

TAKE BODY HEIER BOY BAKERSFIELD ON AUTO TRAILER

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Heier and their six children left for Bakersfield this afternoon with the body of little Walter Ray Heier, who was drowned yesterday in an irrigation ditch, in a trailer behind their car. A purse of $20 was made up by the campers at Rainey auto camp, where the family was staying, and the county added $10 to it as they were without funds, and had no way to get to Bakersfield, where their other two children, who are married, live.

GIRLS GIVE CAMP A NAME IN FINAL DAY OF ACTIVITY

All is now quiet at the Girl Scout camp on the Applegate, which has for the past three weeks been the scene of much activity and fun. The councilors and scouts have gone to their homes to prepare for the opening of school. Sunday afternoon the closing exercises were conducted in the presence of a number of the parents of the scouts and other visitors.

Advancement in scouting and merit badges were conferred upon those who had earned them by Captain Helen Wilson, after which the girls formed around the flag pole where the camp was officially given the name of "Wilpenpines," the first syllable being in honor of Mrs. Helen Wilson, leader of the Girl Scout movement in Medford; the second syllable being taken from the name Carpenter, in honor of Mrs. Leonard Carpenter, who has helped the girls in many ways and presided them with the camp site on the Applegate; the last syllable taken from the pines which abound.

Miss Alice Loeffler spoke in appreciation of the councilors and helpers in camp, the flag was lowered, scout songs were sung and with a rousing cheer for Miss Loeffler from the girls, the company prepared for the homeward move.

Vivian Cross, leader in the athletic stunts, plans to attend the U. of O. this fall. Dorothy Whitman, leader in swimming and archery, will attend the Medford High school. Mrs. Myra Russell, councilor, is a teacher in the Roosevelt school in Medford. Mrs. Ethel Willets, councilor in nature study, is also a teacher in the Roosevelt school in Medford. Miss Alice Loeffler, camp director after a visit to Crater Lake, will return to take up her work in the schools of Sioux City, Iowa.

The camp was a very successful one, many valuable lessons were learned in a most enjoyable way, and will always be a pleasant memory to all who were privileged to attend.

Development of compounding a process by which rubber products are now made to resist age

"Development of compounding a process by which rubber products are now made to resist age is credited to the B. P. Goodrich Rubber company. A committee of a number of the country's greatest industrialists and financiers reported that this Goodrich development saves the country $50,000,000 a year in prolonging the life of rubber products. When we realize that the life of rubber products has been increased to the extent of saving the people of this country $50,000,000 a year," said Mr. Lowd of the Lewis Super Service, Goodrich tire merchants here, "we begin to look about for something that compares with it and find nothing short of the process that made rubber products possible, that even approaches it."

Philip Sharp of Portland, head mechanic for the Pacific Air Transport service, who spent a few days in Medford on his vacation, left by plane yesterday for his home in the north. While here, Mr. Sharp enjoyed several of the surrounding scenic attractions, went fishing in the Rogue and spent some time on the Rogue Valley golf course. He pronounced Medford the ideal vacation spot and expressed a desire to return here for another more extended visit in the near future.

Eddie Van Syckle and Mr. Allen of Klamath Falls were two local visitors in the valley, having landed at the local airport yesterday in their Eagle Rock plane at 1:59. They took off late in the afternoon.

At Hunt's Craterian

Victor Metcalen demonstrates his qualifications for the title of the "he-man of the talking screen" in "The Black Watch," current attraction at Hunt's Craterian. It is the film adaptation of Talbot Mundy's "King of the Khyber Rifles," and many of the scenes are laid in the wilds of India. Myra Loy is cast as the temptress, wild princess who leads a revolt in the heart of India. Metcalen as Captain King becomes her trusted lieutenant. She loves him and finds out too late that he is one of England's cleverest secret service men, who has been sent to India to destroy her and her influence.

Coming to Rialto

What happens when a princess in ankle-length skirts, wearing a curled eiffure of the nineties above her winsome features, comes to New York and gets a glimpse of the flapper rule of these United States is one of the highlights of "The Exalted Flapper," coming to the Rialto tomorrow.

See Carol portray the princess and it need scarcely be said that she loses no time in acquiring a boyish bob, knee skirts, invisible hosiery and whatever else is needed to transform her into a bewitching "flapper." Whereupon she "steps out" a bit.

Light is a natural magnet of vision. Pedestrians cannot escape the penetrating influence of electric "flasher" signs. On-off On-off! It sets your message to rhythm—repeats it again and again—reminding, suggesting, urging. ELECTRIC SIGNS (illuminated boards and flashers) build business in direct proportion to their zone of radiation. Merchants frequently report trade increases of from 10 to 100 per cent after installation of larger signs. Trade growth is always well in excess of service cost.
