Washington, discussing the naval pact, learns from Secretary Stimson "the United States had to compromise to get the treaty."

It might have been simpler to get along without it, building ships and other things as we require them.

Britain never came here to discuss the size of England's navy, or invited us to come to Europe to discuss that matter. When she had enough money to build what she liked, when she liked.

The League of Nations will print a report on the "Morals of the United States." You may say, crudely, "None of the League or Nations' dashed business." Nevertheless, Mademoiselle Chaptal severely criticizes our moral conditions especially as regards childhood.

Perhaps we do neglect our souls occasionally, what with one thing and another.

But let us be grateful that nobody forced us into the League of Nations. Had that happened, they would probably come over and fix our souls, morals and children for us, according to Mademoiselle Chaptal's ideas, forcing us to accept their morals, souls and conscience in place of our bathtubs, playgrounds and washing machines.

Prohibitionists have nothing personal against Mr. Morrow. In fact, they compliment him, saying he is so "distinguished" that it would hurt prohibition if he won his race on a wet platform.

SUNDOWN STORIES

FIRST PLANTING

By Mary Graham Bonner The Little Black Clock had turned the time back so far that the world looked very, very new, and as though there were not many people living in it.

He had taken John and Peggy to see the very beginning of the wheat fields and gardens. That was what he had told them, but they could not see a wheat field.

They had expected to see a few flowers growing, but they couldn't see the sign of a garden.

The Little Black Clock led them to one side of a plain and said: "Wait! Don't be disappointed. You'll really see!"

As they waited they saw a man wearing an animal's skin for a robe, watching with surprise and delight something close to the earth. Then he jumped up and down with glee, and went inside his cave and called the others to come out and behold what he had to show them.

"I can't see any garden from here," whispered Peggy to the Little Black Clock.

"It's not very much of anything in the way of a garden," said the Little Black Clock, "but you're seeing the very, very beginning of planting."

"This man had noticed how things grew up out of the earth and a while ago he planted some seeds from these growths."

"They've come up and he is so happy about it. He has learned that if you will put seeds in the ground they will grow."

"Doesn't it seem strange to think we're seeing the first growth from the first planting?" And both the children nodded. It was certainly a funny old world, having to find so much out for itself.

ELECTION HOLIDAY FOR SOME FRIDAY

Because of tomorrow being state and county primary election day, and in accordance with the state law making it a legal holiday, the banks of the city and the offices of the courthouse will be closed all day. The city treasurer's and city recorder's offices in the city hall will also be closed all day.

BUTTER DECLINES; EGGS UNCHANGED

PORTLAND, May 15. — (AP) — Butter and butterfat prices declined a cent each at the Portland produce exchange today.

Extras in butter are 36c standards 35c prime firsts 34c and firsts 33c. Butterfat, delivered Portland is quoted at 35c.

Fresh prices were weak, but unchanged.

Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland bureau of the U. S. department of agriculture says:

"Cool, rainy weather at Portland is resulting in lighter demand for strawberries. Supplies are only moderate this, and the market is steady at about 85 per cent of northwestern berries."

"The potato market is dull, after last week's flurry of increased activity."

"Cantaloupes have been generally considered as too high priced to permit extensive shipments to the northwest."

VON DER HELLEN PLAY PRESENTED OVER RADIO

Continuing the popular Dick and Betty series, from the pen of Mrs. Nell Von der Hellen of Wellen, KMED, the Mail Tribune-Virgin station, this forenoon presented the radio playlet, "Horse of a Different Color," for the Economy Groceries, featuring Woot Dark and Helen Brayton in the leading parts.

The story concerns the accidental shuffling of physical examination papers for life insurance policies. The papers received by Dick Brown in the story indicate that he is suffering from many ailments, and although he is healthy, the thought of the report causes him to become mentally ill, much to the enjoyment of Betty, whom he told he would never betray himself if he ever became sick. His imaginary illness caused him to leave work before mid-day and seek the sympathy of his better half.

Medford Did Agree to Allow County Court to Select Site For the Court House

The following resolution adopted April 7th, by the City Council, proves this assertion:

RESOLUTION NO. 61.

A RESOLUTION expressing the willingness of the city council to submit the question of constructing a building suitable for a temporary court house to the people of Medford.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MEDFORD, OREGON:

The matter of making additions to the courthouse at Jacksonville and of constructing other buildings to accommodate the various county officers, has been brought to the attention of the Common Council of the City of Medford on the 7th day of April, 1925.

There was read to the Council the report of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Medford, as well as the report of the committee appointed by the Jackson County Bar, and after considering the said reports, the council endorsed the sentiments and recommendations of the said committees.

Furthermore the City Council pledges itself, subject to the vote of the people if necessary, in behalf of the City of Medford, to donate to Jackson County a site for the building of the County Court House in case the people of Jackson County shall vote to change the county seat.

The site is to be selected and approved by the Board of County Commissioners

The Council deems it necessary within a very short time to provide the City of Medford with suitable city hall, and as the matter of changing the location of the county seat of Jackson County cannot be brought before the voters of Jackson County prior to the election in May, 1926, we will, as soon as possible, submit to the people of Medford a proposition to vote bonds sufficient to construct a building suitable as a city hall, and pending the construction of the courthouse in the City of Medford we will favor the leasing to the County of Jackson for courthouse purposes at a nominal rental of $1.00 per year, such City Hall, until the courthouse may be completed.

The foregoing resolution was considered and adopted April 7th, 1925.

Attest: (Signed) M. L. ALFORD, Recorder. (Signed) O. O. ALENDERFER, Mayor.

The people of Medford are in honor bound, morally and legally, to carry out this contract with the County Court and the people of Jackson County at the election tomorrow.
