

DRY AGENT LOST AFTER BOAT FIGHT

Border Patrol and River Cruiser Owner Struggle In Water When Agents Order Craft To Shore—Wife Tells of Fight in Detroit Waters

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—(AP) Both sides of the story of the disappearance of Richard J. Sandlands, federal prohibition agent attached to the customs border patrol, missing since early Saturday when he boarded a cruiser suspected of irregularities in the Detroit river, were in the hands of customs authorities today.

Maxine Heath, 24, wife of John M. Heath, elevator mechanic, appeared voluntarily before customs officials last night and told their version of the affair. Sandlands was last seen after the seizure of their boat, Max H. Finkelson, attorney for Heath and his wife, said he would attempt to locate Heath and bring him to the customs office for questioning today.

Mrs. Heath told the customs officials Sandlands was last seen after her husband had escaped from him during a struggle in the river.

The woman was released after four hours' questioning. She said she and her husband had been living aboard their boat since May 15 and neither of them knew the official was missing until they read newspaper accounts.

Heath communicated with federal officers through his attorney last night and admitted that he left the customs agent floundering in the swift current of the Detroit river after a fight during which both men fell into the water from the deck of Heath's boat.

Heath swam back to his craft, the "Maxine," he said, and he saw no more of Sandlands.

Max H. Finkelson, Heath's attorney said Sandlands boarded the Heath craft in mid-stream and without identifying himself attempted to force Heath to dock at an East Side mooring post.

Because of the presence of several men on the dock, Finkelson said, Heath feared he was to be hijacked or his wife harmed, and after Sandlands and his companion in a speedboat alongside the Maxine had refused for the third time to show their badges, Heath grappled with the boarder.

Grange Motto

In essentials, liberty; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity.

Cooperation

Friends, there's something I want to ask you.

Something I think we should do.

Let's all join the construction gang.

And not the wrecking crew.

Service

And he gave it for his opinion "that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together."—Swift.

it should be will take the combined cooperation of city and county alike. Practical cooperation will produce marketing machinery that will bring greater profits to the producer and lower prices of food stuffs to the consumer. The spread between these two must be reduced. Marketing of the crops must be more direct.

The economic success of Jackson county does not simply mean securing of a larger payroll for the county, but to make the people already living in the county, both in city and country, more prosperous.

To increase the profits of the producer and to decrease the cost to the consumer should be the aim of every business man, granger or householder in the county. Cooperation will do it.

Every granger interested in the economic and legislative program of the grange should attend this meeting. Keep posted on what the Pomona is doing along these lines and cooperate.

Attend this meeting even if you are not a Pomona member, for the business is largely done in the fourth degree.

Especially do we urge the members of all marketing and legislative committees of subordinate granges to attend, Saturday at Central Point, 8 p. m.

Eagle Point Grange

Eagle Point grange will meet on Tuesday, August 6, at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. L. T. Lathrop of Central Point, a member of the committee on education of the Pomona grange, will speak during the lecture hour. Mrs. Lathrop is a student of practical agricultural education in rural schools, and presents the facts as she sees them in an interesting manner. She misses no words and wastes no time, but goes straight to the heart of her subject, presenting her ideas in a broad and comprehensive manner.

The new grange hall is nearing that stage of completion so that we will soon be able to use it as a meeting place for the grange.

Eagle Point Juvenile

The Juvenile grange put on their little entertainment last Wednesday, July 31, with the assistance of several adult friends, netting a sufficient amount to purchase some much needed equipment.

After the introduction of the Juvenile grange an interesting exercise, "Presenting the Flag," was given; then a patriotic drill; a violin solo by Lyle Smith; harmonica duet, Grace and Henry Holman; recitation by Maurice Jack, "My Paw Said So"; a speaking, acting duet by Evelyn Jack and Dorothy Vestal; a skit, "How the United States Got its Flag," by Mery Jack, Maurice Jack, Earl Harnish, Elmer Har-

Pomona Grange

A special meeting of Pomona Grange will be held at Central Point on Saturday, August 10, at 8 p. m.

This meeting is called particularly to discuss legislation, but there will be some special committee reports on marketing problems.

Satisfactory legislation and marketing are the two big subjects which will hold the attention of the Pomona grange for some time to come. At every meeting there is more or less discussion on these subjects. Practical plans are gradually being formulated and we believe the time is not far distant when Jackson county grangers will have evolved a practical marketing system for their products.

The wealth of Jackson county lies largely in its agricultural resources. To develop the agricultural industry of this county as nish, Lyle Smith and Henry Holman; a recitation by Mary Harnish and a statuette posing of "The Goddess of Liberty," by Barbara Smith. Some of the friends who assisted in the program were Bill Holman, the singing cow-boy of Eagle Point, two chanty songs; an accordion solo by Fred Hoberrecht Jr., a fancy solo dance by Sylvania Hoberrecht and several accordion solos by Fred Hoberrecht Sr., all of Winter. The Hoberrecht family are splendid entertainers and we appreciate very much their assistance. Ice cream and cake were served after the program.

SHE THOUGHT:

"You look stunning—too bad you're so careless about 'B.O.'"

Yet, to be polite, SHE SAID:

"I love your new dress, Laura."

So attractive-looking... yet unpopular! Can it be "B.O."?

SLIM! Stylish! Chic! Laura was stunning in her lovely, new frock.

But what did it avail her? Men admired Laura's smartness—but they avoided her company. Women openly envied her beauty, but secretly pitied her.

Yes—another case of "B.O."—Body Odor! And Laura never suspected it until a newspaper ad aroused her suspicions. "B.O." isn't hurting Laura any longer. She keeps perspiration odorless now—easily, too!

Now—no fear of "B.O." even in hot weather
