

CURTISS AIRPLANE FORCED TO LAND

ROSEBURG, Ore., May 2.—(AP)—Curtiss airplane that left Oakland early today for Seattle landed on the emergency field at Myrtle Creek, Ore., between Grants Pass and Roseburg. A low ceiling was given as the cause for interruption of the flight. The plane carried three passengers and was piloted by Lieutenant Earl Wikins. Unusually bad flying conditions prevailed in southern Oregon. The fliers were to continue as soon as the weather cleared and the fog lifted. It was believed, however, that they would not be able to leave today.

GRAIN GROWERS SEEK RELIEF FUND ADVANCE

U. P. SAFEST ROAD IS ANNOUNCEMENT

CHICAGO, May 2.—(AP)—The Union Pacific system today was announced the winner of the annual steam railroad accident prevention contest. At the same time figures were made public showing the number of railroad employe accidents last year was 55,496, compared with 150,000 in 1923. The railroads competing in the accident prevention contest were divided into eight groups, classified according to the number of employes they had at work. The Union Pacific system won the class A contest. The Union Pacific company won the class B award, Oregon Washington Railroad and Navigation company class C, Los Angeles and Salt Lake class D, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, class E, Duluth and Iron Range, class F, Coppernagh and Black Lock, class G and the Pullman company class H.

The resignation of Mr. Dazey from the Southern Oregon Gas company will be effective June 1. No successor as yet has been named.

The plans of the American Legion post for an airport dedication and aerial circus were explained by Post Commander W. S. Bolger. Action was deferred until the exact expenses could be determined. It developed that the costs with plus expenses were more than anticipated. It was explained that the aerial activity was intended to be held without excessive costs and labor.

File Museum Report
A report was filed on financial aid for the Pioneer Museum at Jacksonville. The Oregon Historical society advised by letter, that it could render no assistance. Mark Jarmin, head of the committee reported he had called on the county court, and assistance had been promised, but how much or when, was not stated.

It was suggested that citizens of Jacksonville circulate petitions to secure a tax levy for maintenance of the museum, or $1000 per year, and submit the proposition to the voters at the general election. It was felt it would be endorsed. Cole Holmes brought up the question of the establishment of a municipal golf course, and asked for "a cross-section of opinion" from the Civic Council members. The matter was deferred until the proponents of the municipal golf course could confer with the directors of the Rogue Valley club and iron out details. The matter is in a vague and embryonic stage. Mr. Holmes said a free golf course would increase interest in golfing, and please tourists and traveling men. Ben Harber reported that the city was under no obligations to furnish cut-rate or free golf to anybody. After considerable discussion, the matter was postponed until a later date.

light and flashlights, treating scores of men, women and children many suffering serious hurts. Streets of the Nebraska town were choked with debris. The tornado whirled toward the town as though to strike at the business district, but it veered and did its greatest damage in a residential area.

A report to American Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis that the town of Pender, Neb., had been wiped out was found to have been erroneous, but Jackson and Homer Neb., were victims of the tornado, though in no degree comparable with Tekamah.

In Tekamah, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Anderson was killed in his mother's arms when the Anderson home was destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were seriously injured.

Price Report
An early estimate placed the Tekamah property damage at $150,000, with another $100,000 loss to property and crops in other Nebraska territory.

At Vestby, Wis., the tornado that killed Fred Funk, 3 years old, did another $100,000 damage. Nearly every building on the Main street of this town of 1100 persons was upset or destroyed. A tobacco warehouse was lifted from its foundation and slammed against the walls of a railroad station.

Mrs. L. W. Lawler, her daughter, Betty Jane, and Mrs. Walter Dodge, all of Rochester, Minn., were drowned when a cloudburst swept down from the hills onto the car in which they were riding near Lake City, Minn. Two other women leaped from the car and ran to higher ground, escaping the river of water that poured down and covered the stalled machine.

A storm of tornadoic dimensions struck Wabasha and Steele counties in southern Minnesota, destroying small farm buildings and doing other property damage estimated at $100,000.

Iowa Escapes
Although the storm caused loss of life on both sides of Iowa, that state escaped with little damage. The tornado that did such heavy damage in northeastern Nebraska lost its ferocity as it entered Iowa near Sioux City. Rain, hail and high winds were reported from many parts of the state.

Echoes of the storm were felt in Chicago early today with heavy rain and hail again. In the Chicago area, the heaviest of the storm was felt in suburban Beverly Hills where property damage of $100,000 was reported. The first aftermath fatality resulted early today. Michael Keaty, an electrician, fell to his death while repairing a power line in Cicero, a suburb.
