Perhaps because the files are so bad and because heavy snows have not arrived in the high mountain country, deer in the Union Creek section are scarce, said Deputy Game Warden Frank Brown when in Medford this forenoon. He recently visited the mountain country around Union Creek, and came to the conclusion that the animals were exceptionally scarce, the deer having gone back to the high mountains following the end of the recent rains. The aquarium at the Chamber of Commerce was restocked this week with a supply of young silverside salmon from the Butte Falls hatchery, through the efforts of W. R. Coleman, state superintendent of fish screens. The fish will probably remain on exhibition until they become too large for their small quarters. Edmund Morris, who has been employed here by the Associated Oil company for several months as junior clerk, will leave tomorrow to take over duties of chief clerk at the Corvallis office. Mrs. Isobel Wilcher, formerly Miss Isobel Taylor, of Millville, Cal., motored to Medford last evening to visit with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mollie Wilcher, and her mother, Mrs. H. H. Taylor of Central Point. T. E. Daniels and Meri Daily have returned from Windy Gap, bringing in three fat bucks. This afternoon Mr. Daniels left for his cottage at Diamond lake, which he will close for the winter after a few days' duck hunting. Mrs. H. Chandler Egan and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter left yesterday in the mail plane to San Francisco where they will remain for a few days. Mrs. Egan reported the trip was greatly enjoyed although the pilot termed it a rough one. Ernest Young, former Chevrolet agent here, spent today in Medford visiting relatives and friends, and will leave tonight for Los Angeles where he expects to locate permanently. He just returned after a visit to his former home in Chicago. Hoover to Speak. WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Hoover has consented to make a brief address October 30 at the time Madame Curie is presented with a gram of radium at the Academy of Sciences in Washington.

Mrs. Leroy Caster of Phoenix left yesterday afternoon for Ellensburg, Wash., to attend the golden wedding anniversary of her parents. She will visit in Yakima and other northern points while on the trip. McCormack, representative of the Standard Advertising Service of New York City, is in Medford for a few days on business. The annual Harvest Home dinner put on by the Presbyterian church at Phoenix, is being anticipated by a number of local residents who have enjoyed that famous repast in the past. Set to begin at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, the dinner will seat a number of Medford people who have formed parties for the occasion. Mrs. Fred McPherson is spending this week in Portland visiting friends, having left for the northern city the first of the week. F. J. Harris, manager of the Commercial Credit company of Portland, accompanied by Kenneth Moore, field representative of the same company, are spending a few days in the city on business. Eugene Schrader, traveling passenger agent for the Dollar Steamship line, spent a few hours this morning in the city. James Peyton of Prospect is spending a few days in the valley on a pheasant hunt. For speeding on Main street last Sunday, G. E. Hall was fined $15 in Judge Taylor's court yesterday. In the same court a fine of $15 and costs was imposed on Fred Anderson of Klamath Falls for switching license plates on a logging truck. J. A. Avery, factory representative for Packard cars, transacted business with W. Gessenbrugge, local dealer, yesterday.

Park Clerk Gets Traffic Citation Arthur Moen, chief clerk of the Crater National park office, disapproved the National Parks service generally first being issued by the police yesterday afternoon for violating the hour parking limit by leaving his car parked on Main street near the Rialto theater for very much over that time. It is feared that Superintendent E. C. Solinsky, and former Superintendent C. G. Thomson and Alex Sparrow, who never get over the foul law that has been dealt their fair service. They don't care anything about the violation itself, but to think that a national park employe or official should be caught at it, makes the very idea unendurable to them. Mr. Moen, who usually parts with a dollar with the same carelessness as a man gives away a leg or arm, was fined $1, which he paid, and has been unable to sleep or eat since.

Brenner Chased Home By Cougar Is Humored After a sixteenth attempt to lure the wily buck from its lair in the hills around Evans Creek, Glen Brenner, according to a report brought to this office this morning, was sent scurrying home with a cougar at his heels late last night. The story about town has it that Glen was creeping stealthily thru the underbrush of the hunting area, with his gun clutched tautly in determined hands, when he heard the cry for food from a tawny cat in the distance. Glen reached home in record time. His brother Cleo's only comment on the experience, was to the effect that he hoped the former brought the gun with him.

D. A. R. TO PLACE MARKER BIRDSEYE HOME GOLD HILL

Motorists crossing the Birdseye Creek bridge on the Pacific highway between Gold Hill and Rogue River perhaps have had little occasion to notice the log house partly covered with vines and tall trees, and have casually passed by one of Jackson county's historical spots—a place where settlers over 70 years ago lived in fear of savage Indians. In 1853 David N. Birdseye brought his bride from Portland to southern Oregon, taking a land donation claim from Robert Mulligan. The couple lived for several months in a small cabin near the site of the present house, constructed in 1856. When Indians were on a rampage in 1855, families of the section joined together and "forted up" from October until the following March, when the Indian strife was over. The place was known as Fort Birdseye and later was headquarters for troops and travelers for several years. The log house stands as it was built 73 years ago, the original chinking still remaining intact. Assisted by Mrs. Wesley Birdseye and her sons, grandsons of David Birdseye, the Crater Lake chapter of the D. A. R. will place a marker in front of the house October 25. Underneath one of the smaller buildings have been found several logs used in the original fort and a piece of one of these will be encased in cement and a bronze tablet will be placed on the face of the marker. Judge William Colvig, who was in southern Oregon during the time of the Indian wars and who married his bride, a daughter of Mr. Birdseye, at the old home over 50 years ago, will be present at the placing of the marker and will deliver a short address.

DR. BOLCOM LAUDS LAY WORKERS AND DOCTORS HEALTH CO-OPERATION That she has had excellent cooperation from the lay workers of the Jackson County Health association as well as from the local medical profession, during her 11 months of service here, was a statement made by Dr. Emily Bolcom, county health physician, who was the principal speaker before the Business and Professional Women's club at the Hotel Holland this noon. Dr. Bolcom gave an intensely interesting resume of the duties that fall upon the shoulders of the health department of the county, and situations that arise during the course of a year's program. That 35 families, many of which include from five to seven children are now on the county indigent list, was another fact brought on in the talk. The transient problem, with its various phases complicates the task of "keeping house for the county," said the physician. "Public health work is not one of power or authority vested in the persons of its officers. It is one of education—principally thru the children to the parents," said Dr. Bolcom. In answer to a request from the American Legion, read before the club by President Maude Chapman the members voted to participate actively in the Armistice Day parade to be held November 11.
