A saxophone wailed on Main street all day yesterday and in the limits of one block in the business section. It was played by a young blind man, who moved slowly up and down the length of the block while passersby threw in nickels and dimes to assure him another meal. On the next block was another blind man, begging for alms. He had no music to play, but displayed a sign, "I am stone blind. I was kicked by a horse." Both beggars are reported to have done a fairly good day's business.

ST. ANN'S SOCIETY PLANS STYLE SHOW

What is said to be one of the most unique style shows ever planned in southern Oregon, is the preview of garments contained in the St. Ann's Altar Society treasure chest, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Annie Kelleher, 1019 South Oakdale, next Friday afternoon and evening.

All women in Medford, cordially invited to attend. The exhibition will be held from three to five in the afternoon and at eight in the evening. A number of local girls have been selected to model the exquisite houndoir creations included in the treasure chest. Some of these have been imported from across the sea, others have been sent from distant eastern points and others have been designed in Medford. Fine linens and pieces for the home are also included among the "treasures." A committee of Altar society members is in charge of the show and is leaving no stone unturned to make it a success.
