Quail will be plentiful when the season on those birds opens next Tuesday, according to Deputy Game Warden F. M. Brown, who was in Medford yesterday with Deputy Hoy Parr of Ashland. However, he did not know if China Pheasants were as plentiful as in the past years, but other reports heard on the subject indicate that they are. Many pheasants have been seen along roads and highways in the county and apparently seemed to be unafraid of passing cars, thus seemingly assuring easy hunting for the first day at least.
