

ARMY GRIDDERS PRACTICE FOR SATURDAY TILT

Long Journey Across Continent Ended Last Night—Secret Drill in Stanford Stadium for Cadets, Plan for Week.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP)—The Army's football warriors, refreshed after a night's sleep in Branter hall, were expected to start intensive practice today for their inter-sectional game next Saturday with Stanford's Cardinals, who finished in a tie for the 1929 Pacific Coast conference championship.

Nine hours behind schedule, the Army train of 13 cars pulled into Palo Alto last night. Cadets and coaches, apparently benefited by a two-hour workout at Santa Barbara yesterday, after their long trip across the continent, were housed in Branter hall, which they will occupy until the game Saturday.

The West Pointers will probably use Stanford stadium, largest in the far west, while Stanford will practice on its regular field. Arrangements were to be worked out between Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones and Glenn "Pop" Warner, Cardinal mentor today. Meanwhile, Jones let it be known that the Army workouts would be strictly private.

Cameramen and reporters will be barred, Jones said, and other outsiders will find no welcome during the week of intensive practice. It is no secret that the Army wants to win Saturday's game and turn the tables on the team that defeated it 27 to 6 last year.

HEALTH BUREAU LOOKS FOR NO 'FLU' EPIDEMIC

Precautionary Rules Issued for Influenza Season—Proper Ventilation Most Important in Avoiding Dread Disease.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(United Press)—U. S. Public Health service officials expect no recurrence this winter of the influenza epidemic that cost an estimated 50,000 lives last year at this time.

There were 1811 cases of influenza reported to the health service week before last by state officials in all parts of the country, but this is not considered an unusual number for December.

In recent weeks, health service reports show, influenza cases have remained fairly constant at slightly more than 1000, although there was a 200 increase in the past three weeks.

Warning that the influenza season is now at hand, the public health service has issued the following precautionary rules of obtaining fresh air: 1. Obtain ample fresh air; 2. eat substantial meals; 3. avoid sudden chilling; 4. exercise reasonably.

MANY AUTOISTS TOUR TOWN TO SEE YULE LIGHTS

Medford's residence section was visited last night by hundreds of cars bearing local people and out of town visitors eager to see the beautiful outdoor Christmas displays which have been installed by Medford citizens.

Many attractive displays were in evidence last evening on both the West Side and East Side and still more Christmas exhibits were being added today.

Some beautiful effects were also noted in the Siskiyou Heights section, particularly in Glen Oak court where H. C. Purdick has the most outstanding display in the city.

By clever arrangement of hundreds of colored lights, red borders, flood lights and smoking urns, Mr. Purdick has achieved an artistic triumph, one which would be a prize winner in large city contests.

All those who have exhibits in place are urged to enter them at once at the Chamber of Commerce, 42. All entries must be registered before 5 p. m. tomorrow night.

GRID PENALTY BY PREP STAR BRINGS SCORE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—(AP)—Since Ohio State University's eleven met with only mediocre success during the past season Wesley Foster, all-American end of 1928, failed to gain that distinction this year, the job of securing national recognition in the football world for Columbus rested on the shoulders of a prep school youngster who turned the trick with one of the most unusual plays of the year.

Captain Spencer, quarterback of the St. Thomas parochial school, discovered in the middle of the third period, that the score was tied and something had to be done in a hurry.

When his team mates huddled to discuss the next play he announced it was time to pull their tricks play. The players returned to their positions and Spencer strode up to the center, took the ball and announced loudly to the St. Francis team, that he was penalizing them five yards for offensive pass.

DUTCH GUIANA: UNTOUCHED BY AIR TRANSPORT

By Louis Jay Heath, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARAMARIBO, Surinam, Dutch Guiana.—(By Mail).—Commercial aviation has come to Dutch Guiana without making any profound impression upon the conservative, slow-moving mind of the Dutch inhabitant here. The Dutch are not given to enthusiasm and the solid citizens of this lone outpost of the Netherlands in the western hemisphere are reserving judgment and awaiting concrete results before indulging in any dreams of sudden benefits that may come to them through the development of speedier means of communication between Paramaribo and the rest of the world via the air.

At present this port marks the southern terminus of the lines of the Pan-American Airways on the West Coast of South America. Air-mail service to the north was inaugurated on a regular schedule in October on a semi-weekly basis. In line with the Dutch policy of careful handling, however, no long-time contract has been made. The Dutch here consider that the present arrangement is on a brief trial basis.

Lindbergh Celebration. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh brought the first air-mail plane into this port. Paramaribo gave him a fitting welcome. The elaborate program of entertainment had been prepared by a local committee. A grand fiesta was held and Lindbergh and his party were showered with attentions. This celebration, however, was a personal tribute to Lindbergh and not any sudden outburst of enthusiasm on the part of the Dutch colonists over the opening of air-mail connections with other lands.

87% of All Knowledge Gained Through the Eyes

Necessarily we must rely on the accuracy of our vision for the success of life. We all realize that impaired vision that isn't recognized by properly fitting the eyes with lenses retards our progress.

In the interest of the conservation of vision it is well to remember a few preventative measures. The eyes open and close 30,000 times a day. Rest them frequently.

Never read more than two hours steadily. Place the light so that it falls over the left shoulder. A book should be held from 14 to 16 inches from the face. Holding a book too close does not usually indicate near sightedness, but it does mean that the eyes are seriously defective. The book work or object is held close in an effort to get a larger view and this means added eye strain.

When you are aware of the fact that your eyes need attention or they bother you in any way—no matter how slightly—you should go at once to a competent Optometrist and have them examined. You need his professional advice; you may require the special services which he, as an Optometrist, is qualified to give you.

His examination will be careful, thorough and scientific. It may be that you do not need glasses and if you do you are assured of procuring exactly the right lens and frame to suit your individual requirement.

By saving these weekly talks on Optometry, they will answer many questions on the "Care of the Eyes" and their relation to your general health.
