

NEW ROAD FOR LAKE O'WOODS IN DISCUSSION

County Court, in Ashland Meeting, Proposes Market Route Outlet to Dead Indian - East Ashland Acreage Would Benefit.

"A new market road out of Ashland that would both serve to develop the vast Ashland acreage east of Bear Creek and also tend by a shorter route to Lake of the Woods was proposed by County Commissioner Douglas Alford at the meeting of the county court members and Ashland citizens Friday at the Lillia Springs hotel when the question of road improvements into the Dead Indian country were discussed," says the Ashland Tidings.

"Mr. Alford stated that eventually this road into the acreage east of Ashland would have to be built and that he favored it in the near future in preference to the outlet on the Pacific highway south of Ashland. Other members of the county court expressed themselves as also favoring this improvement. They brought out the fact that there is sufficient acreage east of Ashland for dozens of additional families and that Ashland should have this development.

"Good Pear Land "Mr. Alford stated Prof. Reimer and other authorities had said this acreage would make splendid pear orchards and that, if a road was built through the area, it would become productive whereas most of it now is not.

"The meeting was called primarily to see if additional funds could not be appropriated for the improvement of the Dead Indian road and members of the local chamber of commerce presented their arguments for this development. County Judge Alex Sparrow, in reply to a statement it had been heard that the present Lake of the Woods road might be abandoned, stated that "no county roads would be abandoned."

"Commissioner Bursell said the work on the Lake Creek road would be continued on about the same basis next year, but it was possible that a 50-50 appropriation ratio between that market road and the Dead Indian road might be worked out. Previously the ratio had been about 5 to 2, although it was shown that only seven miles had been completed on the Lake Creek road, whereas four and one-half miles had been improved the last two years on the Dead Indian road.

"County Engineer Rynning reported the two worst places on this side of the hill were the two and one-half miles from Shale Oil to the Applegate section and the half-mile in Ice House canyon. He said the rock crusher would prepare a large quantity of crushed rock this fall which would be available for use early next spring.

"The question of temporary repairs on the Dead Indian road were mentioned and it is thought that arrangements will be made by the county court for temporary repairs so that the road can be used earlier in the spring.

"Deputy Forester Hugh Rankin stated his department was preparing to make several much-improved points in the road and had already repaired one or two hot spots in the Dead Indian road.

"Those present at the meeting were: County Judge Alex Sparrow, Commissioners Alford and Bursell; County Engineer Paul Rynning; Bert Anderson, Medford; Deputy Forester Hugh Rankin; H. L. Claycomb, Gen. W. Dunn, A. W. Moon, Henry Childs, Geo. H. Mosser and H. M. Green, Ashland."

ASK RECEIVER FOR LOCAL FILM STUDIO

Action was filed this week in circuit court by C. E. Swallow, building contractor, for the appointment of a receiver for the Rogue River Studios, Inc., naming C. E. Gates, George Flint and I. Hutton as officers of the corporation, each supposed to have $50,000 stock in the company.

A judgment of $5620 was returned in favor of Swallow in court some time ago when he filed suit against the company for materials and services rendered. Due to the fact that the plaintiff could not find anything to attach for his money, he is asking for the appointment of a receiver and in this way gain access to the stock subscriptions. It was indicated there would be other suits filed if the receiver is appointed.

Bones of Pet Cow Exposed to Breeze In Berrydale Present Knotty Problem

A knotty problem confronts the city of Medford and Jackson county. It involves the question of who shall disturb the bones of a bridge cow, lying in a grave outside the city limits north of Medford.

The animal belonged to a 14-year-old boy, who nursed it thru a recent serious illness, with the aid of the humane society. A week ago today the pet took a turn for the worse and went out of this life on the trail of a wracking cough.

Sadly the owner sought out a plot near an irrigation flume on the McAndrews road, and bossy was buried beneath a comparatively thin covering of soil.

W. C. Hookard, who owns a store in the Berrydale district, just inside the city limits, but still near enough to be worried over the possible malodorousness of breezes carrying the grave of the departed one, called the police.

