

COMMUNITY AIDS GIRL SCOUTS TO ESTABLISH CAMP

The Medford Girl Scout camp is now a very completely equipped camp, due in no small way to the community aid given it. The Medford Lumber yard and local Boy Scouts built the kitchen and dining room, which is a permanent structure. The large kitchen range was sold by the Montgomery Ward store at less than cost. The kitchen sink was donated by S. H. Evans, painter, and the eight foot drain board by the Big Pine Lumber company. The cook's table in the kitchen is due greatly to the convenience in having hot and cold running water. This was made possible through the courtesy of the Medford Plumbers association, who furnished all materials, parts and pipes for the water system, and installed it in addition, Campbell Sheet Metal works made and donated the outside furnace which heats the water for the system. The Medford Ice and Storage company donated the services of their carpenter, and H. W. Conger loaned a truck for several days for hauling materials to camp. All materials in construction were obtained from the Medford Lumber company and Big Pine Lumber company at a reduced rate. The Davis Transfer did all drainage and hauling for half price. The sleeping tents and kitchen utensils belong to the Boy Scouts and are being used by the Girl Scouts through the courtesy of the local Boy Scout council, who have cooperated in every way. Although sickness and accident are as yet unknown at the girls camp, a complete first-aid cabinet has been filled by the following drug stores: Jarman & Woods, Medford Pharmacy, Magills, Heath, Strang, Colvins, Westside and Eastside. The Shell Oil company donated fifteen gallons of kerosene for the kitchen oil range.

GRIFFLE PLEADS FOR CAUTION IN FOREST SMOKING

To the Editor: As you enter any lumber yard or saw mill you will find posted in conspicuous places signs which read "No Smoking," "No Smoking Beyond This Point," "Positively No Smoking." Some times these are in bold red letters; sometimes in all red signs. You will find similar signs in many other places, including parts of the national forests, many privately owned logging operations, Indian reservation lands, etc. These latter restrictions are for the periods of fire danger in the woods—during the dry, hot days, when more or less wind is prevalent and the humidity is low. They are to protect lives and property against loss and damage by fire. Some people are as safe with fire as an air-tight heater, some reasonably careful, and some, very careless. In the mill and lumber yard you will find water piped to every part of the premises, fire hose every little distance—and in places the hose strung out so one man can easily turn on the water and squelch a fire in the fraction of a minute. The loss of half a million board feet of cordwood, R. B. ties or lumber sounds terrible. It is. But it does not take a big forest fire long to destroy several million board feet of lumber. The wood, ties or lumber may be replaced in a few days. To replace the forest requires years, probably hundreds of years—and a loss to all of us in the meantime. Timber is a resource. Trees are valuable. It does not matter where they are or in whose name the ownership is vested. Trees in your city are of money value to you, they may not enjoy their fruit or shade. To smoke in the mill or lumber yard means to lose your job. Not to smoke in the woods is looked upon by some with contempt. Compare the hazard: the possible loss. Compare the protection against a conflagration in two places. Compare the value to the public (you and me), and I doubt if you will need to be cautioned again about smoking in the woods. Yours for more trees, JOHN E. GRIFBLE, KIPK, Oregon.

PEAR CROP WILL EXCEED AVERAGE YIELD OF STATE

The 1929 production of pears in Oregon is estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, which is larger than the average of 1,661,000 bushels, but less than the 1928 crop which was 2,700,000, according to the regular August first report of Paul C. Newman in charge of the Federal State Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. The estimate for the apple crop is placed at 6,932,000 bushels which though considerably larger than the estimate of a month ago is still much below the average. Of the total production of apples it is estimated that 1,461,000 barrels will make up the total commercial apple crop of Oregon. The peach production for Oregon is estimated at 298,000 bushels, which is much below last year's crop of 232,000 bushels and also below the five-year average of 291,000 bushels. The estimate for grapes is unchanged from the July 1 estimate of 1928 tons compared to the production last year of 2,025 tons. All hay crops, alfalfa and barley have dropped since July 1. The drop in the case of hay is most serious and is causing some concern as present indications point to a possible winter feed shortage in some sections, which may be serious, depending on the severity of the winter, according to the report. The Oregon potato crop shows an increase over the July 1 report and is now estimated at 5,316,000 bushels which is still less than the 6,240,000 bushels produced last year.

DISTRIBUTION OF BAIT FOR EARWIG FINISHED IN CITY

The work, under the supervision of County Fruit Inspector Elmer B. Ostman of southern Oregon, has been completed. 1290 pounds of the poison bait being distributed throughout Medford. According to Inspector Ostman, property owners cooperated in the work and it was necessary to file a lien against the property owner for the collection of the cost of the preventive measure. All authors paid their bills at the conclusion of the work. Under the state law, the lien will be collected with the next taxes. Inspector Ostman says that the poison is highly successful and that a decrease in earwig damage is noticeable. The object of earwig is to keep the poison bait moist as the earwig will not eat it if dry. The poison should be moistened every other evening, under present weather conditions, Inspector Ostman advises. The inspector says that the poison curbs the earwig to the point where they will not eat up the bushes. He says that the community will not be bothered by the pest, but can reduce the evil to the minimum by the bait route. Some of the poison bait was distributed in Ashland, but in a small proportion to the rest, Inspector Ostman says.

