

IDOL OF CAMPUS AN EX-CONVICT IS REVELATION

Missouri Police Seeking Louis, Derry University Grid Ace and Junior Class Leader As Fraternity House Thief.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Police all over Missouri today sought Louis Lee Derry, former idol of two college campuses, University of Missouri backfield ace, president of the junior class—and an ex-convict.

Derry, who is 25 years old, was accused yesterday of stealing clothing and jewelry from a fraternity house. Friends of the youth promised he would appear yesterday afternoon, and Sheriff Clyde Hall, who had not been found today, however.

The youth played football two years at the University of Arkansas and one year here.

His record, revealed after the warrant was issued yesterday, showed he served 18 months in the Kansas reformatory on a plea of guilty to thefts at a fraternity house of the University of Kansas.

Derry was recently restored to good standing after being placed on probation for possession of liquor, his university record in the registrar's office shows.

Derry received his varsity football letter at the annual banquet Wednesday night, a few hours after a deputy sheriff had raided his room and seized clothing, jewelry and a traveling bag, which another student identified as his property.

He was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. M. Derry, who was present when Derry was awarded his "M." Derry was seen about Columbia during yesterday.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS AT PROSPECT

PROSPECT, Ore., Dec. 13.—(Special) Prospect basketball fans were awakened to the fact that the season was drawing near when on Nov. 19, the high school boys turned out for practice.

The fans witnessed a fast game between the Alumni and Town Teams at the high school gymnasium, Thursday night of last week. Being only a preliminary and the first game of the season, the Town team did not have a very good turnout, only six players.

The game ended with the score 25 to 22 in favor of the Town team.

VANCOUVER LIONS NEAR TOP IN COAST HOCKEY

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 13.—(AP) The Vancouver Lions, last year's Pacific Coast Hockey League champions, today stood within two points of the league leading Seattle Eskimos by reason of a 2 to 1 victory over the Portland Buckaroos at the Coliseum here last night in a game that was considerably more one-sided than the score indicates.

ASHLAND SENIOR IS HANDBALL FINALIST

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—(Sp.)—Lawrence Wagner, senior in journalism from Ashland, recently went into the finals match for the handball double championship. Although he and his partner, Dick Schroeder, of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, lost to the Alpha Tau Omega team, the winners were forced to play at top speed all the way.

SKIBO SQUAD ON COAST FOR TILT

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 13.—(AP) Completing their long trek from Pittsburg, Pa., a squad of 27 fighting skibos from Carnegie Tech arrived here today and made ready for a final workout in the Rose Bowl before tomorrow's gridiron clash with the University of Southern California in the Los Angeles coliseum.

The gridiron loses a number of its flashiest stars with the close of the 1929 campaign, but there are also an unusual number who have apparently just begun to glisten, with one or two more years in which to reach the heights that...

McElver has been a star for two years, as consistent a performer as any college has had, and Gentle, Penn's captain-elect, closed this year with one of the greatest runs ever witnessed at Franklin field, a 102-yard gallop through Cornell for a touchdown.

Charley Paddock has been doing sprint stunts for so long that he has Old Tom Tigue worried. Believe it or not, the blind Texan, a transplanted Californian, hopes to make the 1932 Olympic team.

Huffed, a coast observer writes, "is a more spectacular ball carrier than either George Wilson or Chuck Carroll, former Washington All-Americans." Hufford stood out this year on a team that was going nowhere.

Goldstein appeared headed for the lightweight title a year or so ago but temerity led Sid "Foxy" and Ace Hudkins sapped his confidence and came within an ace of sending him to the fistic scrap heap.

McLarin is a 135 lb. favorite among the betting fraternity. "Of course I have made something out of my athletic achievements. Why not? Can you name two of the other top-notchers who haven't? As writers, in the movie or otherwise?"

OUT & KEELER'S GOLF BAG

By O. B. Keefer. We were talking about golfing marathons in which one player would gallop about a golf course as long as daylight lasted and his legs endured, and Walter Rose said:

"On a hot not long ago, Joe Johnson Jr. and I played six rounds in 12 hours, one day." I said: "Exactly 12 hours?" He said: "Well, in 29 seconds less. We started at 6 o'clock in the morning and finished at 5:59:30 p. m."

