NEW AND BEAUTIFUL IN AUTUMN FASHION DISPLAY AT MANN'S

Everything that's new and beautiful in fall fashions was on display at Mann's department store today in observance of the 20th annual fall opening. Each department is featuring merchandise for the autumn and winter of 1929 and 1930.

Brown and blue print velvets and the new deep red shades are used in one of the front windows. The other displays smart black coats with luxurious fur and flares. H. S. Himm, decorator and advertising man for Mann's created an unusually attractive lighting effect for the windows by using large gold and black futuristic palms with bright centers.

Special emphasis is put on ready to wear and millinery during the three-day fall opening, as people begin to plan for fall and winter holiday affairs. There are hundreds of coats, dresses and hats from which to select the most becoming. And there are clever accessories so important to complete any ensemble, whether for day time or evening wear. The management of Mann's store invites its customers to come in and see what's Dame Fashion's favors for the coming fall and winter season.

COPCO LUNCHERS GET TRAVELOGUE BY L. F. IVANHOE

Members of the Copco Employees club enjoyed an interesting meeting of the Copco forum this noon.

Whether Medford or Klamath Falls is to get the annual state convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs of Oregon this coming spring is a matter still undecided by the state board, which has the final say. Both organizations extended invitations at the Eugene convention last May, with Medford receiving the biggest response from the 400 or more delegates present.

This matter deeply affecting the local club, will be discussed at tonight's meeting, which is called primarily for outlining future programs and for receiving the questionnaires sent out to members during the week. A number of committees will be appointed and other business will be brought up. The meeting is to be held on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Medford, with President Maude Chapman presiding.
