

M'DONALD LASS USES NO MAKEUP

Daughter of British Premier En Route to America Prefers Natural Complexion Given By Scotch Highlands — Wants to See Baseball Game — Poor Housekeeper.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(P)—President Hoover and Secretary Stimson today sent messages by radio to Premier Ramsay MacDonald aboard the steamship Berengaria, welcoming him to this country.

The president's message said: "As you near the shores of the United States I send to you a most cordial welcome not only in my own name, but on behalf of my fellow countrymen as well."

The message of Secretary Stimson read: "I send you my heartiest greetings on your approach to America. A sincere welcome and warmest hospitality await you."

These communications were dispatched shortly before Secretary Stimson left for New York to greet the British premier on behalf of the American government.

By Harry Houston Romer, Associated Press Staff Writer, S. S. BERENGARIA, Oct. 3.—(P) Miss Isabel MacDonald, engaging 25-year-old daughter of Britain's Scottish premier, uses no makeup. She does not even powder her nose. In a conversation with correspondents today she commented she never used cosmetics, preferring the natural complexion given her by the years in the Scotch highlands.

"Makeup?" she answered a question. "No, I don't even powder my nose, although I sometimes have been urged to do so."

She told the correspondents she wished she could see a baseball game while in America, but she is not sure it will be arranged. She said she often had wondered about the game, and wished she could see it played; that is, played as it should be played.

Baseball led to a discussion of other things typically American. "I'm sure," she said, "I'll find myself at home in America. Indeed, I'm already so much at home I'm lapsing into the American language."

She remarked that she would like to dispel some illusions which seemed to have been held about her.

Not Housekeeper. "I'm not fond of knitting and I am not a housekeeper," she said, adding she had been greatly misrepresented in her domestic leanings.

On the contrary, she said, her ambitions run to social work, and so that she may have scope for that she hopes to keep on as a member of the London county council, corresponding to an American administrative council.

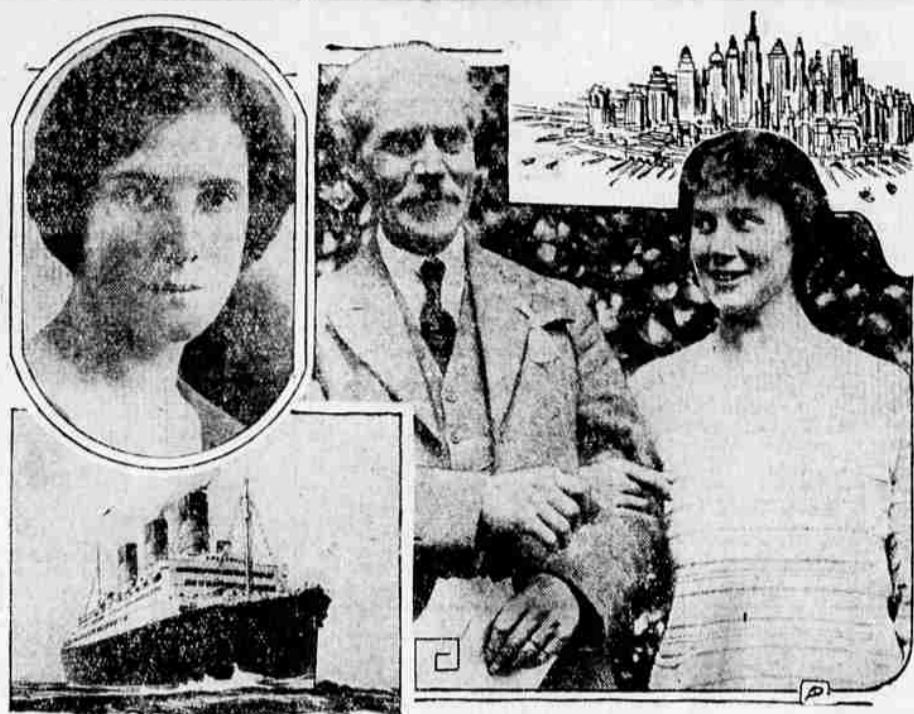

"But I've no idea of standing for parliament," she added, "unless I find some ends necessary to arrive which could be brought about better by so doing." She said that while she was in America she hoped to find time to study some phases of American social work; she is particularly anxious to watch the working of the juvenile courts in New York City.

"I'm not a total abstainer," she remarked, "but I don't drink, and I don't smoke. I am not particularly fond of outdoor sports or of dancing. You probably have been misled by what you have seen of me on this steamer. I walk comparatively little."

