

COUNTY COURT TOLD DISTRESS OF LOCAL FOLK

Misery And Waywardness Unfolded — Pictured In Plea For Action—Blind Father Is Problem — Children Are Sufferers.

The county court, at its regular session today, heard tales of human misery and distress, drab waywardness and appeals for county aid, because little children were the chief sufferers. The sordid details were outlined by friends of the stricken and Lillian Roberts, Red Cross aide, and the county health officials were instructed to investigate and report and act accordingly.

Earl Fehl headed a delegation that asked the county court to render assistance to a family wherein the father had gone blind from a kidney disease within the week, and is racked by pain in what were described as "unbelievably squalid conditions." Fehl said that he had helped the family for four years. Not long ago, he told the court, the family had $2000 in the bank, a home, without county burdens and an automobile. These happy circumstances, Fehl charged, had been dissipated by wifely extravagance, and further claimed that aid to the family, as a whole, was useless.

The stricken man has three children by his first wife, and one by the second—a babe of 18 months. The mother of the three, now residing near Salem, desires their custody, if the father will sign a release. The oldest, a boy of 14, has been living with his mother, but returned to be at the bedside of his father and refuses to leave.

The court felt that the father should be sent to the county poor farm, where he could receive care and proper food. Fehl offered to pay a third of the expense if he was sent to a hospital. Final action was delayed.

Divorce Result

The second case involves a mother and a 3-year-old child. The woman was given the custody of the child. The father is employed in northern California. Another man is also implicated. The mother was removed to the hospital and the 3-year-old child left in the care of the other man. Kin seek the care and custody of the child.

The Red Cross and county welfare agencies have the case in their hands.

Prof. Henry Engelhardt called upon the court and requested that the county court replace a fence, so he could plow an 18-acre tract and plant it to corn next spring. It lies along the Sams Valley-Medford highway. The county erected a fence on one side of the road. Prof. Engelhardt moved a fence from another portion of his farm to fence the other side. In the night a truck passed by and the barbed wire vanished. The sheriff was informed, but there were no clues except truck tracks, and it is hard to track truck tracks.

Judge Sparrow told Prof. Engelhardt that by the time the corn he was going to plant was up next spring the county court would find the old fence or build him a new one.

The court approved the regular mid-month batch of bills and heard minor pleas for roads and deeds to land, and culverts, and smoother roads, and reduction in the taxes.

CARKIN HONORED UPON DEPARTURE BY LIONS LUNCH

A farewell luncheon for former City Attorney John Carkin was held at the Hotel Medford by the Lions club this noon. The present mayor of the city and two ex-mayors who had worked with him, as well as councilmen and numerous city officials with whom he cooperated during his long official career in Medford were guests of the organization, and joined in doing honor to the departing attorney who will leave noon for Salem to take up his office, as state tax commissioner.

Earl Gaddis and O. O. Alender, former mayors of Medford, eulogized Mr. Carkin in brief resumes of their official experiences with him, and expressed regret that Medford was losing him. Mayor A. W. Pipes followed with a few brief words of appreciation and a prediction of improved conditions in state taxes, due to the addition of Attorney Carkin on the commission. These talks were graciously responded to by Mr. Carkin.

A clever stunt was presented over an improved radio receiving set by Earl Davis and Don Collier, the latter impersonating Mayor Pipes and introducing the former who, in the role of John Carkin, delivered a melodramatic farewell address. The subject of the "Carkin" talk was "Looking Backward."

Among the city officials present at the luncheon were the following: O. O. Alender, Earl Gaddis, Mayor Pipes, Charles Wing, Robert Hammond, City Recorder Alford, City Treasurer Berrian, Fred Scheffel, Jim Collins, P. M. Kershaw, J. O. Grey, E. M. Wilson, Frank Farrell, Clatus McCredie, Roy Elliott, George Prescott, M. L. Alford, C. A. Swickart, Frank New-

DISABLED S. P. FERRIES DELAYING LOCAL TRAINS

That two ferry boats out of order at Port Costa and Benicia, Cal., are the cause of the delay in train service this week, was the explanation given at the Southern Pacific district office this noon. This necessitates all trains running around by Stockton, and a delay of from two to four hours in service a day, it is said. The two ferry boats are now held for repairs.

A $12,000,000 bridge now being built at Benicia by the Southern Pacific will eliminate similar inconvenience to the railroad line and its passengers, it is said. When this is to be completed is still indefinite.

on a street or alley in Medford will soon be as rare as strutting ostriches.