The police referred him to the Humane society, who referred him to Dr. D. W. Stone, who referred him to Mrs. Sil Richardson, who referred him to the county court and around and around the circle until, it is said, Mr. Hookard became dizzy and called the health department.

As the matter fell just a few feet outside the jurisdiction of each person and department, the bones of poor bossy are still lying undisturbed hoping that the winds of chance will use discretion until Mother Nature has had a chance to do her stuff.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The better grades of butter continued active with the lower grades apparently less desirable. No price changes were made.

The egg market was also firm, but without change.

In the poultry division supplies were somewhat short and demand brisk for medium and heavy hens. Fancy turkeys were in unusually good demand. Much under grade stock is being declined by dealers.

Apples are plentiful, but the demand is equal to the supply. Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland Market News Service of the United States Bureau of Agriculture says: "Carlot unloads of fresh fruits and vegetables at Portland took a sudden increase this week, with a total of 150 cars unloaded, compared with 132 cars the previous week."

"Itemized unloads are as follows: Apples 31 cars, grapes 31, pears 29, potatoes 48, and other commodities 29 cars."

"Unloads of apples were greater by 10 cars than last week, this probably due to considerable movement into storage in the city. Apple storage in Portland is still far less than usual."

MARSHALL FIELD MAN WRITES MANN ON PORT

An interesting letter from Porter J. Case, general sales manager for the Marshall Field's company of Chicago, was received this week by John C. Mann of Mann's Department store, in reply to first air-mail flight greetings that were sent to Mr. Case on the occasion of the first flight from Medford's new municipal airport.

The letter, in part, was as follows: "The literature on Medford, showing the details of the new airport and the first flight dedication, was received here before I got home. I was quite interested. I took my first flight last week from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, returning by train the next day to Chicago; you can see I am also getting air-minded."

DEATH ENDS LONG BATTLE ON BOOZE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The almost lifelong conflict of Edward Shumaker with the liquor traffic was at an end today. Death late yesterday terminated a lingering illness of the man who for 22 years had been superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League.

Just as he had fought a losing fight in recent years to escape serving a sentence for contempt of the Indiana supreme court, for several months Dr. Shumaker has been losing his battle for life with a malignant tumor, the hopelessness of which fight was not revealed to him. Yesterday afternoon he sank into semi-consciousness, but regained easier and was able to recognize members of his family shortly before his death. He was 61 years old.

Friends of the militant dry leader insisted that his incarceration at the state penal farm for 53 days early this year sapped his strength and weakened him in his final illness.

A Fleetwood lifeboat stood by throughout the night, but there were no developments. The police were informed but the authorities were very guarded in handling the affair in view of many hoaxes connected with bottle messages that have taken place recently.

CONKLE OPENS ATHLETIC ASS'N QUIZ ON BAKER

Much Testimony Ruled Out in Hearing of Ineligibility charges Against High School Players—Lawyer Is Barred.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An avalanche of testimony and reams of evidence which members of the Oregon High School Athletic association ruled out as immaterial left the La Grande-Baker-Corvallis high school football tangle without decision today after association board members postponed the hearing until late afternoon for further testimony.

The tangle appeared when the La Grande high school officials filed a protest with the association against Baker and five members of the Corvallis team of that city. H. W. Adams, principal of the Corvallis high school, at which at least two of the five protested players once attended, entered another protest against Baker along the same lines.

La Grande protested that Clayton Crawford, Melvin Edgers, Clarence Weber, Carroll Smith and Harold Joslin attended other schools during the year of 1928 and 1929 and were ineligible to play on the Baker team because their parents resided outside of the Baker school district.

HOSS REFUTES CHARGE BY PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hal E. Hoss today denied accusations made by Charles E. Folsom, public accountant of Portland, that steam roller methods were used in the acceptance here Thursday by the Oregon league of cities of Hoss' plan for establishing a uniform system of accounting for Oregon municipalities.

"There was no cut and dried program," Hoss said, "and I consider that the meeting was a public hearing within the full meaning of the law. Mr. Folsom was given as much time to speak as anyone else. He said himself that it would take him three hours to present the plan that he wants to sell the state."
