Bum Weather Prompt

In the way of apology for the inclement weather of today, to the school children and health department of the city, for the puerile efforts of a certain punk amateur journalistic prophet to foretell the weather, the local department of this newspaper hereby states that it disclaims all responsibility for the futuristic ideas of the individual who cackled in much glee yesterday that his weather outburst of last Friday had brought on Sunday's fine weather, which it was intimated would continue over today.

DEFENSE MOTION DENIED IN GORE ALIENATION SUIT

A motion to make the complaint in the $100,000 alienation suit of Mrs. Gertrude M. Gore against her husband's parents, William H. Gore and Sophia Ish Gore, "more definite and certain," was denied this afternoon in a decision handed down from the bench by Circuit Judge J. T. Brand of Coos county, presiding. The motion was filed by the defendants, through their attorneys, George M. Roberts and A. E. Reames. Mrs. Gertrude M. Gore was represented by Attorney M. O. Wilkins of Ashland. The court held that granting of the motion, in view of statements of attorneys for both sides, and the fact that the case had been tried before, would entail pleadings and re-argument of evidence. The defense endeavored to have the plaintiff set forth "specific acts, correspondence and communications" alleged to constitute malice and alienation of affections occurring over a period of nearly eight years. The morning session of the court.