In this connection the city administration has decided to do its own collection of dog licenses henceforth. Instead of allowing the county to collect the tax as last year, owing to a desire to avoid a city dog owner having to pay both a city and county license. It is understood now that the county will not collect the state's license tax on Medford dogs as long as the local administration collects city licenses. Last year the county collected altogether between $4500 and $5000 on city and county dogs, and all that the Medford city government received out of this money was the expense of maintaining a city dog catcher, a matter of a few hundred dollars.

Board Up Drier

After a conference with the representative of the Radovon Dehydrating company of Washington, sent here by Mrs. Radovon to end the complaints about the old fruit drier structure at the end of North Front street being an unsightly menace and fire hazard, it was agreed that the representative will at once board up the open structure, remove the wing from it connecting with the dwelling house, and remove 3000 old trays, leaving 1000, which must be removed from the structure by July 1 next. The work is to be done under supervision of Fire Chief Elliott.

Dog Hospital Teks

A petition signed by the people residing in the neighborhood of the dog hospital out on North Riverside was presented by Attorney Frank Newman, asking the council to take some action to do away with the barking of dogs, especially at night. Mr. Newman stated that the people complaining had no objection to the presence of the dog hospital, but only wanted the noise kept within bounds. He said that the hospital had gotten away from its original purpose of treating sick dogs only, and was in the habit of taking in dog boarders when their owners left the city on vacation. The most of the complaint of noise was caused by these boarder dogs, he said. The council referred the complaint to the council license committee.

WEDDING BELLS

Donald H. Witter of Jacksonville and Miss Valeri Robinson of 422 South Ivy street, Bremerton, were married Wednesday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church by Dr. Alexander G. Bennett, pastor. A party of relatives and close friends were witnesses to the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Witter left immediately for a short wedding journey.

The Real Estate exchange, owned by Elmer Herrold and H. C. Bare, has purchased the William B. Shelby agency, located at 44 North Riverside, and is moving the offices there to the new location.

C. L. Goff, who has handled the insurance department in this office, will continue with his insurance business at the same address.

The Southern Oregon Normal school, in its first big football game of the season here next Saturday afternoon with Menlo Junior college, is apt to be outwelled, according to a perusal of weights of the Californians today. However, the Ashland boys have been well drilled and expect to take into camp the team that defeated Stanford University, Fresh a short time ago.

The probable starting lineup of the visitors is as follows: Todd, No. 22, end; Dyer, 19, end; Wright, 23, nose; 28, or Becker, 32, tackle; Orr, 21, and Sandilott, 14, guard; Whitaker, 28, center; Campbell, 24, quarterback; Parlow, 30, fullback; Pozzo, 7, Hromadka, 8, and Muegenhauer, 2, halfbacks. The weight of the players ranges from 150 in the backfield to 210 for the tackles.

BOYS AND GIRLS OF HIGH SCHOOL NEED MORE JOBS

According to a recent estimate, approximately 75 boys and girls attending Medford high school are partially or wholly self-supporting. To date, approximately 15 boys have been placed in permanent jobs that will last throughout the winter. This number does not include the large group of boys who secured temporary work in the fruit or doing odd jobs.

The work varies in character and includes clerking in stores, janitor work, soliciting, caring for lawns, putting in wood, etc. There are still several boys who are worthy and willing who have not been placed, and anyone desiring to obtain a high school boy to work in the evenings or on Saturdays is urged to get in touch with the principal's office at the high school.

Up to the present date, 25 girls have been given steady employment through the dean of girls' office. All girls so employed receive their room and board, and in addition some receive as high as $8 to $10 per week. Approximately 15 girls have also been placed in part time work after school and on Saturdays. The work found for the girls usually consists of house work, caring for children, serving meals, sewing, clerking in stores, and school cafeteria.

A set of regulations have been drawn up by the dean of girls to aid both the employer and employee where high-school girls are hired. These regulations not only explain what the employer can expect from a girl in number of hours spent working and type of work the girl may be asked to do, but also aids the girl in determining what she owes to her employer.

In each individual case where a girl is placed, the prospective employer and employee are both interviewed by Miss Maurine Carroll, dean of girls, and the fact determined that conditions of employment are satisfactory to both parties concerned. The success of this plan is evidenced by the fact that only four girls changed employment last year out of a large number placed.

In the near future a working girls club will be formed at the high school under the guidance of Miss Carroll to help the self-supporting students to solve their problems and better themselves.

Anyone that has any suggestions to make concerning the system of girl employment, desires any adjustments, or wishes to hire a girl is asked to phone Miss Carroll at 1501. The rate set for house work is 30 cents per hour, and for child care, 25 cents per hour. Boy employment is handled by Principal H. H. Conkle and girl employment by Miss Maurine Carroll.
