THE PERILS OF PLANE TRAVEL

THE terrible tragedy of the Transcontinental passenger plane, burned in the wilds of New Mexico with all on board, is being heralded as a crushing blow to aviation.

Nevertheless there is no more reason to believe that air travel will permanently affect air travel than similar accidents at sea have affected ocean travel.

Only the other day the San Juan went down near Santa Cruz with a loss of life nearly ten times as great as that on the T. A. T. air liner.

In fact, comparative statistics show that airplane travel is, when numbers of trips are considered, no more dangerous than water or motor travel.

Eventually people will come to realize this. For the time being, however, air travel is comparatively new, and accidents so sensational that tragedies such as befell this western-bound plane will shake public confidence to an extent that the facts scarcely justify.

LONG LIFE AND USEFUL LIVING

CONTEMPORARY points out the fact that Cecil Rhodes and William Jennings Bryan ate themselves to death.

Overeating may be an important cause of disease, although we have an idea the dangers are greatly exaggerated.

THE important thing, of course, is not the length of life, but its quality. Cecil Rhodes ate hard, but he also lived hard.

What this Indian chief did, we do not know, but probably very little outside of sleeping, eating and benefiting by the industry of the female members of the family.

OTHER things being equal, the human body is not unlike the automobile. Drive it hard and fast, and it accomplishes more but wears out more quickly.

But who wishes to be the oldest living graduate and nothing else? Taking care of one's health is only common sense.

Flappers Will Lead Drive on Crime, Turning From Cocktails and Dances to Business and Saner Viewpoint

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The American flapper is going to wield a whip hand in her country's drive for prevention of crime.

Gasoline and kerosene prices are set in Pennsylvania. A real price war may come.

The United States compelled Standard Oil to chop itself into several pieces, in primitive days, before we learned that the bigger the business the better for the country.

The British "Shell" company came over; it sells under the same name, from the brilliantly painted yellow automobiles, rents the best corners, cuts or raises prices as it pleases from Seattle to Miami and the United States government doesn't tell it to chop itself into pieces.

Parish Standard Oil will be allowed to fasten the pieces together again, or even make one oil company to fight the British invasion.

Clairmont Hunter, of Tennessee, was elected chairman of the Republican National Committee yesterday.

With the announcement of Mr. Huston's election came a jump of $3 a bale in the price of cotton. It was due to a cut of more than 700,000 bales in the crop report.

While Europe talks peace, it makes a deal that a real war is on at least as real as China can make it.

Twenty-seven European nations are working at a plan called "The United States of Europe plan." Germany says she will join, but not if there is an "anti-American pact."

That's another hint to President Hoover, and others responsible, to make this country strong enough to take care of itself.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, investigating Swedish control of the liquor problem, reports "No saloons, no profits for anybody, no prohibition, and

And with all her independence, she is turning to feminine frills and furberies again. Long skirts are coming back. They'll be swishing about our ankles in another year, I believe.

Lady Armstrong, born in America of English descendants, has herself been active in social service work for 20 years. She plunged into the work of the Ladies of Charity in 1902, after her father decreed that the life of an opera star, which she had selected, was "too strenuous" for her.

That is interesting, although you can't do anything about it here. Prohibition is in the constitution, and will stay.

Heavy fighting on the Russian-Chinese frontier, Shanghai says. Russians were driven back. That won't last. The real brains of Russia, not the czar and his grand dukes, are in charge of Russian forces now.

Japan reports heavy Russian artillery fire, and an entire town in flames.

Experienced poultrymen are a careful not to feed enough protein to force the birds into laying before maturity. For leucorrhoea this is about six months of age, and for Rocks and Reds about a month later. If the laying mash is gradually introduced before this maturity date, the birds will be ready to go into the laying house on full laying rations, says the Oregon experiment station.

WALKER MAKES GOOD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

It is likely the bad check charges that were facing Goldie Walker, arrested two days ago by the police for passing two annual checks, will not be pressed, according to the district attorney's office today.

Walker has made the checks good and may be given his liberty today as he had no previous bad record. Two ministers came to his defense to defend his record. In the first report of the case, Walker was accidentally named as Mrs. Goldie Walker.

The egg market was firm, but no price changes were noted. Fruit and dressed meats were steady.

As a result, peaches could be bought cheaper or at least as cheaply in Portland as at the shipping center in Yakima. Ellipticas were quoted at 40 cents to 41 a crate and the Hires at 75 cents to 81.

CURTISS VISITOR SAYS MEDFORD FOR AVIATION

The following comment on Medford appeared in an article published in the Oregon Journal on Sept. 8, in connection with the Curtiss plane squadron's visit:

Captain Calhoun was particularly pleased with enthusiasm shown in Oregon—Medford particularly—in aviation.

The whole town of Medford seemed there en masse. For a town of its size, I was very much surprised at the reception we got and at the enthusiasm shown for aviation.

They were particularly interested in making whatever improvements possible to encourage aviation in their section."

LEGION DRUM CORPS AT FAIR WEDNESDAY

A special feature of the opening day at the Jackson county fair tomorrow will be the appearance of the prize-winning Medford post drum corps.

The Legion boys will participate in the afternoon program and will furnish martial music for the school children's parade.

This is the first public appearance of the local corps since they won the state trophy at the Salem convention last month.

All members of the drum corps are expected to report at the fair grounds at 1 p. m.
