BEST EGGS ADVANCE ON PORTLAND MART

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30.—(AP) Better grade eggs have advanced again. One cent was added to the prices of fresh extras and fresh mediums Wednesday by the Pacific Co-operative Poultry producers, making the former 47 cents and the latter 38 cents to wholesalers. Retail prices are usually two cents above these, but were fixed mostly at the behest of the seller. Some retailers were charging as high as 55 cents for fresh extras.

Butter prices were steady and unchanged.

TABLE ROCK SCHOOL PARTY ON THURSDAY

TABLE ROCK, Ore., Oct. 30.—(Special)—The teachers and pupils of the Table Rock school and members of the community club are preparing a Hallowe'en program and entertainment for Thursday night, October 31, at the school house.

Everyone is invited to take part in the merriment, enjoy the program and buy a box supper at the auction which is being held to raise money for a stereopticon lantern for the school.

EAGLE POINT SCHOOL BUDGET VOTE NOV. 16

EAGLE POINT, Ore., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The board of directors of the Eagle Point school spent a long and strenuous evening in preparing the budget. All attempts to keep the budget within the 6 per cent limitation failed, due to the necessity of employing another high school teacher and the decrease in receipts of tuition funds caused by the loss of studnets to Butte Falls high school last fall.

The proposed budget will be presented to the voters Saturday, November 16th, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

REESE CREEK

REESE CREEK, Ore., Oct. 30. (Special.)—Among those attending the revival meetings at the Nazarene church in Medford from here were Mrs. Agnes Moffitt and C. L. Cummons and wife.

Dr. Porter is getting along very nicely with the new house he is building, and will soon be ready for the roof.

E. Smith has been getting the 80-acre tract purchased by M. Evenaugh last spring, in shape to plant grain which Mr. Evenaugh expects to put in.

The title of the lesson for next Sunday is "The Christian Relation to the Powers That Be," and the golden text, "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers."

James Roseberry has been hauling fertilizer for himself and Ted Seamon, getting ready for a good garden next year.

The Central Co-operative Livestock association of St. Paul does an annual business of $25,000,000. All its members are livestock raisers.

Clara Bow, in New Role, Coming to Craterian

Miss Bow changes character in "Dangerous Curves," at the Craterian tomorrow. She graduates from the dizzy, chuckle-headed flapper class to work for her master's degree in tragi-comedy. She injects as much vigor, enthusiasm and charm in the portrayal of a short-skirted and spangled bare-back rider as she formerly did as a scatter-brained, adolescent pep and strut girl.

In "Dangerous Curves" Miss Bow is in love with Richard Arlen, a tight-rope performer. She decides to learn tight-rope walking herself (between performances as a bare-back artist), so that she can get a place on the circus program near her beloved. She finally learns the wire-balancing art, but finds that Arlen spurns her for Kay Francis, female menace in the piece. In spite of his repeated irresponsiveness, Clara continues to demonstrate her love for Arlen and finally manages, by a desperate move, to save him from disgrace, bringing him to a realization of love for her.

The Drake Case at Rialto Today

"The Drake Case," which opened at the Rialto theater today, establishes itself as vastly different from the run of murder trial court-room films because of its unique story and its extraordinary treatment.

It is really the trial of The People vs. Lulu Marks, an intriguing character, accused of the cold-blooded murder of a wealthy woman. While the entire story is practically enacted through the testimony of witnesses, the picture has been handled so that it stands alone among the films of its kind.

The audience in the theater becomes the audience in the court-room, listening to a trial that is marked with drama, tears, laughter, thrills and suspense. It has everything that features the trial of a celebrated murder case, and a little bit more.

There is an all-star cast including Gladys Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Fraser, James Crane and Doris Lloyd.

Gladys Hulette at Isis Theatre

Gladys Hulette, one of the feminine leads in "Combat," the new picture starring George Walsh at the Isis tonight, has veered from comedy to drama to tragedy and back again in her varied screen career.

Gladys isn't satisfied with a picturee areer alone; she is very busy writing—but whether fiction, biography, essays or history, no one knows.

Anyhow, she wasn't too engrossed with her literary career to refuse the part of Risa Bartlett, the night club hostess who braves the perils of flying to rescue Jack Hammond.
