Local and Personal

Not only did most Medfordites have a day after feeling in the matter of appetite, but they also were prone to think today was Monday instead of Friday, the day after Thanksgiving. Because of everything being closed all day yesterday, business, especially with the groceries, was quite brisk today. Even the school pupils felt somewhat strange at not having to attend school today, as the schools closed last Wednesday afternoon for the Thanksgiving day vacation, and will not resume sessions until next Monday morning.

THE HOME OF BREAD LIKE MOTHER MADE

FILLING THE PANTRY FOR WINTER

That old-time custom of filling the cellar and pantry with the winter provisions is a mighty good one. First of all you save by buying in quantities—and then you have what you want when you want it.

How much easier it is to plan a meal when you can step into the pantry and select from a wide assortment of canned goods—and how much variety can be added to the family menu.

Plan your needs and let us give you price by the dozen — besides the substantial saving, you will save the trouble of frequent shopping and get a lot of satisfaction from providing in advance.
