HEALTH WORK OF COUNTY REQUIRES BUDGET INCREASE

Because of the withdrawal of outside aid, which had been in effect for the past five years, an increase is asked in the budget of the county health unit which was presented to the budget committee in session this forenoon.

The health unit, as it now stands is regarded as one of the most complete in the state, having a medical director, two nurses and an office clerk. The sum of $10,320 is sought from the county for the operation of the clinic for the ensuing year.

The budget committee was assured that there will be no further increase until the county decides it has outgrown the present staff of a doctor, two nurses and a clerk. The third nurse now on duty, it was explained, is receiving compensation from the health association and the nurse was engaged in the hope of assisting in the reduction of infant mortality rate, 16 deaths of infants under one month being reported last year.

Despite that figure, Jackson county enjoys the distinction of having the lowest death rate in the state. Dr. W. W. P. Holt told the budget committee, and Oregon has the lowest rate in the United States, placing the county in a class by itself. The work of the health unit since its establishment was the object of high commendation by members of the county court and budget committee, and in an eloquent speech, C. E. Gates told of the value of the unit to the health of the community, making an earnest plea that the work already so well started should not be handicapped by not allowing the increase in order to carry out necessary operations.

LEGION CORPS TO GET NEW BUGLES

One of the first steps in the progressive program outlined by the local American Legion Drum corps has been the purchase of new bugles of the most modern type. These are the popular Holton B-Flat bugles in the seventeen-inch size and are beautifully finished in dull silver with a gold bell.

Twelve of the new bugles were purchased thru the Palmer Music House of this city and will add much to the music as well as the appearance of the local Legion corps. A special meeting of the drum corps has been called for tonight at which time the new bugles will be given out and plans for Armistice Day discussed. Every member of the corps is expected to be on hand at the chamber of commerce at 7:30 p. m. to take part in this important session.

COPCO PLAYERS ON AIR TONIGHT WITH COMEDY

Local radio fans are looking forward to this evening's Copco hour on station KMED when the Copco Players will present a clever new Norris drama entitled "Amos Corcoran's Drama of Order." This will be the first time this new play has been broadcast and southern Oregon people are considered fortunate to hear the premier presentation over a local station. The cast of characters has been carefully chosen in order that full justice may be done to the latest dramatic effort of Miss Norris and will include several well known favorites in the leading roles. By special arrangement Mrs. M. J. Norris, mother of the author, will also take part in this evening's program. Several radio parties have been planned to hear this attractive Copco radio offering which is scheduled to begin promptly at 9 p. m.

MRS. GAYLORD HOPES FOR HUSBANDS RETURN

W. R. Gaylord, local attorney who has been missing from his law office in Medford and his home in Jacksonville since August 9, was still among the missing today, but inquiry of Mrs. Gaylord this afternoon revealed that she was in great hope he would return soon to Medford. She does not feel harm has befallen her husband but that he has been suffering from a lapse of memory and is now possibly somewhere around San Francisco. She has had no information leading to his whereabouts.

GOLDEN RULE HAS SOLUTION OF ALL ILLS ROTARY TOLD

The golden rule, unlike similar sounding commands given humanity by other early prophets and philosophers before the time of Christ, is positive rather than negative—a challenge to definite activity, and a solution to all the major ills in the world today. This was the interesting summary of it given before the Rotary club at noon today by Rev. Claud B. Porter, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

That the golden rule recognizes no race or creed, social or economic boundaries, nor does it allow for reservations or mental dishonesty, was also stated by the minister.

"If you can't sit down to the table with a friendly negro, Japanese or a Hindoo, you can't understand the problems of your own city, much less the meaning of the golden rule," he said.

The average intelligence of the Rotary club, according to a mental test given that organization two weeks ago by the assistant superintendent of the city schools, as announced today, was 108, two degrees higher than the average school student. Hamilton Patton held the highest score in the organization, with C. A. Swigart coming a close second. The average age of the Rotary club was found to be 43 and a fraction years.

