

VALLEY PEARS WIN FAVOR IN EAST SECTIONS

Gain Robinson, Owen-Oregon Sales Manager Says Fruit Wins Universal Praise — Finds Business Good and General Optimism.

Allthough everyone knows that Medford had a record fruit crop last year in the matter of size, few realize how high it was in quality, according to G. H. Robinson, sales manager of the Owen-Oregon company, who returned Thursday from a business trip to Chicago, New York, and way stations.

"The Owen-Oregon company sent out boxes of pears to its customers last Christmas, and Robinson, "and invariably when I called on them the first thing they remarked on was the wonderful fruit. I have never heard such universal praise, and this should bring results for every customer we have within some more Medford pears, as soon as they are available."

The business conditions that continue good and a general spirit of optimism is apparent, although some business men wonder how long it will be before the stock market breaks. Others maintain the decline is not even in sight, but values are due to soon even higher.

St. met Lew Bahrman in New York City. The business Medford has is making a great success in building and selling fine residences in the vicinity of White Plains. These residences sell all the way from $50,000 to $100,000 each. No one big. But a hundred thousand is nothing in New York. At least that's the way it seemed to me. Everybody is rich."

COURTROOM HAS BRAND NEW CLOCK

The Jackson county circuit court room now boasts a new clock, the gift being prompted by a suggestion of Miss Jessie Masten, court reporter, and executed through the judicial influence of Judge Alex Snarrow. Of the Western Union variety, the beautiful mahogany time keeper, with the smiling, clean face, will be kept in time through the service of the telegraph company.

The old Seth Thomas clock, which it is said belonged to Judge C. M. Thomas, was removed by the latter to his office yesterday, according to court house officials. Having long grown temperamental, the more elderly clock had to be replaced along its own terms of a trade upon which Justice Lewis played the Romney and Juliet role to make away the hours.

NORMAL SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN

The second term of the northern Oregon Normal School summer session will open at Ashland today with an enrollment approximating that of the regular term, according to Superintendent Holmes Carter, county school superintendent.

The first term of six weeks, closed Friday, many of the instructors and students taking their leave for vacation resorts to different parts of Oregon, California, Washington and even more distant points. The enrollment for the first term reached 275 students, the largest number ever gathered here for any summer school.

The instructors and students who remain through the entire summer session of 12 weeks will have only about three weeks vacation period before the regular Fall term opens September 18.
