

FROLIC TO DRAW ELKS FROM MANY ADJACENT LODGES

From all parts of southern Oregon and northern California, Elks and their friends will gather next week for the great Fall Frolic which is being staged by Medford lodge 1168. There will be three big days of merry making at the Medford armory, October 10, 11 and 12, and a sweeping invitation has been extended to the public by Exalted Ruler Ben Mohler. The committees which have been working out the many details of the frolic are:

Decorations committee: H. S. Cleveland, Bill Young, Victor Dunbar, Lawrence Pennington and Ben Trowbridge.

Finance committee: Leon Haskins, Roy Pruitt, Ward L. Beeny.

Advertising: Gene Wright, Herb Gray, Ted Baker, Carl Y. Teague.

Music: Wilson Waite, Walter Cormony.

Dance: Herb Alford, Everett Brayton, Burt Larson, Paul Jennings.

Check room: John Holmer.

Games: Walk Ahtle, Fred Frye, K. E. Dazey, Lyland Brophy.

Refreshment concessions: W. H. Fletcher, Roland Hoffman.

There will be different entertainments and stunts each night, according to Mr. Mohler, and some exceptionally clever vaudeville acts have been prepared. Dancing will be featured every night and some of the best talent in the valley will supply the dance melody.

One of the big drawing cards on the three Fall Frolic nights will be the Elks band, under the direction of Wilson Waite. The Elks band is, without doubt, the outstanding musical organization in the Rogue River valley today and their selections will make a genuine hit with the crowds who attend the Elks fall "whoopie" frolic.

Mr. Crum, president of the local carpenter's union, who was injured at the Medford fire and is recovering at a hospital here, was removed to the Williamette hospital at Salem yesterday by state compensation authorities for further treatment.

Mr. Crum was given a send-off by a delegation of his many friends as he was placed on the train last night. It is believed that he will be placed in a cast until full recovery is effected, upon his arrival at the Salem hospital.

September was a record breaking dry month in the history of the Medford weather station, as no moisture fell during that month, according to the following monthly meteorological notes just completed by M. J. Hutchison, government meteorologist in charge of that station:

"The month was notable by the prevalence of smoke from numerous forest fires. There were two periods of continuous smogging, the first beginning on the 5th and clearing away on the 21st; the second period began on the 24th and ended on the 28th. During these smoky days there were times when the visibility was limited to 1000 feet and flying conditions at the local airport were considered very hazardous.

"Since the beginning of the weather bureau records in 1911, there has never been a month of September without a measurable amount of precipitation until this year. With the exception of a trace of rain recorded on the 26th, the past month was entirely without moisture. The driest September of record in previous years was in 1915 when 0.03 of an inch of rain fell during the month.

"The mean sea level pressure for the month was 29.91 inches; the highest pressure, 30.12 inches, was recorded on the 25th; the lowest occurred on the 19th and was 29.83 inches, making a monthly range in pressure of 0.43 inch.

"The highest temperature recorded was 99 degrees on the 16th and the lowest 31 degrees on the 28th. The average monthly temperature was 61.4 degrees and was slightly below the normal for September. A period of warm weather occurred about the middle of the month, beginning on the 10th and ending on the 16th, with a maximum temperature of 99 degrees.

"No measurable amount of precipitation fell during September and the resulting deficiency was 0.52 inch. The lack of moisture has had a rather unsatisfactory effect on some activities, but as far as can be determined the forest fire situation and drying ranges are the only ones seriously affected."

The following is the monthly summary:

CLOSE SCHOOL AT REESE CREEK FOR FEVER QUARANTINE

Because of a small outbreak of scarlet fever, the Reese Creek rural school was ordered closed yesterday until October 14 by the board of education of that district. Inquiry at the county health unit today revealed that four students were stricken and that parents of other children attending the school became frightened and refrained from sending their children to classes.

Dr. Emily Boleon, county medical director, explained this afternoon that scarlet fever is much less of a problem and would not necessitate the closing of school if given systematic administration. Cases developing in the school rooms should be reported as soon as possible to health unit headquarters, said Dr. Boleon, and the remaining students in the room will then be placed under careful watch for the next seven days to determine whether others had been exposed.

DENTAL SOCIETY MEETS GRANTS P. SATURDAY

The Southern Oregon Dental society will hold a district conference in Grants Pass tomorrow. There will be bridge and golf starting at 2:30, followed by dinner at Hotel Del Rocio at 6:30 o'clock.

The social program of the conference will be in charge of Mesdames Elliott, Johnson and Roberts.

Members of the society from all parts of southern Oregon have signified their intention of attending the conference and plans are being made to care for the crowd which is expected.

JUSTICES RETURN TO ENJOY FISHING

"We can't seem to stay away from Medford," said Supreme Court Justice John L. Rand, who with H. H. Bell, also of the supreme court and George Putnam, publisher of the Salem Capitol Journal got off the train this noon, and were met by Colonel E. E. Kelly, president of the Southern Oregon Bar association.

The visitors with Colonel Kelly and A. E. Reames, had luncheon at the Hotel Medford this noon, after which they left for Kelly Island to fish over the week end. Justice Bell said that they were treated so well during the recent State Bar association here that it didn't take much persuasion to get them to come down for an outing, even if they had been home less than a week. That they would never forget the hospitality of Medford people, was voiced by both justices.

BUSINESS WOMEN RENEW EFFORTS

With a steady accumulation of work crowding itself onto the calendar of the local Business and Professional women's club, that organization took steps yesterday to dispose of it as quickly and effectively as possible. The club will hold weekly luncheons every Thursday noon at the Hotel Hamilton, so that the members will be kept in close contact with each other, and problems may be handled more speedily.

That the progress the present Medford club, which has been organized only a year and a half, has made during that time, is an inspiration to the entire state federation, was a statement made by first state President Mollie Hair, who was guest at the first weekly luncheon held yesterday.

Miss Hair was here in the interest of establishing the 12 weeks extension course in 20th century English and American literature, which was opened at the junior high school at seven o'clock last night. The lectures will be given by Professor Collins of the University of Oregon. Miss Hair returned to her post as head of the extension department at Eugene, this morning.

SET CANFIELD DAMAGE TRIAL FOR NEXT WEEK

The civil action of Julia Canfield against the Talent Irrigation District for money, claimed to be due for damages resulting from seepage from an irrigation canal, is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in circuit court and continue for two days. The sum of $1200 is sought for general damages and $30 for special damages. The sum of $125 is sought for damage done by seepage to two and one-quarter acres of alfalfa near Talent and $400 for damage done to soil by standing water. The suit was filed July 13, 1929.
