

DEAD MAN BLAMED IN BOMB PLOT

Woman Says Brother Made Death Bed Confession of Planting Preparedness Day Bomb for Which Tom Mooney Sentenced —Was to Be Paid for Deed—Got Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Attorney General Mitchell today wrote Senator Schall, of Minnesota, that the federal government has no right to deal with the case of Tom Mooney, serving a jail sentence in California in connection with the preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1918.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A statement by Mrs. George Monroe, a resident of the mining section near here, claiming that her dead brother was responsible for the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco instead of Tom Mooney, was before authorities today.

Mrs. Monroe said Lewis Smith, her brother, in a deathbed statement in Cleveland seven years ago, "confessed" that it was he who planted the bomb which took the lives of 18 persons marching in the San Francisco parade. Her declaration corroborated a letter from Frank O. Stevens, inmate of the Dayton, Ohio, national military home, to Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota.

Mooney, now 46, is serving a life sentence in a California prison. He at first was sentenced to be hanged, but Governor W. D. Stephens commuted this to life imprisonment in November, 1925.

To Be Paid.
Mrs. Monroe, located on Stevens' information, agreed with his story that Smith admitted he planted the explosive on the promise of being "well paid." Smith, however, said he received nothing for the outrage. His sister said he swore that Mooney had nothing to do with the bombing. She did not press him for further details, she said, because she did not wish to become involved in the case which has attracted nation-wide attention.

In a statement supplementing his letter to Senator Schall, Stevens told of first becoming interested in the case when he and Smith worked together in a mine at Pipe Creek, Belmont county, Ohio, in 1919. Tom Mooney is now doing his own time, he is then said, according to Stevens, but would give no further details.

Later, Stevens recounted, Smith moved to Wheeling, W. Va., and finally to Cleveland where he died July 4, 1922.

Efforts Failed.
Stevens met with continued failure in his efforts to interest others in the purported confession. Finally, he saw a magazine article by Senator Schall criticizing the conviction of Mooney, and wrote to the Minnesota at Washington. The senator turned the letter over to the department of justice, where it was not determined what action would be taken.

Smith's widow is still living in Cleveland. Mrs. Monroe said, but attempts to locate her were unavailing.

Allegations that Mooney and Warren K. Billings, a shoe clerk who also received a life sentence for the San Francisco tragedy, were convicted by perjury and fraud because of their so-called radical tendencies, have kept the case in the limelight for several years. Two appeals to the California supreme court failed and the United States supreme court declined to review the case.

REGULARS MAY DEPOSE MOSES FOR REMARKS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Threats were heard in the senate corridors today of a resolution proposing the deposition of Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem of the senate, as a result of his characterization of the Republican independents as "sons of the wild jackasses."

The movement is understood to have started in the ranks of some of the Republican regulars who are known to be sympathetic to some extent with the independent faction.

TALENT REAPS GOOD RETURNS FROM PRODUCE

Past Season Favorable to Small Gardens—Klamath and Northern California Buyers Take Vegetables —Berries Pay.

TALENT, Ore., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The smaller truck farmers have been especially favored this season with large crops and a ready market. A great deal of produce was sold locally, while the balance was bought up by produce men from Klamath Falls and northern California.

The soil of this locality is especially adapted to vegetable gardening and berries. The city of Talent is adequately supplied with water from its own water system, while the Talent irrigation system supplies abundant water for all irrigation. In making a survey of the smaller tracts we find a great amount of spinach, lettuce, onions and carrots are raised, while some produce eggplant, cabbage and squash in quantity.

Sold in Quantity.
Onions and carrots are made into bunches and sold to produce men in quantities of several hundred dozen at a time. Winter onions were also produced in large quantities.

The heaviest growers in this section were the Walters brothers, Hal Nye and the Estes brothers, C. F. Estes reports he grew 1500 pounds of sweet Spanish onions on a plot of ground 20 by 100 feet in size, on his tract on the highway in Talent.

Berries Profitable.
Mr. Estes also states he received three hundred dollars from one half acre of red raspberries the second year after planting. He also has loganberries and a variety of strawberries that brought in very satisfactory returns.

Mr. Estes intends to enlarge on all his berry fields this year. Mr. Lewis, just south of Talent, is preparing his field for the coming season. He is marketing some very fine head lettuce at this time. Mr. Lewis specializes in head lettuce and produces two crops of several acres each season.

LEGION POST IN BIG PROGRAM ON ARMISTICE DAY

Members of the Medford post of the American Legion are planning a big celebration on Monday, Nov. 11 in observance of Armistice day. All communities in Jackson county have been invited to participate and a splendid attendance is assured.

The day's program will start with free street stunts and a big exhibition fire drill at 10:15 a. m. after which the patriotic parade, big venison feed, Medford-Ashland football game and other attractions will keep the crowd busy all day long.

In the evening the annual Armistice ball will be staged at the Oriental gardens with music by Jack Downing's dance band.

Medford Legionnaires have had a hard time trying to entertain the U. of O. and O. S. C. teams during their stay here. A football game with both teams as guests of honor was planned for tonight, but later called off when it was found that the coaches would not permit their men to attend. It was then decided that the legion would give the visitors on a short auto trip over the valley this morning and next a dozen legionnaires and their cars were ready at the chamber of commerce this morning to do their stuff. This plan was also waylaid by the coaches, so the hosts finally gave up and called it a day.

