CALIFORNIA FRUIT BAN IS EXPLAINED TO AUTOMOBILISTS

Contrary to rumors circulated among automobile tourists, the California department of agriculture is not prohibiting the carrying of Oregon and Washington grown cherries across the state line, according to a letter received by the Portland chamber of commerce from A. C. Fleury, senior quarantine supervisor for the California department.

"We prohibit cherries only from those counties in which the cherry fruit fly is known to occur and admit them from other counties, provided the owner has an official certificate evidencing where they were grown," explained Fleury.

"We also have a restriction against potatoes, which requires that they be accompanied by a certificate signed by the proper agricultural inspection officer of your state, certifying they were grown in a district where the Colorado potato beetle does not occur, or that they have been screened. If grown in Jackson county, screening is a requirement on account of the alfalfa weevil.

"We do not admit any citrus fruits in California unless they can be identified as having been grown in California. We realize there are no citrus fruits grown in your state, but we do know that such fruits grown in other states, in the Isle of Pines, and Porto Rico are shipped into Oregon, and these fruits are prohibited admission in California, because of citrus canker disease, or in the case of Florida-grown fruits, the Mediterranean fruit fly.

"We have no quarantine restriction whatever against your apples, peaches, pears, or other fruits, and we do not bother them in the possession of automobile travelers just as long as there is satisfactory evidence that they were obtained in your state."—Portland Journal.

STATE SUPERVISOR OF AGRICULTURAL CLASSES INSPECTS

State Supervisor of Agricultural Education O. J. Paulson, is spending a few days in Medford inspecting the Smith-Hughes courses at the high school. Mr. Paulson is the executive officer of the state board for vocational education, an official organization composed of the governor, secretary of state, and state superintendent of public instruction, and it is his duty as supervisor to inspect the Smith-Hughes courses in the schools throughout the state and determine the amount of each school also and federal funds, pass on instruction methods and courses of study in agriculture, and aid the instructors in improving the teaching of the subject and stimulation of interest in the courses.

The state vocational education program at present includes courses in agriculture, home economics, and industrial arts. From 25 to 50 percent of the salaries of the instructors in these courses is paid by the federal and state governments, and the remainder plus the furnishing of all equipment by the local school board. $30,000 of federal and state funds were expended for this work last year, and 32 schools reaped the benefits of such aid.

At present the demand for aid far exceeds the supply, and more than 25 schools have filed application for funds, but have been unable to obtain them. The state board requires a minimum of 90 minutes of instruction daily in regular classes, and in addition the organization of day unit, part time, and night school classes. The day unit classes are offered to young men who have quit school, but who desire to develop projects under the supervision of the instructor. The part-time classes are also devised for the boy on the farm who has a few weeks available in the winter for attending classes that will help him in his life work.

The night classes are for adult farmers, and are usually made up of men interested in some phase of agriculture such as poultry, who meet and discuss common problems under the guidance of the instructor. These courses are all devised for the farm-minded boy who wishes practical instruction in

AUTO SUSPECTS LODGED IN JAIL

Herman Goltz and Dan Smith, two San Francisco men arrested last night by Federal Officer Terry Talent, are in the county jail today facing government charges of car theft. They are accused of stealing a new Chevrolet sedan which they were driving when arrested at 2 o'clock this morning by the officer near the fair grounds. The two men also admitted that they had broken into a service station at Talent, where they had obtained a collection of small change found on their persons.

A five-gallon can filled with gasoline was found in the car, which also contained a long siphon hose, a new suitcase and a collection of tools. It is probable that the pair will face government charges. Officer Talent was forced to chase the fugitives a short distance before they would submit to arrest.

In Ashland yesterday, H. M. Michael, 22, was arrested for the theft of a car in Pontello, Idaho, and will probably be held for government authorities.

"Quality--Always at a Saving"

When you shop at Penney's you are shopping in the biggest department store in the world—under 1400 roofs! To attain such leadership in the mercantile field was not just an ordinary happening—it was the outgrowth of splendid foundation principles, strictly adhered to. This produced confidence in the minds of the buying public. That confidence is justified because we have never strayed from the original principles of offering "Quality—always at a saving!"

We build our merchandise up to a standard, not down to a price. We do not sell "seconds" or "imperfects." Merchandise with a J. C. Penney Company label is made to our own rigid specifications to assure our patrons of the utmost satisfaction.

All of our business transactions are Cash. We buy for cash and we sell for cash. This is helpful to you in two ways, first because we get discounts for cash, second we save the additional interest charges for delayed payments.

Enormous quantities required by our stores enable us to command lower prices because of this quantity buying.

Our plan of merchandising is based upon honesty, not because it is the best policy, but because it is the only plan under which we would consider doing business. In putting the retail price on merchandise we ask ourselves this question, "How little can we sell it for?" Never do we say, "How much can we get?"

At this time of year, when the Christmas gift problem taxes the family pocketbook to the limit, PENNEY'S—THE CHRISTMAS GIFT STORE, is ever ready to serve you with "Quality, always at a saving."

Remember—"It always pays to shop at PENNEY'S."
