

MUTINY IN U. S. PRISON IS RENEWED

Leavenworth Trouble Starts at Breakfast — Convicts Hurl Plates About Mess Hall — One Killed and Three Wounded Thursday Riot—Crowding, Idleness, Blamed.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, Leavenworth, Kans., Aug. 2. (AP)—A fresh outbreak among convicts was reported here today following yesterday's mutiny in which one prisoner was killed and three wounded.

The trouble today was reported to have started when a large group of convicts refused food at breakfast and hurled plates, cups and saucers about the mess hall.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—The department of justice announced today that a report from Warden Thomas B. White said the riot in the Leavenworth prison was due to the overcrowded condition of the prison and the lack of work for the prisoners.

The warden said the trouble started at the noon hour when the convicts objected to their meal of rice. This demonstration, he advised, was quieted, some of the convicts being sent to their cells and others to the shoe factory where another demonstration took place and these convicts were taken to their cells.

A third demonstration broke out, he continued, at early mess in the evening, when the inmates threw utensils about the place and were otherwise disorderly.

White said he tried to stop it by getting most of the men to their cells, where they broke off part of the cells, shattering the fixtures and bricks at the windows. It was then, his report said, that riot guns were brought into play to protect the guards, and Miles Martinez was killed and Harold V. McLaughlin, John J. Jones and Fred Connors were wounded, none of them fatally.

HUNGARIAN CROWN JEWELS REPORTED FOUND IN AFRICA

By George Haladjian
(Associated Press Correspondent)
BUDAPEST (AP)—The "Hungarian Treasure," the Hungarian crown jewels which were stolen from Vienna in 1927, are reported as having turned up in French Morocco. Police of this kingdom and of France are working on the case.

A member of ex-Empress Zita's household, who followed the royal family into exile in Spain, said that those jewels should not be confused with the family jewels belonging to the late Emperor Carl. Those were distributed, this court official said, by jewel sharks who sold them for less than their real value and squandered the proceeds, leaving Zita and her eight minor children destitute.

The jewels reported to have been found in Africa were those set in the diadem, mounted by the crown of St. Stephen, which the late Empress Maria Theresa used to wear on special occasions in the royal palace in Budapest. According to the police report an Italian offered them for sale to a Jewish dealer at Saffi, French Morocco. The dealer informed the police and the Italian was arrested. He is said to have pleaded that he was the innocent tool of persons prominent in the social life of Austria.

The family jewels form the subject of another story. Large quantities of diamonds, pearls, rubies and emeralds, many of them wedding presents to Zita, have been auctioned in London, Paris and Geneva and the member of her household who told about them said that some of those gems are being worn by rich Americans who are unaware of their origin.

When Carl abdicated in 1918, he and his family were allowed to take only personal jewelry into exile with them. Large quantities of them were sold in 1921 and 1922 by Baron Charles Steiner, master of the late emperor's household.

In 1926 Zita began suit in Switzerland to recover some of the proceeds from these sales. It was charged that the baron had disposed of a number of gems without her knowledge at too low a price and without giving her the benefit of the proceeds. She accused Steiner of embezzlement, but the Swiss courts dismissed the action and gave the baron nominal damages of 100 francs. The ex-empress then turned to the French courts and brought suit against some Parisian jewelers in the Rue de la Paix, the Fifth avenue of the French capital, charging that they had acquired at high prices many of the jewels which Baron Steiner had sold in Switzerland.

The jewelers replied that they had bought the stones in good faith through an intermediary after they had convinced themselves that this agent had full authority to conduct the transactions. They further contended that the purchase money had been duly turned over to Zita. Archibald Mack, Zita's brother-in-law, and the Princess Stéphanie and Xavier de Bourbon de Parme testified in behalf of Zita, but again her suit was dismissed.

DAWES TELLS HOW TO SUCCEED AS DIPLOMAT

LONDON (AP)—General Dawes explained at a dinner the other night how he "the least experienced diplomat that has ever been to the Court of St. James" solved his problem of diplomatic success. It just follows the lead of the Japanese ambassador who is my senior here," he explained. "When he speaks, I speak and when he bows, I bow."

The previously inscrutable face of the Japanese ambassador, who sat by the American ambassador, was wreathed in smiles at the conclusion of General Dawes' remarks.

WATER ROUTE TO ENGLAND IS PLAN FOR FRUIT

Jefferson Myers of U. S. Shipping Board Visits Valley—Tells of Projected Refrigerator Ship Line to Europe.

"The markets of foreign countries are deeply interested in the fruit washing process used in Medford," according to Jefferson Myers, member of the United States Shipping board, who, accompanied by his wife, is in Medford visiting his sister, Mrs. Laura West. Foreign market inspectors accept fruit which has gone under this process without further inspection, say fruit men from London.

Mr. Myers is on an inspection tour, authorized by the U. S. Shipping board, to investigate conditions along the Pacific coast. There are 500,000 tons of fruit shipped from the Pacific coast each year, part of which comes from the Rogue River valley, he said, and the purpose of the trip is to investigate feasibility of establishing an American flag line to operate from the coast to London from which point the fruit is distributed to other parts of Europe.

These ships are to be equipped with modern refrigeration, which will decrease the amount of loss approximately 50 per cent. Fruit that has been through the washing process also keeps better, according to reports received by Mr. Myers.

If the Flagship line is established, cooling plants for storage will be constructed in London, where all fruits sent from the United States will be stored until the best prices can be obtained. With the establishing of the line, it will be possible for shippers to send fruit directly to London without having to pay rail freight charges to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers left Washington, D. C., July 10, and came by boat to San Francisco. The three liners, California, Virginia and Pennsylvania which were the first motor driven ships in the world, are operating between New York and San Francisco. These liners can accommodate about 800 passengers and have capacity of about 27,000 tons, making it possible for them to carry a large amount of freight also. Mr. and Mrs. Myers came by this route, which touches at Havana, allowing a several hours' visit in that city. They also went to Baltimore, the capital in Panama. "Alligator boats" sold for 15 cents a dozen there," said Mr. Myers, "and we pay from 75c to a dollar apiece for them in Washington."

After stopping in Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, Mr. and Mrs. Myers will tour Alaska to gain information on the general transportation situation, to determine the best method of handling the products. They will return to Washington by way of Boise, Denver and Chicago.

The official gave a talk before the Chamber of Commerce at San Francisco before coming here, and also met and talked with other organizations in cities en route. Although he had received an invitation to speak in Sacramento, Mr. Myers could not stop over.

Mr. Myers is an "Oregon man" and is prominently known throughout the state, having been state treasurer when Walter Pierce was governor, and was also a member of the state board of regents for the University of Oregon.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Myers are members of the Russellville grandstand near Portland. They received their seventh degree at the same time as Senator McNary.