Hoover-MacDonald Conversation Will Be of Greatest Significance Throughout the World

Miss Isabel MacDonald, shown seriously in portrait and affectionately with her father, is accompanying the British prime minister to the United States on the Berengaria (inset).

By E. A. Brophy (A. P. Feature Service Writer) WASHINGTON.—(P) Two men whose lives are an epitome of the ideals of Anglo-American democracy stand as key figures in an unprecedented move toward world peace.

The face to face meeting in Washington of Herbert Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald will be an event of unparalleled historic significance. The results of their friendly gesture to bring their governments in accord on naval strength are certain to be of national importance to the other nations of the world.

There are three definite movements their meeting may set in motion:

The friendly gesture will place the capstone on Anglo-American naval parity, providing the negotiations which have extended over months are successful.

In such event the principles arrived at will be offered as a basis for naval accord between the other world powers.

The culmination of the negotiations is expected to give impetus to and a technical background for the world disarmament movement.

The colorful history of these leaders of two of the world's greatest nations lends a background of human interest to the conference.

Hoover rose from the poverty of an orphan farm boy to become president of the United States. MacDonald, born in a humble two room cottage in the Scotch village of Lossiemouth, rode through a rough political career to become prime minister of Great Britain.

Of added interest to the American people will be the presence of his daughter with the premier. Miss Isabel MacDonald, accompanying her father, is an attractive girl, as interested in politics and peace as her father. Since Mrs. MacDonald died, the daughter has been the premier's hostess and constant companion.

The MacDonalds probably will stay at the British embassy in Washington. It is expected that the prime minister will make an official call on the president shortly after his arrival, which the American chief executive will return immediately.

Last of Stone Age People Found by Savant on Islands of Arafura Sea

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—(P)—The inhabitants of the Crocodile islands are the last stone age people in the world, Walker said. "They cook their food in holes among hot rocks. They have pottery. They use only wooden stone-headed spears. The women do most of the work. There is no money; everything is by exchange."

Walker said the islanders were big and strong, had an elaborate social organization, with marked rules of conduct, and that their children were obedient. They had no liquor but used a primitive tobacco, he said. Walker is on his way to Harvard university.

in a size for every heating requirement

For Two-Story Family Houses, for Three-Room Honeymoon Bungalows . . . or Anything in Between ESTATE HEATROLA JUNIOR NO. 15. Smaller in size and capacity, but every inch a Heatrola in all essential features of construction. Grained mahogany finish.

Thirty days from today, you'll wake up in the morning and find a silver-frosted warning on your window-sill! Will this mean that soon again you'll be coaxing half-hearted heat from those old-fashioned stoves . . . that, through the long, cold months ahead, your house will be only half-heated, with drafty floors and chilly corners to set the children sneezing?

Or will yours be one of the tens of thousands of Heatrola-heated homes, with every room always cozily, healthfully warm?

A Dramatic Change in Heating Habits

Since Heatrola was introduced, eight years ago, it has revolutionized home-heating. This beautiful cabinet heater has replaced tens of thousands of ugly, mussy base-burners and oak-stoves. It has brought furnace heat at stove cost to old and new homes, offices, stores, schools and churches in every State in the Union.

Look Inside for THIS

Only the Heatrola has the Intensi-Fire Air Duct that captures and utilizes heat which, in ordinary heaters, goes to waste up the chimney. Insist upon seeing it. You'll find it in every genuine Heatrola.

Heating Stoves

A good line of heating stoves — also a good selection of second-hand stoves.

New Kitchen Heaters or Trash Burners

$22.50 up also a few good used ones with coils.

Three basic reasons contribute to its refreshing flavor

- ★ 1—"Canada Dry" is made from high-quality Jamaica ginger and through our exclusive extraction process retains all the flavor and aroma of the ginger root.
- ★ 2—"Canada Dry" is made from absolutely pure ingredients, blended and balanced in exact proportions. A secret process of carbonation enables it to retain its sparkle long after the bottle is opened.
- ★ 3—"Canada Dry" is tested daily under laboratory methods to assure its purity. Leading hospitals serve it. Leading physicians prescribe it. Here is a better, purer ginger ale.

AND this refreshing flavor has won friends the wide world over. In New York . . . London . . . Paris . . . the Houses of Parliament at Ottawa . . . "Canada Dry" has first call. And in countless homes throughout the United States and Canada this fine old ginger ale is the favorite beverage. It is "dry" like a rare old wine . . . cooling . . . refreshing. Order it in the Hostess Package of 12 bottles.
