

ANNUAL REBEKAH CONVENTION HELD GOLD HILL HALL

GOLD HILL, Ore., Oct. 31.—(Special)—The annual Rebekah convention of District No. 12 of the State of Oregon was held in the L. O. O. F. hall at Gold Hill on Wednesday. The convention was opened at 10:45 for the day session.

Regular work of this district was discussed and after other duties were taken up the convention was officially closed at 5 o'clock. At this time a banquet was served to those present by Live Oak lodge of Rogue River.

During the evening Amethyst Rebekah lodge No. 97 of Gold Hill held a meeting of its members and visiting lodges, this evening being the regular meeting night of this lodge. Medford Rebekahs put on the floor work. This was done splendidly and many complimentary remarks were heard as to the ability of the Medford lodge in executing the work.

Also, during the evening meeting, an instructive address was given to those present by Hallie Engle, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Oregon. This address was very much appreciated as it dealt with many interesting facts concerning the Gold Hill lodge as well as visiting lodges. After the address the evening session of the lodge was closed. A large crowd attended the day session as well as that of the evening.

The grand officers who were present were Hallie Engle, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Oregon; Edith Kelly, past president and marshal of the International A. R. A.; Louise Peruzzi, past president, and Mr. Trefon of Ashland, past grand master of Oregon.

The convention was also favored by Sister Meamer of the state of Massachusetts.

Girl Scouts Training To Become Leaders Make Light Work of Chores; Broad Development Program Planned

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER

"Kitchen police" may be a bore to the soldier but to the girl scout it is an integral part of her training. Just as are handcrafts, woodwork and outdoor cookery. And these girls don't forget their training when they are home in the winter time where they just as cheerfully help their mothers with the housework.

Here they are pictured at Camp Edith Macy, which has come to be called the "University of the Woods" in the Girl Scout organization. The encampment, located at Briarcliff, N. Y., closed its fourth season on October 10, having given instruction in leadership to more than 600 young women. It is the combined demonstration and experimental camp for the ten others scattered throughout the country, where volunteer leaders get their training according to the standards and practices of the Girl

Scouts. The camp, donated by V. Everitt Macy, was named in memory of his wife, Edith Carpenter Macy, who was an ardent Girl Scout worker. To expand the work of such camps as this and to train sufficient leaders to keep abreast of the increasing demand for girl scout work in this country, the National Council of the Girl Scouts is instituting a five-year development program at a cost of $3,000,000. An initial contribution of $500,000 announced by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary president of the Girl
