Home of Mrs. Ulrich.

D. A. H.'s Entertained.

The Crater Lake Chapter D. A. H. met at the home of Mrs. Ulrich, September 23rd, when the opening meeting and many plans of work for the forthcoming year were discussed. The chapter decided at this time to mark two historic spots, Fort Lane, near Tolo, and the old Birdseye home on the Pacific highway north of Medford.
A special program was rendered in honor of Constitution Day during which a very instructive paper was read by Mrs. D'Albini on the Constitutional Amendments.
Mrs. D'Albini mentioned the three periods in American history when amendments have been added, the first 12 having been made soon after the adoption of the Constitution and the 13th, 14th and 15th were added sixty-five years later as an outcome of the Civil war.
The third period may be said to be due to the increase in knowledge and the enormous advancement in industrial conditions when in a short space of eight years the last four amendments have been added each covering a widely different subject. Only two, the 12th and 17th, however, since the adoption of the Constitution 146 years ago in any way changed the original draft of the Constitution.
The first 10 amendments are known as the Bill of Rights and ### sets forth more than 20 rights of the individual.

The 13th and 14th amendments give freedom and full citizenship to the negroes, but it was fifty-five years before the government saw fit to give full citizenship to women by adding the 19th amendment.

The chapter had as visiting daughters Mrs. Howard of Iowa, and Mrs. Ridge of Illinois who addressed the chapter in a very pleasing manner.
Mrs. Paske delighted the chapter with two beautiful vocal solos. She was accompanied by Mrs. Marsh.
Mrs. Ulrich was assisted by Mrs. Newbury, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Wilpout and Miss Detweiler.

Pioneer Women of Jackson County Retain Spirit of 'Covered Wagon' Days

Mrs. Mary Dunn, Mrs. M. H. Vining and Mrs. A. H. Russell, southern Oregon pioneer women at meeting in Ashland Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Dunn, Mrs. M. H. Vining and Mrs. A. H. Russell, southern Oregon pioneer women at meeting in Ashland Thursday. Below Mrs. B. M. Howlett of Eagle Point. All are widely known.

"Undaunted Pioneers," she called them—the 93-year-old Mary M. Dunn, oldest member present at the Southern Oregon Pioneers' association annual meeting held in Ashland last Thursday. The mother of Senator George Dunn, who traveled 240 miles to attend the meeting, is still an eloquent extender of the spirit of the covered wagon days.

With a mind as keen and alert as a far younger person, the pretty little woman with the snow white hair and smiling blue eyes was like a queen on a throne in the Pioneer Log Cabin where the meeting was held. Sitting on a bench before the large fireplace, she was the center of attention from the few remaining pioneers and the much larger number of native sons and daughters and their children who filed past to greet her.

"Of course you don't remember me—but I do want to meet you and wish you well," said a middle-aged woman grasping her hand.
"Who were your folks?" asked the pioneer, the light of recognition already beginning to dawn in her eyes. The lady mentioned their names, entirely skeptical that it would mean anything to her listener.

"Like a flash, the 93-year-old face broke into a smile, of course she remembered the woman's folks, and lost no time in brotting it with an anecdote that brot a surprised laugh from the native daughter.

More startling still is the fact that the pioneer woman has just completed the book, "Undaunted Pioneers," which gives a vivid and interesting history of her own family, along with a valuable account of the lives of other settlers and the hardships that surrounded them in those days.

Mrs. Dunn's sister, Mrs. A. H. Russell, mother of Mrs. Winters of Ashland, was the next oldest pioneer present. She is 91, and was also a revelation to the 150 or more members and guests present at the meeting. Passing her 93-year-old sister in the hall, the latter called out mischievously:
"Hello, old lady."
"Don't call me old lady—or I'll knock you down," she retorted with mock menace both burst into merry laughter.

result of having won first place

in the contest held here recently. Both Miss Pilsand and Mr. Packham are students of the Jas. Stevens studios. Tuesday's Copco program has been arranged by Mr. Stevens and promises to be one of the most enjoyable musical events of the season.

'Copco Players' Give

Premier Norris Drama.

A large audience of local radio fans greeted the premier presentation of the latest Helen Norris play by the "Copco Players" last Tuesday evening. The drama which was entitled "The Deserted Cabin's Tale" was replete with real pathos and thrills and held the interest of all who listened in until the final curtain. frame, Mrs. Albert Solles and E. E. Gove. They sang two selections accompanied upon the piano by Mrs. Mitchellmore.

After a half-hour visit, the pioneers and their sons, daughters and grand-children repaired to the civic club house next door, where a bounteous repast of chicken and cold meats of every kind and category, salads of the same description and quantities of other food was served on several long banquet tables.

Among the pioneers present who crossed the plains by covered wagon were the following: Mrs. Mary M. Dunn, 93, and her youngest sister, Mrs. Ann H. Russell, 91, who crossed in '52 from Missouri; Mrs. S. C. O'Brien, 86, who crossed in '52 from Iowa to California, and landing finally in Oregon in '56; Mrs. A. L. Harvey, 81, who crossed in '52 from Springfield, Illinois; Mrs. Harvey, mentioned with pride the fact that she was born across the street from the home of Abraham Lincoln.

Mills, 77, who came from Tennessee in '58; Mrs. M. A. Ashpole, 74, who crossed in '74 from Missouri; and Susie Stewart, who came in '72 from Maryland.

At the election of officers for the coming year, which took place directly following the banquet, W. R. Coleman of Medford was chosen as president, and Alice Hanley of Jacksonville, vice president. The remaining officers which are carried over from year to year are, Mamie Day Nelson of Jacksonville, secretary, Nellie Britt of Jacksonville, treasurer and Ella Garrett of Ashland, second treasurer.

Obituaries read in memory of pioneers who departed during the past year reviewed the lives of E. Farlow of Ashland, William Knights of Talent, Mary Hudson of Jacksonville, Mrs. Will Daley of Eagle Point, Millie Songer of Ashland, Elizabeth Smith of Ashland and Henry S. Emery of Ashland.
