

Nerve Force Basic to Health

Removing Nerve Pressure Banishes Bodily Pains

A great many human disorders are said by health scientists to be incurable. Among the array of baffling ailments are many that result from disturbances of kidney functions. These glands have a work to perform that designates them as practical controllers of the system of expelling waste product from the body. If they work in excess it will affect the bowel by depriving it of due moisture. Then arises a situation of unnatural retention of fecal matter to poison the entire system through blood circulation.

Like all other body parts these organs receive their powers from the brain through the nerves. They are healthy for their work when the nerves connecting them are free from spinal pressure for the normal transmission of vital force. The high percentage of results reached by the chiropractors in this one particular condition alone is of real triumph for the theory underlying their entire work. It fully justifies the claim of the members of this profession of far-reaching benefits to be found in scientific spinal adjustments. Especially is this true in chronic conditions of any character, even though they are said to be incurable.

It is much easier to pursue a hazy path than it is to build a new one. It is less difficult to doubt than it is to believe. There are people who would rather hold to prejudice than have their opinions disproved. Chiropractic is a new, strange and unusual health idea, to some people. Some are prejudiced for other methods in spite of the fact that they find no relief in them.

Results produced by chiropractic are the sole source of the growth and the development of the work from a single individual to fifteen thousand members of the profession in the comparatively short period of a quarter of a century. Thousands have been restored to health by chiropractic adjustments and other thousands will find equal relief in the same way. If you are sick you are interested in getting well. Make your own investigation of chiropractic.

If you are really sick beyond the power of common sense methods of living you will find by consulting a chiropractor that many recoveries are readily made by merely adjusting the spine to insure full and free action of vital force through the nerves to the ailing organs or parts.

Simple, you say, and in a sense it is. But in its very simplicity it is highly scientific. Removing the pressure from the nerves to the intestines will insure good digestion. Nature will correct bowel and kidney disorders in the same way. Adjusting the pinched nerves will relieve aches and pains anywhere in the body. Men, women and children get equal results. Health is not a matter of sex, age or, ordinarily, of occupation. It is a matter of perfect action of the natural forces of the body. Vital force in normal quantity and degree is insured to every part. Chiropractic adjustments are given to effect that freedom. The part will get well when that object is accomplished.

Inquiry at the office of the chiropractor will convince any sick individual that the good results claimed for chiropractic adjustments can be promptly and lastingly accomplished in nearly every kind of human ailment by merely making an adjustment of the deviating joints of the spine which are responsible for the unnatural nerve pressure that causes the trouble. Investigation of the chiropractic science is courted. Opportunity is freely given for full consultation.

DOUGLAS CO-OP SCORNS OFFERS IN TURKEY POOL

Five Bids Declared Too Low —Over 30 Cents Preferred Is Report—Consignment Deals May Be Made Declares Manager.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Thanksgiving turkey price situation was thrown into confusion when directors of the Douglas Co-operative Turkey Growers late yesterday rejected the five bids received as too low and refused to sell at the prices quoted by prospective buyers. Information was received from the Idaho pool at Boise that similar action has been taken there. Both the Douglas county and Idaho association withheld the information regarding prices received but it was stated the high bid was over 20 cents. It was considered, however, that this was below the price justified by market conditions.

Bids for Douglas county turkeys were said to be practically the same as offered for the Idaho pool. Reports had not been received from Colorado and Nebraska where bids were received.

Herbert Beyers, manager of the Douglas pool, said the associations have investigated the market and believe the prices offered are considerably lower than conditions would justify. The turkeys will not be sold for cash unless a better offer is secured. He said several firms are preparing to handle the turkeys on a consignment basis, Beyers said, with a cash advance to the growers. He said the same procedure was considered by Idaho growers.

Five large companies were understood to have bid on the Douglas county pool.

TAXPAYERS FLOCK TO AVOID PENALTY

Yesterday was the biggest day of the year at the sheriff's office in the collection of taxes when $85,000 was taken in covering 1099 pieces of property. The largest check came from the Rogue River Timber company, which paid $16,000 for the second half of the 1928 taxes. Only one large check had not arrived and that was from the Owen-Oregon Lumber company.

Today is the last day taxes can be paid without incurring a penalty as beginning tomorrow 1 per cent per month will be charged for delinquent amounts.

Large checks have been received from the Southern Pacific company, over $60,000 and from the California Oregon Power company for $38,000. The tax department has several extra helpers and has been working overtime. The office will not be open after regular closing hours.