Dr. S. R. Dipple, baby Rotarian, was formally introduced to the club, given his badge and his Rotary code of ethics by Program Chairman E. C. Cron today.

SCOTT WOOLF TO QUIT BUSINESS TO SELL STOCK

Southern Oregon and northern California shoppers will welcome the announcement today that a great Quitting Business sale will be launched by the Scott Woolf Furniture company in this city Friday. Every article and item in this large store will be placed on sale together with the fixtures and drastic reductions will be made to unload the complete stock now on hand.

Scott Woolf is closing out his furniture store due to illness and, immediately after the stock is sold, will leave for the south to recover his health. For 21 years he has been one of Medford's foremost merchants and has been engaged in the furniture business for more than 35 years. Medford business men and his host of patrons will regret that it is necessary for him to sell his fine furniture stock and leave this city.

M. G. Mordoff, well known Klamath Falls business man and former business associate of Scott Woolf, has come to Medford to supervise the Quitting Business sale. Mr. Mordoff was a member of the firm of Mordoff and Woolf in this city until he purchased a furniture store in Klamath Falls and moved to that city with his family. While he is here handling this sale, Mr. Mordoff is renewing specialist, I had my teeth and tonsils removed, but it didn't help me much. I was habitually constipated; my skin was yellowish and I felt bad all the time. I frequently had attacks of indigestion and I became terribly nervous. Nothing gave me any lasting benefits until I started taking Sargol. "Sargol put me back on my feet and now I attend to business with all my old time pep and energy. My nervousness has been overcome and I never have indigestion. "Sargol Pills rid me of constipation and now my system is free from poisons."—Edward A. Francis, head of the Francis Construction Co., Seattle. The Quitting Business sale of the Scott Woolf Furniture company will begin at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning and will continue throughout the following week. Opening specials will be featured on Friday and Mr. Mordoff is making preparations to handle a large crowd of bargain-steekers. In one year, a single oyster can produce 1,000,000,000 new ones.

DR. PICKEL KNEW CULT FAMILY AS EARLY RESIDENTS

Among the dozens of Medford people who knew Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rhodes, former valley residents, whose adopted daughter, Willa, is alleged to have met death in weird cult rites, of which the Rhodes were leaders, is Dr. E. B. Pickel, pioneer physician. Dr. Pickel has known Mrs. Rhodes for more than 40 years, and remembers her as a little girl. She lived with her parents and a large family on a farm at the foot of Ruxy Ana, which is now a part of the Westerlund orchard tract. She still has brothers and sisters living in these parts. The physician says the Rhodes were a typical American family, no different from any other early-day family here. Dr. Pickel was also well acquainted with Mr. Rhodes and describes him as "a pretty good sort of a fellow." Rhodes operated a sawmill in the Sams Valley district, and later moved to Klamath county. He was a hard worker. Virgil Strang had a casual acquaintance with Rhodes and remembers him as the employer of a boyhood friend—Charles Boussom. Boussom, later a member of the Medford fire department, was employed by Rhodes in his Sams Valley sawmill.

NEWTOWN PACK IN VALLEY SURVEYED HALF USUAL CROP

Picking and packing of Newtown apples is now in full swing in the orchards and packing plants of this section. The crop is estimated at from 320 to 350 cars, about half the usual crop. About 25 per cent of this season's crop has been packed. The small pack is being shipped to export markets and the large size to domestic points. Some of the export consignments will be held in storage pending adjustment, if any, of the export freight rate to Portland. Although no word has been received, the winter pear committee anticipates that the third car of Boses will go on sale in Detroit tomorrow. The committee is satisfied with the showing made to date and expects that the price and the interest will increase as the campaign advances. The use of steam heated ripening sheds in Detroit and the speed of sales, and the price, is being watched by local orchardists. By using ripening sheds the Boses are put on the market ready to eat. This means that the pears must be sold quickly. The results in Detroit will be used by Professor Hartman of the Oregon State college in his collection of data on marketing and storage in the Atlantic seaboard markets.
