Apple Thinning Soon

Only two more weeks and apple thinning will start in valley orchards, and present indications are that there will be more work of this kind than in other years. Pear thinning will also take up the time of laborers this year, according to Chris Gottlieb, manager of the Medford branch of the United States free employment bureau. However, at the present time there is a big surplus of help with an average of 100 applications for work daily.

Building Total Increases

The month of April had a building program of $43,755, most of which was spent for 10 new buildings, leaving the remainder of the 37 permits issued covering expense for repairing and remodeling. The last permit of the month was issued to George Dundas for a $30 porch on Cedar street.

J. G. Love Files Answer

An answer filed by J. G. Love, Central Point orchardist, in the damage action brought against him by Bert Rostel for the alleged killing of a Llewellyn setter dog, sets forth that the defendant shot the dog in claimed defense of his property on grounds that the animal dug holes underneath a wire fence to gain access to the defendant's field, wherein it is claimed the dog chased game birds. SCHOOL CHILDREN TO MATCH SPEED IN TRACK EVENTS

School children and parents from all sections of the Rogue River valley and remote districts will gather at the Jackson county fair grounds Saturday for the annual track and field meet. The celebration for which they have been preparing and practicing for many weeks will open at 8:30 a. m. with a volley ball game.

Albert Fitch of the Medford Junior high school is manager of the meet and promises every sport will be represented in the activities of the day.

Competition this year is much keener than ever before, due to the additional cups which are offered. An extra trophy has been added to the award list for the rural division and another for the town schools. This is expected to equalize the competition and enable each school to feel that a chance of winning the prize is offered.

During the noon hour a hot lunch will be served by the Parent Teachers association of Bellevue.

No admission charges will be collected for entrance into the grounds or attendance at any of the sports events. All indications, according to school officials, point to the largest meet ever held in southern Oregon.

LITTLE RED HEN MARKS ECLIPSE ON EGG'S SHELL

"I will then," said the little red hen—and she did. If you don't believe it, just look at the egg she laid Monday during the eclipse. The picture of fair Luna's flight across the brilliant sun is portrayed right on the shell. And the Rhode Island Red hen, which belongs to Mrs. John Grantham, 518 Beatty street, is ready to enter competition with astronomers and photographers, when it comes to recording the doings of astral bodies.

It's an old southern superstition, some say. A fable that the fowls themselves can't substantiate. But many local citizens admit they have always heard that eggs laid during an eclipse will bear a picture of the event on their shells. Immediately after the recent spectacle Mrs. Grantham visited the chicken coop and found the large red egg, which was brought to this office today. All the cloud effects are there, a light spot for the sun and a shadow of the moon. And all the folks who have read Mencken and Nathan and "Popular Science" have to say is: "What causes that?"

FRESHMAN PENNANT ADORNS STATE POLE

CORVALLIS, Ore., May 1.—(AP) A pennant with green freshman numerals floated from the top of the Oregon State college campus flagpole today with all connection with the ground cut. The usual procedure in the past has been to find a rook capable of climbing the 160-foot steel shaft and compel him to retrieve the bunting so obnoxious to upper classmen.