The injured girl was reported to be much better today and in no serious condition. The boy's father, Roy Williamson, was arrested on a charge of allowing a minor to drive and is to have a hearing this week also.

RECALL PEACE PACT AS GRID GAME NEARS

As the time approaches for the annual football game between Medford and Ashland, interest is being aroused as to the demonstrations that will be staged by the two cities in order to create enthusiasm and pep.

In former years it has been the custom for elements of both the schools to get together which brought about ill feeling between the two schools. The pact that was entered into by the students bodies of Ashland and Medford high schools two years ago is still in effect, according to Principal Conkle, which states that there are to be "no marauding expeditions or visit by students of one community to that of the other at any time during the school term." The pact also does away with all unsportsmanlike demonstrations.

BREESE MONOPLANE IS FILMED BY BROMLEY

Moving pictures of the Breesse monoplane, an Oregon made product, which has taken many leading citizens on flights over the valley the past two days were filmed yesterday by H. L. Bromley for the Copes news-reel. Close-ups of the plane and its famous pilot, Major Eckerson, as well as George Love, sales manager for the Breesse Aircraft corporation, and scenes of the distinguished passengers were shot by the Copes cameraman at the new airport. Some good views of the field as well as views of the city and surrounding country were also taken for early showing by the "Copes Current Events" news-reel.

Student Says Medfordites Also Lacking in Support for Squad; Armistice Day Turnout Sought

"The students of Medford high school are disappointed for the vast amount of support for the football team. They have failed to give the team the support it deserves. They lack that valuable quality known as school spirit." These are the serious indictments that have been brought against the local student body as an aftermath of Saturday's game with Eugene.

The rooting has been characterized as feeble and markedly effeminate in tone due to the failure of the male element of the student body to do its share of cheering. In a word, the alumni and fans generally, apparently feel that the students have fallen down on the job.

Are the students the only ones who can be accused of giving up in the time of adversity? The main grandstand and bleachers, reserved for members of the alumni and those rabid fans who demand victory, were conspicuously empty.

A final check on the Cavallari game, contrary to last week's report, shows a profit of approximately $1,500, while a deficit was incurred as a result of the Eugene game. If the attendance is as poor at future games as it has been, the high school will face a deficit of several hundred dollars at the end of the season.

Suicide Of Ex-Sergeant Causes No Mourning In Foreign Legion

By T. T. Topping, Associated Press Staff Writer. SIDI-BEL-ABRES, Algeria.—(AP)—No tears were shed by the hard-boiled corporals and buck privates of the Foreign Legion when they heard that Peter Klems, a former legionnaire sergeant and one of the most audacious adventurers ever to set foot in North Africa, had committed suicide in a Berlin police station. Klems had escaped from a French firing squad after being sentenced to death by a court martial for desertion and colluding with Abd-el-Krim, to whom he became chief of staff. When informed that he had taken up burglary upon his return to Germany, his former comrades expressed no surprise.

"He was a natural born burglar," they agreed. Six years ago Klems, fleeing before the German police, reached Marseilles and enlisted in the Foreign Legion. He took part in several combats against Abd-el-Krim and behaved so well that he was promoted to a sergeant.

Klems' adventurous soul felt, however, that there was more opportunity for advancement with the rebel forces and he deserted to the Rifians. Abd-el-Krim appreciated the skill of Klems as a soldier and made him his chief adviser.

Klems taught the Rifians many modern war methods, especially with artillery. One morning in May, 1926, the second French division under General Marty, operating along the Moulaya river, reached the foothills of the Rif range. Tarsuel, Abd-el-Krim's military capital, lay 20 miles to the north and General Marty in his hurry to capture the rebel chief, ordered the line of hills was miles away to be stormed. Four companies were instructed to reach the top of the hills and dig themselves in. Just as the black domes of the Senegalese appeared over the top of the range, 27 millimeter guns raked the ground with appallingly effective shots. It seemed as if the Rifians had their two lone batteries trained upon this point. Twenty-three men were killed and 20 wounded before the four companies could be brought back. That evening at mess, General Marty said: "Every one of those shells was countersigned 'Klems.' He must be captured when we get that Rifian army."

But Klems escaped when Abd-el-Krim's collapse came and it was a year later before a dark-haired girl employed by the French enticed him into Foreign Legion territory. He was sentenced to be shot. Five days later he stole the uniform of a French interpreter and walked through the lines. Fleeing to Germany, he took up his old trade of burglary, was caught and was being questioned in a Berlin police station when he slashed his throat with a razor blade.
