"TIGER ROSE," the stage success, looks even more promising as a movie, if the way fiery Lupe Velez, shown above, plays the title role is a criterion.

CAN YOU PICK THE BOY?—No, you missed! It's the other one, the curly head at the right. They're two of 25 babies given away as Christmas presents by the Tennessee Children's Home Society through a Memphis paper.

BIGGEST SHIP MODEL EVER BUILT, this replica of the old-time seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson is being sent to England, where it will be exhibited in the Science Museum, South Kensington, London. The model, which is over seven feet long, was made by Elmer Tanner of East Boston, Mass.

ALL THE WORLD HAS BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT AT CHRISTMAS—SANTA CLAUS!—At the left you see Barbara Kent, flicker star, doing some nocturnal spying, while in the center picture the jolly old saint himself is shown listening intently to he'll be sure the coast is clear before starting off on his merry Christmas journey. "Give me Santa, operator," said the serious-looking youngster at the upper right, as he scanned his list of desired gifts. And can't you hear the little fellow below saying, "See, brother, Santa comes in this way. Let's watch for him." And Santa couldn't get by without them seeing him.

THIS SPECTACULAR PHOTOGRAPH shows how 1,000,000 acres of land in New Mexico are being disinfected by low-flying airplanes to remove plant parasites. A specially devised plant-dusting machine, pictured in action above, carries insecticide aloft by the ton and blows it over the large area quickly and effectually.

WE MODERNS AREN'T SO MODERN AS WE THINK—The set-back style of architecture was used by the Cliff Dwellers who vanished from southwestern Colorado more than 1800 years ago! This photo shows visitors at Mesa Verde National Park inspecting Cliff Palace, a prehistoric apartment dwelling that contained 217 rooms, 24 kivas or lodge rooms for the men, and housed 600 people.

TWO TYPES of drumsticks are being exhibited by this dainty Portland, Ore., miss—the ones with which she beats the drum and the kind that grace the Christmas dinner tables.

SKYMATES is the name of New England's first aviation club for women organized at Boston. Betsy Kelley, above, of Arkansas, a student at Radcliffe College, is a charter member.

QUACK! GOES THE DUCK—and pretty Alice White of the movies gets a nice ride. This new form of marine transportation includes a rocking chair and everything.

THIS UNUSUAL hunt prize—a doe with horns—was bagged near Richfield, Utah, by Joseph A. Raleigh of Salt Lake City. Here you see Mrs. Raleigh exhibiting the horn-bedecked head.

DAUNTLESS AS ANY POLAR EXPLORERS, the crew of the freighter, the William F. Stifel, brought her safely into Milwaukee harbor after battling a northwester in sub-zero weather. The boat was loaded with 7000 tons of coal in her hold and more than 500 tons of ice clinging to every portion above the water line.
