

Trojans Point Against Tricks of Tartan Foe

Defense for Spread Formations, Passes and Line Thrusts Given Attention for Saturday Game With Carnegie Tech.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Coach Howard James plans for his University of Southern California football aggregation definitely to do something here Saturday about the array of trick plays credited to the Tartan foe from Carnegie Tech.

Further dummy aerianages, pointed to build a defense against the prize collection of spread formations, passes and line thrusts expected from the invaders, is on the schedule for this afternoon after the hard clash yesterday between the varsity and the reserves. Even the darkness, which shrouded the goal posts of Boyard field, failed to halt the session.

Former Trojan stars, Jess Hibbs at tackle, Morley Drury at end, and Aubrey Doyne, the freshman coach, were on the reserve eleven, which turned loose some of the Carnegie tricks. For the most part their efforts were smothered.

In turn, when the varsity took the ball, it hammered through to a touchdown in short order with Russell Saunders, quarterback, and Jimmy Musick, fullback, carrying the brunt of the attack. Ernie Pimekert and Harry Edelson completed the backfield combination.

While the Trojan coaching staff was laying plans for more scrimmage today, 27 members of the Carnegie Tech squad, with their coaching staff, spent the day at the Grand Canyon. Yesterday they turned out of Winslow, Ariz., for a light workout.

Eastern Teams Handicapped in Western Invasions, Says Coach

HAILTON, N. Y., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The best an eastern football team invading the Pacific coast can expect is 20 per cent the worst of it, according to Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, who also has charge of organizing the east team for the annual charity game with the west at San Francisco.

Kerr, in addition to his wide experience in Eastern football, put in four years at Stanford university and has had opportunity to study the intercollegiate question from both angles.

"Look out there and you'll see the reason," said Kerr, pointing to Whitnall field, the Colgate gridiron. "That field is frozen as hard as a rock and is slippery as a mill pond. It is the same in any other section of the east or middle west. You can't hold practice on a field like that. Why, you can't even walk on it without slipping."