We were sort of waiting around for the morning matches to start in the southern amateur championship last summer at Belle Meade, Nashville, and I asked Mr. Rose to tell me more. I had heard of plenty of solo marathons but never before of a duet, at any rate of such persistence.

Mr. Rose explained that he and young Johnson played a lot of golf together at the Inglewood club of Nashville, and that he (Mr. Rose) got in an argument with another member as to how many times a twoome could play around the Inglewood course — it is of nine holes — in a day and Mr. Rose had insisted that he and Johnson could average a nine-hole round an hour all day long. This led to a wager. So they tried it.

"We also agreed to carry our own clubs," he said, "so didn't take very many. We ate intermittently as we played. Of course we holed out at every green and kept the score carefully. We averaged from 55 to 65 minutes a round of nine holes; and we finished the twelfth round just half a minute before the twelfth hour was up — six 18-hole rounds in one day."

"Joe, who is a pretty good player, averaged 83 strokes a round of 18 holes, and I averaged 93. He lost five balls — naturally we did not use up much time looking for lost balls — and I lost four. He lost four pounds in weight in spite of a considerable number of sandwiches, and I lost eight pounds. This was on May 25, 1923. We kept all the statistics. I thought it might be some sort of a record."

"Perhaps it is. It's quite a stunt anyway."

Northwest Sport Tips

By Frank G. Gorrie, Associated Press Sports Writer. The Pacific Northwest had no real claim for an all-American berth this year, but did deserve credit for some of its fine football material.

This credit was rightfully awarded when two quarterbacks, two tackles, one guard, one halfback and one fullback of five teams in the northern section of the Pacific Coast conference were given honorable mention on the Associated Press all-American selections.

Three players of the University of Oregon eleven received consideration, while Washington State college, Idaho, Montana and Washington each gained on honorable berth.

The trio of Wolfpackers to receive recognition were John Klimm, quarterback; Austin Colbert, tackle and Marshall Shields, guard. The other four northwest stars were Gordon Diehl, Idaho tackle; Jimmy Morrow, Montana quarterback; Elmer Schwartz, Washington State fullback and Merle Hufford, Washington halfback.

GREAT SHIRES IS JUST ROUTINE TO PRO FOOTBALLER

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—George Trافتon, center of the Chicago Bears, who will make his professional fistle bow against Charles Arthur Shires at White City Monday night, apparently is quite unswayed by the reputation as a knoccrout established by the great one.

Trافتon plans to take the Shires bout along with all other routine business and will take his final workout Sunday afternoon by playing center for the Bears against Bennie Friedman's New York Giants.

The fact that Shires knocked over Dan Daly of Cleveland in less than a round last Monday night, according to Trافتon, has not caused him to forget that Friedman, Tony Plansky and the rest of the Giants are tough and require his immediate attention more than does the impending engagement with Shires.

ARCHER IS LEADER FOR TIME IN GRID GAMES

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—(Sp.)—Woodward Archer junior from Medford, was the only man on the Oregon squad to get within 40 minutes of the possible 300 minutes of playing time in the five conference football games.

Archer had a grand total of 261 minutes and he saw action in every game of the season. He played end.

George Christiansen, tackle, was next with 257 minutes, and Dave Mason, back, was third with 254 minutes' playing time.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations Comments From Other Fields

The spirit in which the publisher members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations welcome the opportunity to give the advertisers and advertising agents detailed surveys of their publications is well displayed in the extracts below. These were chosen from a collection of recent clippings from various parts of the country, carrying articles of similar import. They throw sidelights on the work of the A. B. C. which are well worth the advertiser's consideration.

Mexico (Mo.) Ledger.—What most newspaper men and national advertisers will consider one of the most important advancements ever recorded in the local newspaper field was the announcement recently sent broadcast throughout the advertising business world that the Mexico Evening Ledger is now a full-fledged member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Hastings (Nebr.) Tribune.—J. B. Harpel, the representative of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, is now in the city to make the annual audit of the Hastings Daily Tribune. The audit is conducted with a ruthless thoroughness and the report gives advertisers and others accurate information with regard to the circulation of newspapers.

Santa Ana (Calif.) Register.—For many years it was recognized by newspaper men and advertisers that there should be some dependable method of checking circulation claims of newspapers; and in order to meet this recognized need, the Audit Bureau of Circulations was formed.
