THIS BEWITCHING BRIDAL HEAD-DRESS seems lovelier when worn by Dolores Costello. She wears it in an all-talkie production picturing Russia under the tyranny of the czar.

AN ANTLER SPREAD OF 12 FEET was often attained by the prehistoric giant Irish deer like the one in this painting by Ernest R. Graham and presented recently to the Field Museum in Chicago. Irish deer were the big game of northern Europe until it became extinct.

A PERILOUS STUNT 31 stories up in the air seems not to worry Vera La Verne and Jacques Lafayette, thrill dancers, as they swing in wild figures above the sky line. They were the sensation of Europe last year.

THIS SMILE of pretty Miss Ella Van Heuson comes from the fact that she's back again after a trip abroad. She offers a picture of loveliness that deserves huge compliments.

ITS BOOM HAS BEEN SILENCED. A huge 14-inch gun protecting the entrance to Los Angeles harbor has been silenced pending settlement at Washington of the protest of San Pedro citizens that every time it fires it shatters panes and topples chimneys miles away.

HO FOR A SAILOR'S LIFE if this is a sample of it. The heart jumps a beat or two quicker when in a sailboat and you have to tack in a spanking breeze, as Judy Baldwin and Billy Wagner, above, did at Long Beach, Calif.

TWO FORWARD, TWO BACKWARD—and this quartet of mermen went off almost simultaneously for the cameraman at Higate, England.

RATHER FETCHING is this costume Myrna Loy uses in an all-talkie production. Of course, the role is that of a Burmese charmer.

IT LOOKS LIKE A YOUNG GULLY, but it is just one of the sandtraps the luckless ones in the national amateur golf meet contended with at Pebble Beach, Calif. Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston, who won the amateur crown, is shown making a beautiful rublick shot to the green. A sign that tells the story of the final match between Johnston and Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Ore., is shown below. Johnston and Glenna Collett, women's champion, are shown in the foreground.

THE HUGE GRAF ZEPPELIN caused Japanese to marvel when it was conducted into its hangar at Kasimigaura on its globe-girdling jaunt. This seems an unusually striking glimpse of the air liner.

THIS BEAUTIFUL MAUSOLEUM, with its approach of 354 steps, is where the body of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, famous leader of Chinese revolutionists, is interred. It resembles an Egyptian tomb, and has columns of thick, round, blue marble supporting floral wreaths presented by all nations. It is one of the show places of Nanking, China.

HUGE 30-PASSENGER PLANES soon will operate across Lake Erie between Detroit and Cleveland, and here are striking views of the Dornier-Wahl amphibian, the first assembled in the United States, which will be put into service. At top, a spectacular view of the plane in the air; below, on the water ready to take off.
