

GOOD COOKING NOT MATTER OF MERE CHANCE

Have you in your cooking, a problem which you have long wanted solved? A problem which, perhaps, has bothered you considerably and yet remains the elusive, insoluble one of years' experience in cooking?

This problem you will undoubtedly be able to solve this coming week when Miss Victoria Warner will be in Medford to give you such service as you long wanted.

Miss Warner is coming here under the auspices of the Southern Oregon Gas corporation and the Mail Tribune, and will conduct classes in practical cooking for four days of next week in the children's playgrounds, across the Bear Creek bridge, from 2 until 4:30 o'clock.

You will have the privilege of discussing any phase of cooking you may wish. Past experience has proven to other women elsewhere that Miss Warner is most gracious and kindly in answering questions and it is not probable that she will change her quality of service when coming to this city.

All questions will be answered as far as I am humanly able," Miss Warner is quoted as saying in an advanced interview, "regardless of what they are. These classes are to be your classes and I am coming to Medford to be of such service to you as I possibly can. These classes have always been very informal and I want you to feel that the ones we are to conduct together next week are to be no different. You may fire questions at me as fast as you can, and I assure you that I shall be very glad to answer all of them."

Archie from her aptness in solving problems, this expert dietitian has a most interesting and instructive way in explaining methods and ingredients; for instance, while she is making a delicious cake before your eyes, and you will not feel lost in a sea of meaningless words when she has finished her day's program.

The women of southern Oregon are urged to attend this novel method of holding a cooking school out-of-doors, under the shade of the trees.

HUSSONGS HOME FROM CALIFORNIA VACATION

Among the returning vacationists are Prof. E. M. and Mrs. Hussong from Mill Valley, Cal., where they passed a four weeks' visit with their daughter, Mr. Hussong brought with him a representative collection of pressed plant specimens of the peninsula flora, north of San Francisco, and many rock samples from the Mt. Tamalpais area, a most interesting one to geologists.

It seems Mr. Hussong's vacation was not an idle one for he says, "I made two trips about up the mountain, tramped through Muir woods twice and ranged about the bay region with the delight a naturalist finds in territory new to him. The friends were very kind to take us about in their automobiles but I preferred to travel on my legs so that I could look and linger at buzz, flower or rock, at my fancy."

Mr. Hussong also did some digging up of "roots and family trees" in the San Francisco city library for himself and friends, genealogy being a hobby he rides when records and history afford opportunity.

THOUSANDS WATCH HER FAMOUS HANDS

Irma Wright, Champion

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Miss Irma Wright, world's amateur champion typist, demonstrates her speed and methods to audiences all over the country. Since the championship contest last September, high gatherings in city after city have watched her skilled hands at work.

Her speeding fingers, so smooth and white, never betray the fact that Miss Wright keeps house... and washes dishes, too!

"I used to hate dishwashing," she says frankly, "because it left my hands embarrassingly red and so roughened that it reacted on my speed. Of course the soaps I was using were to blame. I knew that the minute I tried Lux in my dishpan. Lux felt entirely different from ordinary soaps. Lux acts very soothingly!"

"And my hands were whiter and softer after doing the dishes than before! Now I wouldn't think of doing dishes with anything but Lux—Lux makes it so much easier to be both home-maker and champion."

ART DIRECTOR'S VISIT GAVE IDEA FOR FORD TRIBUTE TO MEDFORD

An interesting story was being told in Portland yesterday of the "story" back of an advertisement of the Ford Motor company appearing in current magazines which pays tribute to the "air-mindedness" of the city of Medford. Incidentally, the story gives an insight into the manner in which advertising ideas are "brought."

Some months ago, Vaughn Flanning, art director for N. W. Ayer & Son, one of the world's largest advertising agencies, was en route to Portland from San Francisco, making the trip by air, when he stopped a day in Medford.

It was at that time when Medford was conducting a campaign to finance a new airport by a bond issue. The issue, by the way, carried by a majority of 2245 to 182 as is chronicled in the advertisement.

Flanning was on his way to visit his wife's parents in Portland. His wife was formerly Miss Elizabeth Fittinger—Oregonian.

The first four feet above the grade will be of granite and the rest of the building will be constructed of terra cotta. It is estimated that seven carloads of granite, with a minimum of 24,000 pounds to the car, will be shipped to Salem.

NEW ASHLAND FOUNTAIN HAS REFRIGERATION

ASHLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—(Spl.) The old refrigeration equipment which was found inadequate for cooling the water in the Plaza Luthia fountain, is to be installed in the new Mickelson fountain which is being constructed in the small triangular park in front of the city library. While the refrigeration unit was the small for the Plaza fountain, it will be entirely adequate for the new fountain which has only half as many bottles, and which will not have so many visitors as the one in the middle of town.

When it was learned that the contract did not call for a refrigeration unit in the Mickelson fountain a petition was circulated and funds were soon subscribed for the purchase.

ASHLAND EXHIBIT OF ART CLOSING SUMMER SESSION

ASHLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—(Spl.) The Ashland summer art school, conducted by Miss Belle Cady White of the Pratt Art Institute of New York City, will close the summer session on Friday with an exhibit of work done by the students. The display will be held at the Civic clubhouse from 2 to 5 o'clock and in the evening from 7:30 to 9:30. A general invitation is extended to all to view the interesting collection and meet the instructors.

The school has offered a variety of courses each year and each session makes some new offerings that have not been included in the previous programs.

Stanley Benschler has instructed a class in illustration, for a great variety of things, including class paintings, for well known stories, and the three types of music—classical, popular and jazz.

Miss Marguerite Hansen has conducted a class in art appreciation which follows the course that was given last year. The last year's course presented the subject in its historical aspects and in chronological order, a general survey of the graphic arts, sculpture, architecture and painting, with particular attention to line, value and color.

This year the art appreciation has followed intensive study of color. The first week's outline included the theory of the spectrum to color, the theory and psychology of color. This instruction was supplemented by illustrations done by the student to show the decorative, plastic and scientific values of art, and there were attempts at the illustration of the dramatic and emotional qualities of color.

One other line of work that was offered this year for the first time was costume designing for illustration and design under the instruction of Miss Marguerite Hansen. This work was undertaken to give the artist the ability to reproduce ideas in illustration work such, for instance, as the illustration of magazines, and also to teach the artistic garment for the individual figure.

The work of the art school closes on Friday with the morning classes, and after the exhibit of work the instructors and the students from a distance will be leaving for their homes.

NOTICE.... To Theatre Patrons

How many of you remember Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's wonderful picture of the African jungle, "SIMBA," that was shown in Medford several months ago as a road show at $1.00 and $1.50?

For weeks after this picture was shown we were repeatedly asked if it would ever return. Many had failed to see it, and many wished to see it again.

We now have an opportunity to present, in the very near future, a return engagement of this great picture at the RIALTO THEATRE, but, inasmuch as the Rialto policy is strictly first-run attractions, we want you, as the people we are serving, to decide for yourselves. I would like to see a return engagement in Medford of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's "SIMBA."

P. S.—It is understood that the return of this coupon is considered a great favor by the management of the theatre, will be held in strictest confidence and in no way places the sender under any obligation.