GRIZZLIES BOAST AERIAL OFFENSE

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A team of California reserves, getting its first chance to pit its strength against a conference opponent, was primed here today to attempt to hand a defeat to an eleven from the University of Montana.

The Montana Grizzlies came down from their fair boasting of a powerful aerial attack, and with the highlight of their season's record a 6-6 tie with the University of Washington eleven. With everything to gain and nothing to lose, the Montanans were ready to fight to the last ditch.

Meanwhile, Coach Nils Pree was confident, and announced that he will not use his regulars except in case of emergency.

GALA CROWD FOR FOOTBALL RALLY

The streets in the business section last night presented an unusually lively and gala appearance because of the high school students' serpentine and various other stunts, including several of the musical kind and a big bonfire at the end of South Grape street, and the crowds down town to watch them.

The football doings enthusiasm were in the way of a rally and hullo for the O. S. C. and U. of O. freshman game this afternoon, and that of Medford high with Ashland high on Monday, and also in the way of a welcome to the large visiting rival football squads. The O. S. C. squad numbered 42, and the U. of O. squad 22.

The members of the rival teams, in pairs, trios and larger groups, from time to time took strolls from the Hotel Medford through the business section enjoying the high school student fun and taking in the show windows.

FORDHAM COACH MAY GET BAGSHAW BERTH

SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A special dispatch to the Seattle Times today said that Frank Cavanaugh, football coach at Fordham college, N. Y., is being considered to succeed Knuch Bagshaw, head grid menter at the University of Washington here. Bagshaw resigned recently after a year's controversy between the students and the coach.

The report asserted that Cavanaugh's three-year contract at Fordham will expire at the close of this season.

CONCEDE HUSKY SMALL CHANCE AGAINST CARDS

Rains May Cross Up Plans for Open Style Play at Seattle—Game Will Be Bagshaw's Last Effort On Home Gridiron.

Associated Press Sports Writer.
SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Rain or shine, the University of Washington grid team was conceded little chance for victory over Stanford here today in the last football game at home for the Huskies this year.

The weather prediction for today was "occasional rains," causing much concern among the maxing minds of the Cardinal and Husky teams, both of which planned on an open style of attack.

Stanford came to Seattle prepared to thoroughly trounce the Huskies in its drive for the Pacific Coast conference championship, made possible by California's win over Southern California last Saturday. The Cardinals were given a big edge over Washington, but as the purple and gold eleven had nothing to lose, a great battle was contemplated. Washington has yet to win a conference game this season, having lost to Southern California, Washington State college and Oregon and tied with Montana.

The Huskies met California at Berkeley next Saturday and Chicago the following week end, to wind up their 1929 schedule.

Coach Knuch Bagshaw of Washington was making his last effort in the Washington stadium today. He recently resigned, but offered to remain on the job until the end of the year.

WASHINGTON HAS PAPER ADVANTAGE

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two of the warmest rivals in western football—Washington State college and the University of Idaho—today faced each other here for their 32nd contest.

Washington State was conceded an advantage by paper players who were not familiar with the traditions of the two schools, but those who had followed the story of the games since 1894 and who knew the long list of disastrous upsets during that time, were quiet as to the outcome.

The Staters, seeking the Northwest division championship, had only Idaho to defeat before they could lay claim to the title, and a victory over Montana, the remaining foe on the schedule before the banner was clinched.

M'NARY ASKS CUT GAME BIRD LIMIT

A dispatch to the Oregon Journal from its Washington correspondent says Senator McNary has introduced a bill to amend the migratory bird act to make drastic reduction in federal bag limits.

The bill was referred to the committee on agriculture, of which McNary is chairman. In a statement, explaining its purpose McNary said:

"The automobile, excellent roads and modern firearms have focused the need of conservation of our wild fowl. It is evident that with these facilities between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 annual hunters can make such inroads upon the migratory game, particularly in those places where there is no real bag limit control, as to cause alarm among the conservationists. A considerable number of states, including Oregon and Idaho, already have established bag limits of 15 ducks and less per day.

"The bill which I have introduced proposes that no person shall kill or capture in excess of the number permitted by the law of the state or territory in force at the time of the killing, and also named a uniform bag limit for the entire country, which may not be exceeded.

"The bag limit reduction clause has now the support of the Isaac Walton League, the Western Association of State Game Commissioners, the Associated Sportsmen of California, the Oregon State Sportsmen's league of about 10,000 members, the American School of Wild Life Protection, Outdoor Life magazine, Forest and Stream, Western Out-of-Doors, the New York Conservationist and many other organizations and individuals who have been demanding for some years substantial reduction in federal bag limits."

The subjects which these different delegations are taking for consideration are phases of the campaign, which is under way in the Christian Endeavor field in Oregon this year.

BOY DRIVER AND DAD FINED AFTER ACCIDENT

In Judge Taylor's court yesterday afternoon as an aftermath of the automobile accident in which several days ago Jean Wing, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Wing, was struck by a car driven by Charles Williamson, aged 15, and injured, the boy was fined $10 for driving without having a special license or permit, being too young to obtain a driver's license, and his father, Roy Williamson, was fined $25 for permitting a minor to drive.

The only eye witness to the accident, Miss Marjorie Daily, testified that Charles Williamson was not responsible in any way for the accident, as he was not driving fast, and was about to turn into Sixth street when little Jean, who was not looking, ran into the turning car, striking against the rear fender. She is now recovered and attending Washington school again.
