Campaign On Orthol-K Spray

The California Spray Chemical Co. returns to the advertising columns of this paper today, telling of "Orthol-K," the scientific spray for summer use.

They advertise: "Lead alone will not control codling moth—last season's experience ended all question. Orthol-K lead arsenate combination has proven a distinct advantage over lead alone. Orthol kills the eggs and lead kills the worms.

"Orthol-K is made from petroleum oils of unique insecticide effectiveness, refined to a wide margin of safety and emulsified by a patented process that gives unusual insect wetting efficiency."

LONDON, May 1.—(AP)—Why does Britannia rule the waves? It is not because of roast beef, if Sir William Wayland, M. P., is right. "It was beer that built up our nation," he argued in commons.
