

LOOKOUTS LEAVE AS FOREST FIRE DANGER WANES

The lookouts of the Crater National forest will probably be gradually laid off duty for the year from now on, according to the amount of rainfall at the stations of their respective localities. Two went off duty yesterday and one more will be laid off today, which with two who had ceased duty recently, leaves three in the Applegate section and one in the Dead Indian district still on duty. Supervisor Hugh B. Rankin has been away for several days, and on his return here the others may be ordered off duty within a day or so if it keeps on raining. The two state lookouts ordered off duty were both state lookouts for state fire-protected land. They were H. V. Richards, the lookout at Bald mountain in the Prospect section, and Oliver Gaines, lookout at Buck Rock near Trail. Chas. Beale, the lookout at Rustler peak in the Butte Falls district will cease his duties today. J. F. G. Cone, the lookout on Mt. McLaughlin, went off duty some time ago because the clouds and storms at his post way up on the mountain ruined the visibility of the lookout. Cal Winstanham, lookout on Whiskey Peak in the Applegate section, was put out of business last Sunday morning for the season, when his lookout structure caught fire while he was out-side repairing a chimney, and a gust of wind blew fire from the stove onto bedding and wood. All his personal belongings and the government supplies on hand were burned up with the structure.

MRS. R. E. GREEN NEW CHAIRMAN IN SEAL SALES

Mrs. Alice Holloway has resigned as chairman of the annual Christmas seal sale drive. Under her capable leadership for the past ten years Jackson county has had the highest per capita sale of tuberculosis seals of any county in the state excepting only Multnomah. In accepting her resignation, Mrs. Sadie Dunbar, executive secretary for the Oregon Tuberculosis association said: "I wish to express publicly my appreciation and that of the organization for Mrs. Holloway's splendid service. Jackson county should be proud and is proud, I know, of the fine health record made, and this has been due in no small part to the loyal and efficient work of Mrs. Holloway and her co-workers." Mrs. Holloway found it necessary to resign the position because of the demands made upon her time by the new business venture she entered upon in Medford last year.

Mrs. R. E. Green of Medford has been appointed to take Mrs. Holloway's place. This is of much interest to the health workers of the county and state and Mrs. Dunbar expresses the hope that Mrs. Green will receive the same cooperation from health workers that Mrs. Holloway enjoyed, and added: "I have every reason to believe she will, and I shall expect Jackson county to equal if not surpass its previous record." One thousand eight hundred and seventy-six dollars was received from the sale of tuberculosis seals last year, of which one thousand one hundred and twenty-five dollars less incidental expenses was kept and expended in Jackson county for the prevention of disease through the county, especially among the children, and for fostering of health in general through out the county.

FOX TO BE HOST COUNTY INDIGENTS

When William Fox tells "The Cock-Eyed World" about his silver jubilee next week, there is one group of folks in Jackson county to get the treat of their lives, through the courtesy of J. B. Reisman, local Fox manager. They are the people of the Jackson county poor farm, who will be the guests of the Craterian theater Wednesday afternoon at a 2:30 matinee to see the excruciatingly funny comedy, "The Cock-Eyed World," which will open on that day for a four-day engagement. Plans were being made this afternoon at Mendenhall, manager of the Etoile theater, to obtain free transportation for the folks also, and make their afternoon one of complete pleasure. "When the folks heard about the theater party, they were overjoyed," said Mrs. Irene Wells, proprietor of the home. "Of course some of them are so old, they can't venture out, and still others are ill with colds at this time. But there will be a substantial number of them who will be able to take advantage of the opportunity," she said.

ROTARY LADIES PLAN AUXILIARY

Wives of local Rotary club members met at the Hotel Medford this noon to discuss plans for forming a woman's auxiliary organization. The meeting was called through the influence of Mrs. F. J. Newman and a small group of the women met in the small dining room of the hotel. About 25 were present. While no decision as to whether or not the permanent organization would be formed was reached at the time this paper went to press, a large number of the members indicated being in favor of it. It is thought that the organization, if formed, will not only act as an auxiliary to the men's service club but will carry on philanthropic work of its own.

STATION BROADCASTS WEATHER FOR PLANES

While it was not originally intended to begin the service until October 15, the Medford airways radio communication station of the department of commerce today began to give hourly broadcasts daily of the weather between 5 a. m. and 8 p. m. to all airways radio stations north and south of the city for the benefit of the airplanes. These reports are obtained from the Medford station of the U. S. weather bureau service. The airways radio communication station out on Crater Lake highway which is not yet completed in all its appointments and will not be in some time yet, is sufficiently advanced to furnish the limited broadcast service mentioned above, but will begin to give a 24 hours' broadcast of the weather, as soon as another man is added to its personnel. This station now has only two employes.

SEEK MEANS TO INCREASE DAIRY HERDS LOCALLY

The problem of increasing dairy herds in Jackson county and southern Oregon came up for thorough discussion at today's luncheon of the Medford rotary board, also attended by a number of Medford business men and bankers. The dairy industry could be brought up to a much higher status than it enjoys at the present, speakers declared. One Medford creamery reported that it has been expending $25,000 monthly in payment for dairy products and could easily buy five times as much without overloading its present market. Discussion revealed that outside dairy interests could improve the industry by establishing themselves in the Rogue River valley but it also revealed that such interests would not buy valley dairy property in an undeveloped state. Farmers are encouraged to plant all unused land to meadows and take a greater interest in dairy products. It is likely a meeting of Medford business men and dairy board members will be called soon to discuss the matter with grange leaders from all parts of the county to devise ways and means by which southern Oregon can become a greater dairy country.

OBSERVER SAW A SKY PHENOMENA

The unusual spectacle of a meteor falling from the sky northeast of the city at 6 p. m. last Wednesday was apparently seen by only one person of Medford and vicinity — Dwight Randall, minor observer of the local weather station who was off duty at his home in the Siskiyou Heights section at the time. At least, up to date no other person has reported having seen the phenomenon. Dwight happened to look up at the sky to see what he thought was a shooting star falling with a lot of smoke trailing behind it, and while he was watching its descent it suddenly burst into fragments, making a brilliant sight, which quickly disappeared from view. Dwight is not addicted to tobacco in any form, he had not partaken of strong coffee, nor has he a penchant for seeing things up above or below, so his story of what he witnessed must be believed. The theory that what he saw may have been the exploding remains of a peevish player on the golf links when he missed the ball and hit the ground, the club rebounding upwards and bursting into small pieces surrounded by smoke coming from the player's timely observations, is suggested by his fellow workers at the weather station.

HOLMES GETS ANSWER TO PORT INVITATION

Among the many letters written in response to the invitations sent out on the first airmail flight from Medford's new port, over a week ago, was one received this morning by Cole Holmes from George W. Dornin, manager of the Pacific coast department, Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company at San Francisco. That the establishment of this pioneer airport in southern Oregon should bring Medford and the state into even greater prominence and develop this city into "one of the leading Pacific coast cities," was the prediction of the prominent official.

LIFE RUINED BY NEGLECT

Many a man has suddenly realized that he was losing out—all because he neglected constipation too long. This evil scourge starts with such little things. A headache. A listless morning.
