Whatever else it may accomplish, the now-famous Carnegie Foundation report on college football recruiting and subsidizing methods gives just about a "clean bill" to the hitherto much-maligned "Old Grads," who can now give three cheers for the old alma mater without being put under suspicion.

Specifically, the report says: "A common misconception touching the personal recruiting of athletes for intercollegiate competition is that most of the work is done by alumni."

"The facts of our inquiry prove conclusively that this is not the case," the report goes on to say. "Of 112 colleges and universities visited, at only a little over 20 per cent was recruiting conducted by alumni. In slightly over half of the cases, it was an affair of the athletic departments and in eight per cent it rested upon administrative, executive or academic officers."

The old grads, at least, have the last laugh.

The Carnegie report set forth in particular the keen rivalry for schoolboy and prep talent among the leading colleges of California. The University of California in its August "C" Bulletin, issued for the benefit of alumni, published a number of letters written by various schoolboy athletes to friends. These were some of the excerpts:

"I have already received some offers of scholarships from other schools, some of them in the conference, and jobs that will pay my expenses through school. My dad cannot see my going to Cal and putting out a lot of money when I can go to several other schools without the cost."

"I don't expect you fellows to hand me a job on a silver platter, but I received a letter from the scholarship board at . . . yesterday, stating that I had been granted a full scholarship to . . . Also one of the fraternities have a job for me. So I would be foolish to go to Berkeley under present circumstances, unless I was sure of a good job. I still want to go to Berkeley."

"The coach from . . . came up to the park to see me and as a consequence I went to . . . with him. I worked out with the varsity three days and at the end of that period he told me I was a cinch to the varsity. Whether he was kidding I don't know, but I rather think he meant it, for he has called up three times since I've gotten home, telling me the same. I also went to . . . with the frosh coach and kicked a little. . . offered me board, room, and tuition, but really one can't class . . . as a college."

"There is one of the men here at . . . that has a considerable pull at the school. He came to . . . with the understanding that he would get a scholarship—being a very good football prospect. During practice he broke his knee and did not get his number and they have refused him a scholarship and do not offer any hopes of him getting one until he makes the Varsity in his sophomore, junior or senior year."

"From a brother of a promising young athlete: 'He wishes to enroll as a freshman. The University of . . . insists that he come to . . . to school and has offered as an inducement room, board, tuition and books, provided he play football of course. I am very desirous of his attending Cal. U. If you think there is any possible chance of arranging for his room, board, books.'"

On the same day that the Carnegie report became public property, Enoch Bagshaw resigned as head coach at the University of Washington and two Iowa gridiron athletes set forth to disprove charges involving their amateur status. And these are only two of the disturbances.

Bagshaw's difficulties have been long-standing, especially since last season, yet his withdrawal after the Huskies met two stunning reversals at the hands of Southern California and Washington State added significance to the Carnegie report's disclosure that in about three out of seven colleges the football coach's tenure depended on producing winning teams.

KAROSICK WINNER IN ROUGH MATCH WITH DEMETRAL

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7.—(AP) In a rough wrestling match here last night, Al Karosick, light heavyweight, defeated Harry Demetral, two out of three falls in the main event and Chet Wiles, wrestling traffic cop, and August Sapp, Seattle, went 45 minutes to a draw in the special event. Karosick took the first fall from Demetral in 28 minutes, 40 seconds, after exchanges to face with fists and kicks to the body. Demetral came back equally rough to take the second fall in 11 minutes, 10 seconds when after getting set for an airplane spin, suddenly shot Karosick headfirst to the mat and pounded upon him. Karosick took the third fall with a reverse headlock in 15 minutes, 10 seconds. The fall came after eight applications of this punishing hold.

Wiles took the first fall from Sapp in 17 minutes, 32 seconds with wristlocks. Sapp taking the second fall in 10 minutes, 18 seconds with a half airplane spin and body slam.

South Sea Picture Is Theatre Tonic

Life in a bandit infested seaport on the Caribbean is the interesting picture provided by Gotham's latest screen feature "Turn Back the Hours," which is tonight's and Friday's feature at the Isis theater.

The picture takes its title from the efforts of a man, an officer and a gentleman, who has fallen to the depths and who tries to "turn back the hours" in an effort to regain his former status among fellow men.

The climax of the picture is a pitched battle between a desperate gang of bandits and a landing party of U. S. sailors and marines who arrive in a battleship.

WATER BOND VOTE IN MIDWAY DIST. NOV. 9

HOWARD DISTRICT, Ore., Nov. 7.—(Special)—A very interesting water meeting was held at the Howard school Tuesday night at which time many questions were brought up for discussion and made clear to the people.

The election for the water bonds will be held Saturday, November 9th.

Varicose Veins Can Now Be Safely Reduced in Your Home

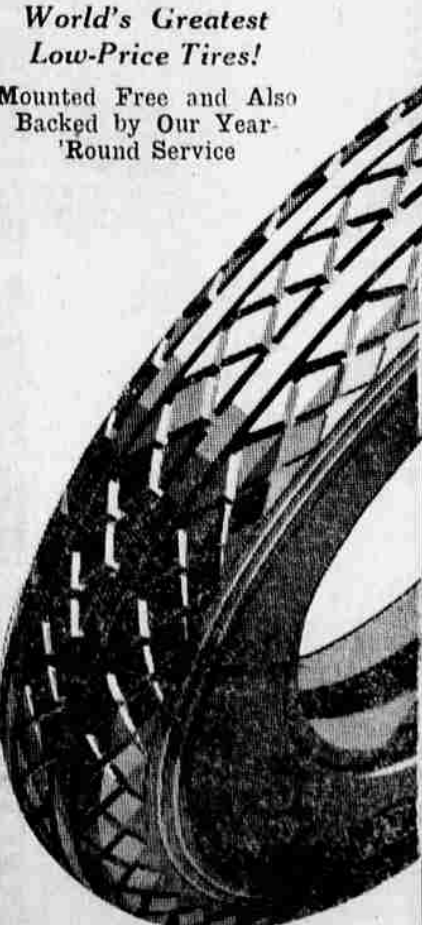

Why is it people are always so repulsed by unsightly Varicose Veins? Maybe it's because a physical defect is always offending and you'll have to admit there's nothing more distressing than to see a beautiful woman with shapely legs disfigured with thick, bulging veins and bunches?

But it's her own fault because the swift and effective way in which Moore's Emerald Oil has been stopping the pain of Varicose Veins and reducing the ugliest and most swollen veins to normal again—right in your own home, without the slightest inconvenience—is nothing short of magical.

Get a 2-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil this very day at Health's or your drugstore—you'll soon be able to wear the thinnest stockings, fashionably short skirts, a chic bathing suit without having every-one criticize your ugly veined legs.

A lady from Ogden writes: "I had Varicose Veins so bad I couldn't even walk in comfort. The doctor said I had to be operated on but I read about Emerald Oil and tried it and in 3 days time it fixed me up—one bottle did the work."
