

DEATH CALLS OLD SOLDIER, VETERAN OF CONFEDERACY

Gene B. Jennings, born at Middleton, Ky., Gary county, November 27, 1846, an old Confederate veteran, died last night at 11 o'clock at the Sacred Heart hospital of heart disease. He has no known relatives and all were believed to have been killed during the Civil war. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Perl's Funeral home at 2 o'clock.

He was a Medford resident for the past 10 years and had spent the last three months with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Conrad at 928 West Second street. He was left an orphan at the age of five years and married at the age of 27. Three children were born, two girls and a boy, but they died at the ages of 11, 9 and 7 in one night as the result of a diphtheria epidemic at Wray, Colo., during the Colorado gold rush of 1854. His wife died a few months later suffering from grief.

The deceased fought in the Civil war, was wounded and was a prisoner of Union soldiers. Later he worked eight years as a cowboy on the Texas range. As long as he was physically able, he was employed in orchard work here, but had not been employed for the last few years. He had been sick three months.

Wallace McCamant Here to Attend Big Gathering of Scottish Rite Masons

"Medford's growth and development should be an inspiration for the rest of Oregon. I'm sure it has been for me," said former Supreme Court Justice Wallace McCamant of Portland, who is in time this morning for an extensive walk around the city and a visit to the airport.

"I've felt a personal interest in Medford and have watched her development over a period of 37 years. Each time I come down here during late years I am astounded at her growth," he said.

McCammant has always had the finest climate in Oregon, but she hasn't let that stop her from forging ahead along other lines. This city is certainly to be congratulated on her latest and most important achievement—the new airport.

Judge McCamant said that he had heard a great deal about the local port but had not dreamed that it was as ambitious a project as this.

The Portland judge will be especially remembered for the outstanding Lincoln's day address he made here in 1919, a talk which was said to be one of the finest pieces of oratory ever heard in Medford.

A 33rd degree member and Wise Master of Alhworth Chapter Rose Croix of Portland, he is here as the personal representative of Louis G. Clarke, 33rd degree deputy in Oregon for the Supreme Council Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite.

YOUNG DISCUSSES FROST PROBLEMS AT GROWER MEET

General discussion of smudging problems and of the damage done the local pear crop by low temperatures last year, took place at the meeting of a number of growers held at the University club last night. Floyd Young, frost expert, who arrived in the city yesterday to check up on the 15 temperature stations in the valley, was the principal speaker at the meeting.

Only a negligible amount of damage resulted from frosts last year, and that affected only the Bartlett crop, according to Mr. Young. An interesting and constructive discussion made by the expert was the fact that, while the same low temperature prevailed throughout the valley at the time of the damage, only the fruit in the northern sections was injured. This was due to the fact that the southern trees were further advanced and out of danger.

Mr. Young, who is compiling the data gathered on this trip, will be able to use this information to advantage with the fruit growers next year. He left this noon for San Francisco and Los Angeles.

LIGHT FORMS THEME OF ROTARY PROGRAM

The 50th anniversary of the invention of incandescent light was observed at the Rotary club meeting today, with a program in charge of Horace Bromley. A brief and interesting sketch of the life of Edison and his work preceded the showing of two reels of films, one depicting the history of light and the other personal glimpses of Edison in relation to other scientists of the past few generations.

A replica of the first incandescent light as presented to the world by the great inventor, was introduced in the talk and proved the source of considerable interest. Arthur J. Palmer's beautiful tribute to Edison" was also read by Mr. Bromley during the course of the meeting.

JUBILEE ASSEMBLY AT HI SCHOOL WEDNESDAY

Because of the physical examinations which will be given at the high school tomorrow afternoon, the assembly in commemoration of the Golden Jubilee of the Edison light will be held at 11:30 instead of 1 o'clock as was previously announced.

The program will include two speeches, "The Achievements of Thomas A. Edison," by Norris Porter, and "The Life of Thomas A. Edison," by Marguerite Watson. The high school girls' glee club will sing "Wake Miss Lindy," by Warner, and "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn. At the close of the assembly, the entire student body will sing one of the high school songs, as is the custom.

MARKER DATE SET BACK TWO WEEKS

The unveiling of the Fort Birdseye marker, which had been set for next Friday afternoon, has been postponed until Monday afternoon, November 4, at 2 o'clock, when a special program will be given by the Crater Lake chapter of the D. A. R.

The site of the fort and the historic log house built in 1856 is just this side of the Rogue river on the Pacific highway south of the Birdseye Creek bridge.

The marker is a beautiful stone and cement monument and will be placed in front of the present dwelling, which is over 75 years old.
