

HUMOR FOUND IN GRIM PARADE OF TRANSGRESSORS

Were it not for the little touches of humor and human nature that occur in the city court, as well as any other court, the routine of that court would become almost unbearable to the presiding judge and the attendants.

If I had a listened to Ma I wouldn't have been here, for she told me not to sell any," said J. A. Sells, elderly rancher of southwest of the city when he was up for trial in Judge Taylor's court yesterday afternoon on a possession of liquor charge. He was fined $200 on that charge, on his plea of guilty.

It seems that C. H. Bennett, who he said to be a deputy sheriff for both Jackson and Josephine counties, found 63 gallons of wine at the Sells farm, which he claims Sells had been selling. The charge made in court, however, was only for possession.

C. W. Lord, a young high school boy was brought into court late yesterday afternoon by City Traffic Officer Prescott and fined $5 for driving a car known in police circles as a "collegiate Ford," noticing that it was probably one of those old laughable, ramshackle flivvers inscribed with various "educational" hieroglyphics.

Anyhow, Lord was seen to drive his car past the stop sign at Washington school late in the afternoon and retreat, and do it again, or something like that, so the officer stopped the youth and asked him why he did not stop his car or slow up at the stop sign.

"Because she ain't got no brakes," was the astounding reply the officer received, and on investigation this proved to be true. After he was fined, Lord told the judge of his work at the high school and that he was out as a candidate for the basketball team.

"Hope you make it," responded the "mellowed court."

RICHFIELD SANTA IS HIT WITH KIDS

The big Richfield airplane which arrived yesterday with Santa Claus, who preferred the "flying sleigh" to the slower reindeer, was preparing this afternoon to leave for the south after having been out as a candidate for the basketball team.

The children are reminded to call at any Richfield service station Monday and Tuesday before Christmas and be greeted with pleasant surprises. The tri-motored ship, in addition to bringing Santa Claus to Medford, also brought Rufus P. Bichter of Los Angeles, assistant manager of the air department of the Richfield company, and Ralph Snoddy, well known motor boat driver. The ship was piloted by Thomas J. Fowler and Al Butten.

SISKIYOU SEWER TO BE COUNCIL TOPIC

Because during the recent rains a number of septic tanks overflowed in the Siskiyou Heights section, and the requests of the residents in the affected district to the city officials for relief, the street and sewers committee of the city council held an impromptu meeting in Mayor Pipes' office this morning to discuss the subject and will hold a formal meeting tomorrow to consider it again, with a view to the city's making a survey for a Siskiyou Heights sewer.

The members of the streets and sewers committee of the city council are R. B. Hammond, J. O. Grey, J. J. Buehler and Chas. A. Wing.

ALENDERFER INSTALLS OUTDOOR YULE LIGHTS

One of the first outdoor Christmas displays on South Oakdale this year was installed yesterday by O. O. Alenderfer, ex-mayor of Medford. This attractive exhibit was lighted last night and caused much comment from passersby.

Last year Oakdale avenue was the best decorated street in Medford during the holiday season and was admired by thousands of local people and visitors to the city.

ROGUE RIVER MEAT CO. FORMED BY BUTCHERS

Organization of the Rogue River Meat company, Inc. was completed yesterday, with capital at $10,000. H. R. Musel, Martin Heitkamp and F. H. Geffert are named as the incorporators and have already taken over the DeVore slaughter house. The new company plans to deal in wholesale meats only and later establish a packing house. All three are experienced butchers.

Astoria—Chamberlin Motor company completed installation of used car department at 534 Duane street.
