

WEATHER HURRIES MOVEMENT FROM LAKE TO MEDFORD

Because a change in the weather came yesterday at Crater National park, the temperature becoming quite cold, a drizzling rain beginning to fall, much cloudiness existing and with indications of a snowstorm about to set in...

Hence the offices of Superintendent Solsky and his office force opened here this morning in their usual winter quarters in the Federal building, to remain until next July.

The force remaining at the park now consists of only Chief Ranger Godfrey and three rangers, who will probably remain there until the weather becomes too inclement and deep snow comes.

Home of Theodore Roosevelt, New Governor Porto Rico, Overlooks Sea in Gay Land of Perpetual Sunshine

Theodore Roosevelt (left) will live in the palace fortress shown when he becomes governor of Porto Rico, a land the first Theodore Roosevelt helped to free. Below are shown Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and a son.

By Alexander George. (AP Feature Service Writer) WASHINGTON — (AP) Theodore Roosevelt will go to Porto Rico in October to take the oath of office as governor of the enchanting island his rough-riding father 31 years ago fought to free from Spanish domination.

There, in a land of perpetual summer, the only wall under the American flag on which Columbus set foot, Teddy the Second will be the chief executive of 1,500,000 industrious and peace-loving American citizens of Spanish and African blood.

When his ship steams into the harbor of San Juan, Colonel Roosevelt will view one of the loveliest scenes in American territory. Perched in medieval majesty upon a green tableland, the shell and time battered walls of the famous fortress El Morro frown down upon the placid waters of the harbor.

On these ramparts the helmet of steel corseleted Spanish sentinel once shone in the soft twilight. In their place the new governor will see khaki-clad soldiers of the United States and the Stars and Stripes waving where the red and gold banners of Isabella fluttered and danced.

LOCAL VOCALIST WILL TRY AGAIN TO WIN AUDITION

"Of course I'm awfully sorry—especially on account of the folks in Medford who gave us such wonderful support—that I didn't come first in the Atwater-Kent state contest," said Elmer Mae Wilson, 18-year-old local soprano who placed second among the women singers in the state.

Miss Wilson, who finished high school last June, received 653 votes indicating that many people believed she should come first, and expressed themselves of the subject. Miss Rose Columba, a well-known singer of Portland, having appeared on programs over KGW and other stations at frequent intervals, came first with 1763 votes.

George Peckham, local bass, who came first in the local audition, while not receiving a place in the state-wide contest, elicited considerable comment on account of the spectacular quality of his voice. Mr. Peckham, at the time that he won the local contest, had never received any kind of a music lesson in his life.

Young Fellows With Liberal Education vs. Young Fellows With a Liberal Allowance

"Bill" Dollar cocked up his ear as he heard his owner say, "Bill place my bet on the young fellow with a liberal education against any old fellow with a liberal allowance."

That remark set "Bill" to thinking. "The properly educated young folks of Medford will be the power house of this city in the next decade," he said.

"Of what use to Medford will the young folks be whose parents send out of town for everything they need? In the first place, come to me in the way of taxes, which is one thing that can never be evaded."

"Whenever a bond issue for some public improvement such as schools or good roads, is authorized, and matures in from 10 to 49 years, it means that you will pay your full share of the tax. And no matter where you go you will find that you will be paying for something that your elders thought would be good for you."

"A heavy responsibility gravitates to each young person in this community, for as the responsible citizens of Medford in a few years more, they will have to mesh in gradually the wheels of progress."

"The first thing to learn is loyalty to Medford, and that means to believe in Medford, and if, as you grow older, you see that things can be better here, work to that end. Suppose, as a young man now, you are picturing yourself a place of business with your name over the door as proprietor."

"Where will your business come from if your chums of today do not develop into the loyal citizens of tomorrow? Spend your money at home in Medford and show your faith in your city by helping it to expand."

"Start today and ask your father and mother to explain the things about what citizenship means. Get the human viewpoint and not what the books say."

"In Athens, every young man, when he becomes of age, takes an oath which has come to be known as the Athenian oath. Before he was given his shield and his sword which proclaimed his standing as a man, he swore, among other things, never to disgrace his holy arms, never to forsake his comrades in ranks, but to fight for the temples and the common welfare, alone or with others."

"To have the country not in a worse, but in a better state than he found it; to obey the magistrates and the laws and defend them against attack; finally, to hold in honor the religion of his country."

"What a wonderful thing it would be if every young man and woman in Medford would live up to that oath nowadays. Think now, young folks, the part that you are playing at the present time in this your city."

ASK AUTHORITY BUY FARM BONDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP) Authority for the secretary of the treasury to buy $100,000,000 or more of farm loan bonds from federal land banks to provide funds for agriculture, was asked in a joint resolution today by senator Brookhart, republican of Iowa.

The loan in a statement said the "gambling business" in Wall Street was draining large sums of money into New York from over the country, thus reducing the market for farm loan bonds, which pay a rate of interest of about 3 1/2 per cent.

they are not satisfied with home products and create an atmosphere that is antagonistic to everything with whom they come in contact.

"The training of any child along the lines of believing that some other place is better than Medford will develop a knoacker and a great day of regret will come. It is the duty of every loyal citizen to train his children to an appreciation of the wonderful city that is being built for them."

"Young men and women of Medford," continued "Bill," "have you ever considered the fact that you are the coming business men and women of this city? Your school days will soon be over and the knowledge and training which you will receive until the end of your school and college course will be the foundation on which you must build the structure in which you hope to spend the rest of your days."

"The time is nearly at hand when you will have to assume the responsibilities that are now being borne by your elders. You must fit yourself every day for the part you intend to play, after you have passed your adolescent period."

