incomprehensible. The name is Lester—Lester Walter Dick, sounds nice, doesn't it? It is hoped that when its owner returns to his native state, the land of his corn, he will no longer part it.

The solving of the mystery came about in a peculiar way. It seems that Mr. Dick is an alumnus of the University of Chicago, or something like that, and a letter in a large envelope came to him the other day from the university, a fellow Klansman or one of the Chicago beer gunmen, addressed to Lester W. Dick, which lay on his desk for hours while he was away, staring all wailing in the face.

Mr. Dick and family leave for Dubuque, Iowa, this evening, and his leaving will be regretted by many friends and acquaintances, but will be especially deplored by members of the Medford National Rifle club, of which he has been one of the most active members during his residence here. He is a crack shot with both rifle and pistol and was one of Iowa's and St. Louis' best marksmen before coming here, and had won medals at the national rifle shoots at Camp Perry, Ohio.

The first name of Wm. J. Hutchinson, who succeeds Mr. Dick here, is "Bill."

Because the severe winter killed many bees, Iowa expects a smaller apple crop. Bees act as pollenizing agents.

SEATTLE MAN NOW HALE AND HEARTY AT 70

If anyone told you that one single medicine had relieved tens of thousands of suffering men and women in all walks of life of their health troubles and that it had put thousands of men and women herebefore unable to find relief, back to work—it would sound impossible, wouldn't it? But that is just what is happening right here in the Northwest, and throughout the country wherever this celebrated medicine has been introduced. Not only has it brought these people new-found health and strength, but it has brought them new energy, vitality and a new lease on life itself.

Among the latest to pay rich tribute to the remarkable powers of Sargan, this new and epoch-making medicine, is Carl G. Richtofen, 4214 Carlton Ave., Seattle, Mr. Richtofen has lived in Seattle for twenty years. He recently said:

"When my friends tell me how strong and lively I seem, I am quick to tell them I've taken Sargan. Sargan has done it for me. For years my stomach caused me so much trouble I was afraid to eat, because I had shortness of breath, dizzy spells and heartburn after every meal. I wasn't sick enough to go to bed and call a doctor, but I just wasn't right. I never got a good night's sleep, and I lost weight. Always felt lead in the stomach, and was weak and played my golf poorly. I tried all the medicines I could get, but no any lasting benefit until I took the Sargan treatment. Now I eat and enjoy hearty meals, every bit of my strength has come back, and I honestly feel 20 years younger. My nervousness is gone, I sleep fine, and it is marvelous the way my stomach and general nervous system has cleared and my color is rosy and healthy. Sargan may be obtained in Medford from the Magic Drug Co. —Paid adv.

EARWIG SUBJECT OF RADIO PLAY TUESDAY

The lovely earwig, which has fallen in the considerable newspaper publicity and biting criticism, as a community nuisance, has now been made the subject of a radio play by that title. To be presented by the Capone Players over KMER (the Mail Tribune) station next Tuesday night from 8:30 to 10:30. The play, a two-act playlet, promises all the popular appeal that its title suggests.

It will be difficult, of course, to find appropriate music to accompany the scenes of such a play, as we are so far as can be learned, has never been inspired to write melodies to an earwig. Such questions will be gladly received, and may be placed into the Capone office before next Tuesday. These taking part in "The Earwig" are: Eddie Davis, Dorothy Ross, Fletcher Fish and Mary Greiner.

Neighbors Woodcraft Teams Enjoy Picnic

The Neighbors of Woodcraft lodge held picnic Wednesday afternoon at the Ever Shady auto park, which proved a great success. Sometime ago they launched a campaign for more membership. They chose two candidates, Mrs. Martha Cobleigh and Mrs. Montgomery. The side winning was to be given a feed by the side losing. The deciding vote was taken a short time ago and it was found that Mrs. Cobleigh had the winning team.

The losers, to show their sportsmanship, gave the winning team the fine picnic. About 20 ladies in all attended. Lunch was served about 2 o'clock, and all declared they had spent a most enjoyable time.

Through the contest the membership of the lodge was almost doubled, and the interest and enthusiasm greatly increased.

Trampled by Team LA HONOLUA, Cal., July 18.—(AP)—San Gregorio witnessed an unusual accident for this motorized age when Ernest Elliott, 27, was trampled to death by a team of runaway horses.

Harvey's Shell Oil station No. 2, the newest and one of the most attractive gasoline stations in Medford, will be officially opened for business tomorrow.

Work was started on the station just north of the city hall at the corner of North Front and Sixth streets three weeks ago, under the supervision of E. A. Koehler, of Portland. The entire cost of the station is approximately $10,000.

The super building is 2 1/2 by 50 feet in size, and up-to-date equipment for greasing, washing and tire repairing is being installed. A large office and storage room will be at the rear end of this structure. A feature of the new station is the excellent lighting arrangement. Four powerful lights have been placed at advantageous points to illuminate every corner of the place and the street for a block in each direction.

Practically all of the material for the building was furnished by local firms and all of the construction work was done by Medford men.

M. M. Harvey, well-known local man who has grown up with the city of Medford, and operates a Shell station on South Riverside will be on hand tomorrow morning to greet his friends at the new station.

R. L. Doty of Sacramento, arrived here this week to take charge of Harvey's station No. 2.
