Announcement was made yesterday of a change in the name of Skaggs-Safeway stores in this city to "Safeway Stores," dropping the name "Skaggs." This change in name is said to be in harmony with the general policy of the company operating the local store to convert all of their stores to Safeway Stores immediately. It is stated that there is no change in ownership or operation of the stores. The only reason for the name being changed is the desire to simplify the name and make it one which will be uniform throughout the country.—Klamath News.

A rather unusual sort of bear story was brought to Portland yesterday by P. C. Perry, district sales manager for the Oregon State Motor association, who reported the slaying of two bears by Paul Hudson, a logger for the K. & W. Logging company, near Kerry. Hudson, said Perry, was on his way into Ruster camp from the woods, when in stepping over a large log he landed on a big black bear. Just about as surprised as brute, Hudson took a lusty swing with his ax and laid the bear out. Hudson turned just in time to see another bear, and quite as large as the first one, coming at him from the woods and with another swing of the ax he felled number two.—Portland Journal.

$13,000 ADDED TO BUDGET

cured that the water board was more capable of judging its own financial affairs and operation than any citizens budget committee, as the board was living with the problem from year to year whereas any short lived citizens committee could necessarily give only a brief time in investigating its affairs. Mr. Buchter said he thought the board had done remarkably well, and several other councilmen nodded approvingly.

Councilman J. O. Grey agreed with Mr. Patton that the water board's affairs could be handled more economically. No members of the water board were present at last night's meeting.

Friendly Discussion

The debate while positive was friendly, and it was generally agreed that perhaps not sufficient time had been given to consideration of the water board operations matter, and that if the budget consideration had been started earlier, giving more time for consideration and investigation of its affairs, there might have been a better understanding of the problems.

Finance Committee Report

Before adopting the budget last night and passing ordinances creating it and for its distribution, the lengthy report of the city council committee on finance was read by Chairman Wilson. The vote was unanimous for adoption. The report reads as follows:

To the Mayor and City Council, Medford, Oregon.

We, your finance committee, having examined thoroughly the financial condition and necessary requirements of the departments of the city for Medford for the ensuing year, report and recommend as follows:

Bond Redemption.

Since many do not understand the bond liability of the city it is important to advise that prior to 1917 the city had no definite plan or schedule for the retirement of any of its bonds and several issues of general bonds had been taken care of by refunding bond issues. Particularly notable in this is the 10-year issue of 1890 for $30,000 for water purposes. This issue was refunded for another 10 years in 1900, and refunded again for 20 years more in 1910. This issue is to be paid in 1930 after being carried over a period of 40 years and the city having paid in interest thereon $60,000, or twice the amount of the bond issue.

In 1917 the emergency peak in Medford's bond difficulties arrived and definite, and permanent plans were put into operation through charter amendments, whereby bond redemption could be made under a fixed tax levy and an estimated water income.

In the construction of our wonderful water system under a heavy bond issue, our city water commission, working on independent and definite lines, provided for under city charter amendments, adopted by a substantial vote of the people, fixed a schedule for the retirement of all water bonds—old and new—whereby the liability of the city could be met with an unvarying tax levy. In this, and under ordinance No. 1365 passed by the council in 1922, the city binds itself to contribute to the water fund "such amount as may be agreed upon by said board and city council" for the general use of water by the city, such contribution being intended for the purpose of maintaining the bond retirement schedule. The agreement between the water board and the council was for $26,000 per annum on and after 1925—$16,000 was paid in 1928, $20,000 in 1929, and in 1930 the payment was to have been $24,000—equalizing the 1928 payment to $20,000. From schedule submitted a sinking fund of $44,000 for water bond redemption has been accumulated.

The water bond liability, for principal only, up to 1938, when all old water bonds fall due is $306,000 for old water bonds and $143,000 for the new issue, a total of $449,000. By following closely the schedule for payment of liabilities and estimated revenues of the water department, which includes the annual contribution of $20,000 by the city, the bond sinking fund will be built up to within $30,000 of the total of $449,000 required in 1938 to meet the then maturing bonds. We are also facing a future bond issue of perhaps $100,000 for sewer disposal as well as a bond issue for street maintenance of no small amount. With these compulsory improvements before us, the city must protect its credit by making every provision for retirement of the present bond debt of $2,026,293.41.

Since the water commission is an independent working body under our charter, we can only ask that they conserve funds in every possible way to increase sinking funds and to build and maintain only such compulsory improvements as will relieve the officials of the city from any negligence in providing adequate and proper fire and health protection.

We, therefore, recommend that the sum of $13,000 be levied for water bond redemption, in addition to the total city levy recommended by the budget committee, making a total city levy of $142,262 for 1930.

Other Departments.

We believe a perfect fire and police department is essential for the preservation of life, property and good government, and that ample funds should be available in the budgets for these departments to provide for any emergency and that the improvement and repair of streets, which require an unlimited expenditure at this time, will have to be held in abeyance to an extent that will leave funds for fire and police emergency purposes.

We believe further that the public market is a valuable attraction to local producers and is a business policy of the city that cannot be lightly cast aside. The market should be self-supporting and we believe it can be made so. We, therefore, accept the recommendation of your committee that provision be made for operation of the market until June 30, 1930, during which time an endeavor be made to bring its operation to a self-supporting basis. If this cannot be done the market to be closed June 30, 1930.

We believe further that the service and public requirements of the library have increased to an extent requiring the budget asked for by the library board in order to maintain efficient service.

We believe that special funds for what may be considered private community activities should be contributed by those interested in and able to support them and not through taxation. Real estate usually bears about 90 per cent of the burden of taxation and great values in intangible personal property escapes assessment. To relieve the real estate burden intangibles should be uncovered and tax levies should be made for governmental purposes only.

From our conclusions as above outlined, we recommend eliminations and additions to the committee's budget allowance as follows:

Fire Department.

Add for car repairs	$ 550.00
Add for tires	250.00
Add for fire hose	1100.00
Police Department.
Add for car expense	$ 500.00
Public Market.
Add for 6 mos. operation	$ 600.00
Library.
Add for salaries	$ 200.00
Total	$2500.00
Street & Road, reduce	2500.00
Community Chest levy cancelled	1000.00
Total	$2500

In all departments the budget allowance must be understood to be available only as necessity requires and that the heads of departments must endeavor to show conservation and good management by having a budget surplus instead of an excess in expenditures at the close of the year.

Respectfully submitted,
E. M. WILSON,
R. B. HAMMOND,
J. J. BUCHTER,
CHARLES A. WING,
Finance Committee.

COPCO SHOWING MORE PIONEER PHOTOGRAPHS

The window display of "pioneer photographs" shown by the Copco advertising department has been commented on by some real connoisseurs of such pictures, it was declared today by Prof. Narregan of this city.

These pictures show the first and second graduating classes of Medford high school, the first school band, Medford's first and second school buildings and many other interesting views.

Several prominent citizens appear in the pictures, including Major-General Amos Fries, chief of chemical warfare of the United States, Mrs. Mayor Baker of Portland, and many others. The boys named were members of the first graduating class in 1898. Prof. Narregan was Medford's first school principal, a position which he held for a number of years. It is interesting to note that the first school in Medford was held in a residence, a picture of which appears in this unique Copco display.