"Keep this thought ever in your mind; Medford will never be any better as a city than I, as a citizen, make it.

"The sentimental debt that you owe Medford for the many privileges that you enjoy can be paid as your conscience dictates, but the material debt is one that will be paid for you by the state.

ANDREW T. POOLE VETERAN RANGER, PASSES IN RENO

News of the death at Reno, Nev. of Andrew T. Poole, former well-known veteran ranger of Crater national forest in the Trail district, was received here by phone by the Crater national forest headquarters office this forenoon from the Fremont national forest headquarters office at Lakeview, Ore.

Details are lacking at the forest office here as to how he happened to be in Reno and the cause of death, except that his brother, of Tiller, Ore., was with him at the time of his demise. Mr. Poole, familiarly known as Andy, and thought to be in the neighborhood of 60 years old, was one of the original staff of rangers to go on duty when the Crater national forest was established and had served as such and scaler until about two years ago when he took the position of scaler at Fremont national forest.

He still owned property in the Rogue Elk vicinity at the time of his death. His wife had been dead for years. Among surviving relatives herewith are a young grandson who resides in Trail or the Rogue-Elk section.

The remains will be shipped to Medford where funeral services and burial will take place next week.

POLICE BURDENED PRUSSIA RELIEVED FROM MANY LAWS

BERLIN — (AP) Prussia, which has had the unenviable reputation of being the most police-ridden country in Europe, is now scrapping thousands of police regulations especially those dating from prior to 1890.

Within six months, no fewer than 10,000 local ordinances have been rescinded, and in future only 1500 main police stations will have the power to issue new ones instead of over 11,000 as heretofore.

On all matters pertaining to the protection of public gardens, forests, moors and lakes, and public welfare generally, the local civil authorities will make their own regulations instead of the police.

In an effort to show how people can be made to believe on a minimum number of regulations, Dr. Johannes Werthauer, one of Berlin's leading jurists, has compiled a penal code consisting of only 21 paragraphs instead of the present 412.

Justice Werthauer holds that proper social education should be an adequate prevention of crime. He eliminated for instance, the intricate laws governing libel and slander in their more abuse aspects.

He has written his new code in language that can be "understood by the people." Protection of labor and of personal security, he makes much more stringent, while penalties for bigamy and adultery are simplified.

The heaviest penalty he would make five years imprisonment. Life sentences, he holds, are no preventive of crime at all.

YEAR OUT OF SCHOOL; GIRL NOW PLANE PILOT

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Miss Nancy Hopkins, who took up aviation upon graduation from high school a year ago, has become a full-fledged pilot during the year that has intervened.

She is the daughter of Dr. Alfred F. Hopkins and is the niece of Charles Dana Gibson, noted artist.

The Rogue-Elk Inn

Rustic setting in the mountains. Where the pine tree lifts its head, Where the Rogue River murmurs softly, As it flows o'er rocky bed; Where Elk Creek's lazy waters blend with Rogue's cold dashing spray, That's where Rogue-Elk Inn awaits you, Waits, and welcomes you to stay.

On the way along Rogue River, Where the gamey Steelheads wait, Where the friends of Isaac Walton Pause to troll with shining bait, Where the pine trees on the mountains Murmur soft, as breezes wake Sweetest music mid their branches, On the way to Crater Lake.

Under tall trees by the river, In the welcome shade, so cool, Here the traveler loves to linger, By the side of sparkling pool, Where the speckled beauties glisten, Here is where real life begins, On the banks of the Rogue River, At the famous Rogue-Elk Inn.

Endless pleasure, here, awaits them, If they love the larger life In the mountains, near to Nature, Far removed from strife, Listening to the gentle murmur Of the Rogue, at close of day, Or the whispers in the pine trees, At the time when fancies play, Evening's lure, so well portraying, At the setting of the sun, As they dance amid the shadows When the work of day is done, Here we find, amid the mountains, At the close of summer's day, Quiet, peace, and joy entrancing, 'Tis our wish to always stay.

Nature calls us with the music Of the water and the wind, Bids us look to God who loves us, Bids us take our cares to Him; And if we would learn life's lessons, Learn, for us, the one, best way, We should spend some time with nature, Where the fairies dance and play.

Neath the tall and bending tree tops, In the shadows, and the moon Seem to hang so close above us, Coaxing lovers fond, to croon Of the future days, so splendid, As they, their new life begin; Such a place you'll find near Medford, And 'tis known as Rogue-Elk Inn.

Famous for fine chicken dinners, Famous for its paintings rare; Famous for its sylvan setting, Famous for its mountain air; On the banks of the Rogue River, On the road toward the rim Of Crater Lake, you're welcome, At the famous Rogue-Elk Inn. —Paid adv. tr.

Humane Society Praised for Work With Abandoned Table Rock Horses

TABLE ROCK, Ore., Oct. 12.—(Special) — The Jackson County Humane society has received many favorable comments from people in this community for their prompt action in taking care of the old abandoned horses roaming the highways in this section.

These horses have been a constant menace to traffic here for several months, besides the annoyance caused by tearing down gates, fences and mail-boxes.

Many times serious wrecks have been miraculously avoided by car and truck drivers doing some skillful driving and in many cases burning the rubber on their tires in making an "in place halt."

Last Friday night a truck driver failed in his effort to stop, and crashed into a poor old "skate," bruising and mangle it painfully and leaving it to die of its wounds. Neighbors who discovered it next day mercifully put it out of its misery.

After the many years of faithful service this old horse must have gotten some ungrateful master it is hard to understand how a human being could turn it out on the highways to go hungry, be dinged, rooked, battered and bruised and made a target for high-powered cars and trucks.