PORTER LAD REPORTED OR ROAD TO RECOVERY

Jack Porter, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter of Medford, Cal., who suffered a double fracture of the skull last Thursday evening, when the car he was riding in, driven by S. W. Swenning of Ashland, left the road and hit a telephone pole, is "very much better," according to word received from the Community hospital in Ashland, where he was taken after the accident. For several days his recovery was doubtful, but he will be all right in a short time, said attendants at the hospital today.

SCOUT JAMBOREE BE HELD AUG. 30

Plans for the second annual Boy Scout jamboree at the Army August 29, in which all troops of the council will be represented in some way, are progressing rapidly and it promises to be even a bigger success than the one held last year. The show will open with a grand march and special chorus by the glee club, being trained by Miss Williams, American Legion play-ground director. The glee club coached by Miss Williams last year was one of the hits of the show. An extensive program of competitive events is being worked out for the jamboree as well as exhibit booths for the different troops. Points will be awarded for the various events and the winning patrol will be taken on a gypsy tour to California. Troop specialties will be presented in some of the competitive events, consisting of stunts, first aid demonstrations, signaling and other things connected with scouting. Ample time will be provided for persons attending the show to see the Scout exhibits before and after the competitive events are presented. Wall scaling, team of eight from each troop all of which will have to scale a wall 2 1/2 feet high, crab race, Scouts race on hands and feet, fire by friction (fire to be made with natural materials found in the United States and no artificial tinder); fire by flint and steel; first aid race. Two Scouts from each troop will bandage a third, the first team to finish wins, signaling, a team of four men will send and receive a 20 word message; merit badge exhibits; model airplane, judged on speed, stability, control, style and stunts, and troop stunts, stunts is optional with troop. Point scored on all of the above exhibits and contents will be counted toward the patrol contest for the California gypsy tour award.

ASHLAND PIONEER WRITES STORY OF SOUTHERN OREGON

ASHLAND, Ore., Aug. 14.—(Sp.) A bit of the early and romantic history of southern Oregon has been put into permanent form by Mrs. Mary Dunn of Ashland, who for some time has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ella Dunn of Portland. The work of assembling the material and of supervising the publication was done by Mrs. Mary E. Stevens, a granddaughter of Mrs. Dunn, who lives at Eugene, Ore. Mrs. Stevens also wrote the charming foreword for the work, which has been given the title, "Undaunted Pioneers—A Tale," by Mary S. Dunn. The edition, which was printed in July, is bound in heavy brown board covers and is well illustrated with cuts of members of the Hill family of which Mrs. Dunn was a member, and includes a picture of the Dunn ranch east of Ashland, which is the original donation claim of Isaac Hill, pioneer. The book contains an appreciation of Mrs. Dunn's sisters, Mrs. Anne Russell and Mrs. Martha Gillette. The sketch of Mrs. Gillette was written by the late Mrs. Hazel McConnell Nims.

MEWAN, CALLISON HERE NEXT WEEK

John J. Mewan, head football coach at the University of Oregon, and Prince Callison, former Medford high school coach and now freshman football coach at this university, are expected to arrive in Medford early next week. Their trip here, it is understood, is for the purpose of interviewing local athletes entering college in September. Several former players have announced that they will enter the University of Oregon this fall. Among them are Bill Bowerman, Jack Hughes, Bernie Hughes, Bill Morgan, John Day and Clifford Moore. Al Stoelkr will attend the University of California and Ed Demmerle is going to the University of Nevada.

HOOD RIVER GROWER MOVING TO MEDFORD

J. P. Naumes, grower and shipper of fruits here for the past 29 years, will move to Medford, where he will devote his entire time to the interests of the Pacific Fruit and Produce company, of which he is manager for the Oregon district. Mr. Naumes is negotiating the sale of two local orchard places owned by him, one in the Odell district and the other in the Oak Grove district. He will also sell a packing plant which he has operated for a number of years at Odell—Pacific Coast Packer.

Louise Dresser at Rialto Tomorrow

"Not Quite Decent" comes to the Rialto theatre tomorrow. It is based on the story, "The Grouch," and so features June Collyer and Louise Dresser when the latter enacts the role of Mame Jarrow, former big-time vaudeville headliner who has reached the middle forties and is eling a livelihood as half owner, and chief entertainer in a speakeasy. Mame's daughter, Linda, played by Miss Collyer, whom she has not seen since childhood, comes to the speakeasy in the role of a designing man and the mother, unknown to the girl, saves her by sacrificing every moral shred of her own reputation.

NEW FAIRCHILD PLANE VIEWS LAKE FROM AIR

Visions of David E. Postle of the Fairchild Aircraft Corporation of an air tourist route to Crater Lake national park, following his flight over the lake Monday, would not meet with the sanction of the government, as Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, on his recent visit here, stated that there was a ruling to the effect that planes could not land in national parks. This, so far as is known, would not prevent a service being established for flights over the lake as long as no landings were made. Others who flew over the lake with Postle on Monday were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Young, Jack and Barbara Young of Medford; Pilot Montigo and Mechanic Costenbor. The flight was made in a new Fairchild plane which arrived in Medford en route north from the factory in New York.
