ROSENBERG MAILS PEAR PAMPHLETS

Growers Given Data On Industry Compiled by Pacific Pear Growers—Discussion Expected at Friday Meeting.

David H. Rosenberg, president of the Pacific Peargrowers Council began today the distribution of 10,000 copies of the organization's pamphlet, entitled "The Trend of Pear Production, and Its Relationship to Prices and Advertising." Copies will be mailed and delivered to every pear grower in the states of Washington, Oregon and California, and affiliated interests. The foreword, after stating the aims and purposes of the Peargrowers Council, asks: "That every grower read it thru to the end, trusting that its facts may possibly throw some light onto the necessity of mapping out some course of action that will prevent our industry from falling into the disastrous position of over-production."

Advertising of pears is listed as "one of the immediate problems" confronting the Pacific coast pear growers.

The pamphlet is a concise statement of the situation, illustrated with charts showing the trend of prices and the markets.

The study of the pear industry by Prof. S. W. Shear, of the University of California, is also stressed. There is a review by David H. Wood, chairman Winter Pear committee, of the Rose campaign, conducted last year in Detroit. Unity of action by fruit districts and marketing agencies, is held vital to the future of the industry.

In conclusion, the pamphlet states: "The Pacific Peargrowers Council was organized to secure the united and coordinated effort of the pear industry of Oregon, Washington and California, in studying its economic problems as a basis for deciding upon the most effective means of solving them and bringing into motion the necessary forces to carry out the adjustment policy deemed most feasible. If the facts and the observations registered herein will in any way help to contribute to the formation of wise decisions, the purpose of this pamphlet will have been justified."

It is probable that the Pear Council will come under discussion at the meeting of the Fruitgrowers league at the Hotel Medford tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The principal purpose, however, of this meeting is to discuss plans for the coming season of the Winter Pear committee, and to hear the preliminary report of Prof. Henry Hartman, O. S. C., on marketing and storage conditions in New York City. A large attendance of valley growers, shippers, and others identified with the fruit business is assured.

RECENT RAINS AID TO TREES SAY GROWERS

Rogue River Traffic Assn. Hears Good Reports On Irrigation Situation—Join Rate Protest.

Recent rains in this section improved ground moisture conditions "wonderfully" in the Rogue River valley orchard districts, it was reported at the regular meeting of the Rogue River Traffic association today.

Streams are now running around the second feet of water, when before the showers they were around the 35 second foot mark. This provides ample irrigation water, without drawing on the storage supply. Some of the orchard ground has a heavy water content, and others are less. When needed, orchardists are urged to irrigate, and form a mulch covering.

It was estimated that the rains delayed the use of storage water two weeks, and that it will not now be used until well in June. It was also forecast that there would be more orchard cultivating this summer, than ever before.

More "stick-up" in some of the glue used in pasting labels on fruit boxes was urged, on the grounds that cold storage temperature caused the glue to lose its power, causing the labels to pucker up in the middle, and become frayed at the edges, thus presenting an untidy appearance in New York. It was explained that this was not so much the fault of the paste, as the paster, by Hugh Hamlin of the Hearty Co., and R. R. Reter of the Pineapple company. Mr. Hamlin offered 5c for every label that could be removed with a putty-knife, if applied under his supervision, and Mr. Reter offered the same fee for a shabby label in his pack.

It was voted to join with the Wenatchee district, in a formal protest against the proposed increased freight rate on fruit shipments to Florida, a district with a growing demand for pears and apples.

It was announced that the annual report of the Traffic association was in course of formation. The report will show the part played by the organization in procuring freight rate reductions, including the emergency pear rate, and the effort to secure fruit box weight equalization, and unite with the Winter Pear committee in the Detroit Rose campaign.

Country Folks Wax Indignant as Towners Dump Debris on Highways

Pack up your trash in your old kit bag, if you wish—but don't bring it to the country, was the sentiment expressed by representatives from Applegate, Coleman Creek, Eagle Point, Central Point, Oak Grove, Phoenix and Jacksonville, who gathered at the city library yesterday afternoon for what might well be termed an "indignation meeting." It was in reality a preliminary to the observance of Highway Cleanup day and called by Mrs. Leland Mentzer, president of the Medford Garden club, which will sponsor the campaign in this valley.

The country folks don't want the city folks making tin-pun alleys of their drives and they're going to stop the practice, the delegation declared. Discarded magazines, lingerie and cooking utensils will have to find another place to repose for roads will no longer be dotted with a stewpan here and a teakettle there when the campaign is on. The country has no dumping ground, the women lament, and the city garbage dump is quite remote for some. But a place must be found.

"It is too ridiculous," one declared, "to stick 'This is a Great Country' up on a pole over a pile of junk, which all the popples and lupine in the valley fall to bid." The women do not plan to handle the situation alone. They are soliciting the aid and co-operation of service clubs, lodges, county court, county engineer, the United States forest service and county and city school systems.

The official date for Highway Cleanup day is May 10, but work will be started at once. Women who will lead campaigns in neighboring communities are Mrs. Buck, Applegate; Mrs. E. J. White, Coleman Creek; Mrs. Mattie Brown and Mrs. R. G. Brown, Eagle Point; Mrs. Louise Brockway, Oak Grove; Mrs. C. A. Hiles and Mrs. Lee Port, Jacksonville; Miss Alice Hanley, West Side district; and Mrs. Andrew Hearn, Phoenix. The co-operation of all residents of these and all other communities will be expected.
