

CALL FOR TURKS IS REPORTED ON PORTLAND MART

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10.—(A) The Butter market was slightly easier today, but no change was made in price.

The egg market continues firm with strictly fresh supplies below the demand.

Fresh meats and poultry prices were unusually weak. Liberal supplies are being received daily.

The demand for turkeys was already under way, weights of 10 pounds or more being especially desired.

Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland Market News Service of the United States Department of Agriculture says:

"Mixed cars, including celery, cauliflower, lettuce, tomatoes, and cabbage, are being landed in increasing volume. Extensive celery shipments will not materialize for 10 days or 2 weeks yet, however.

"Prices on the Portland wholesale market continue about steady on nearly all commodities. Supplies of cauliflower are heavy and spinach is becoming more plentiful.

"All melons have disappeared from the market except a few southern Oregon casabas.

JACKSONVILLE NIMRODS ENJOYING DEER SEASON SOME GET FINE BUCKS

JACKSONVILLE, Ore., Oct. 10.—(Special) T. E. Dunnington, John R. Knight, Harold Reed and Leonard McKee who were hunting beyond Squaw Lake the past week returned with two nice deer.

Clyde Fields of Sterling district drove through our city the last of the week with two splendid deer which he had shot on the Applegate.

Renice Combust came home from Klamath Falls Monday and left Tuesday with Floyd Cunningham for Applegate for a few days hunting.

Glady's Rose and George Witter are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Witter at their ranch near Kerby for a few days while George is hunting deer.

K. O. Merrifield and son Bruce went hunting Sunday, returning home Monday on account of the rain.

Dr. C. E. Jenkins and family, Horace Jenkins and family, all of this place, and W. S. Reed and wife from Salem went to Klamath Falls the first of the week. They brought back a fine bunch of ducks.

Ye Poet's Corner

When evening shadows lengthen, It is then I love to sit, And watch the last rays of the sun Upon the top of old Mt. Pitt.

Watching the shadows creeping, Creeping on, up toward the top, And I know that this glory From me they soon will blot.

Then how peaceful it will be As I sit and fondly dream Of the beauty of the hills I love, But which cannot be seen.

Then the lights begin to twinkle In the valley far below, And the whispering of the pines Comes through the open door.

Night descends upon us And to our cot we go, To dream sweet dreams of the future And the country we love so.

Hollywood Sights

By Robin Coons. HOLLYWOOD. — There must be something about these French. First it was Maurice Chevalier, Parisian troubadour, who came, was seen and heard, and conquered. Now it is his compatriot-friend Georges Carpentier.

In personality, the two are much alike. Both have the same quick, gleaming smile, the same genial friendliness, and nearly the same intriguing accent. But Chevalier is the born showman, while Carpentier is the former prizefighter who has mastered his acquired.

"I was a fighter," G. Carpentier. (Special) T. E. Dunnington, John R. Knight, Harold Reed and Leonard McKee who were hunting beyond Squaw Lake the past week returned with two nice deer.

leave for Europe the following Wednesday. Someone played the King melody, thanks to Mayor, producer, was present. He persuaded King to delay his departure long enough to sign a contract as an M-G-M. song writer.

Later Dorothy Parker wrote lyrics, and King's melody became "How Am I to Know" theme song of "Dynamite." It was King's first attempt at popular composition. Now at Paramount, he is writing more "pops."
