

COUNCIL VOTES THOUSAND FOR HUMANE WORK

Harbor Organization Given $250 to Carry On Campaign—Order Five Streets Paved.

Headed by Mayor Pipes, the Humane society and the remainder to the Northern California and Southern Oregon Development association for the Crescent City harbor promotion fund, the city council disposed of much business last night in addition to taking action on the proposed opening of Eighth street, related elsewhere in this paper, and including the ordering of a number of street improvements.

The council voted to meet hereafter during the summer months at 8 p. m., instead of 7:30 p. m. as has been the rule for years.

The $1000 voted to the Humane society is in accordance with the promise made months ago to give the society a sum not to exceed $1500 for its support. It is not certain that the society will be given $500 more later on after the second half year's taxes are paid in, as the council finance committee, which recommended the payment of the $1000 is not unanimous as to paying anything more.

Chairman Wilson and Eugene Thordyke are in favor of it, but Chas. A. Wing and R. B. Hammond are opposed.

The $250 payment voted for the Crescent City harbor project is half of the $500 sum promised some time ago as the city's share in support of the Crescent City harbor promotion fund.

Fair Directors Named

Mayor Pipes appointed, and the council approved, the following men as the city's membership contingent on the county fair board: H. O. Frohbach, Wm. J. Warner, J. W. Wakefield, R. G. Fowler and C. E. Gates.

A petition received asking for the opening of Pennsylvania avenue from the west line of block 3 to Summit street was referred to the streets and roads committee for investigation.

No protests having been received except one from W. A. Walters in opposition to the paving of West Palm street, between North Beach and Summit, although this improvement was petitioned for by a majority of property owners, and which protest was rejected; the council authorized the five streets be paved, and three graded and graveled, as petitioned for by the majority of the property owners.

Paving, curbs and gutters: West Park, between Peach street and Summit; East Ninth street, between Central avenue and Riverside; Florence avenue, up the hospital hill; South Central avenue, between Boyd and the Pacific highway; and Fourth street, between Oakdale and Riverside.

Grading and graveeling: Palm street, between Oakdale and North Beach; Myers court, between West Main and Fourth streets; West Holly, between Summit and Columbus.

FOWLER'S POSTER CALLED WASHOUT

Because of Humane society interference the poster drawn by County Agent Fowler in connection with the contest, carried on in the schools, of Jackson county to promote the drinking of milk and which (the poster) is attracting much crude attention, could not be entered in that competition for two reasons—one, because the contest is limited to school children and the other because the sight might be more conducive to moonshine consumption.

However, just to prove that as an artist Mr. Fowler is an excellent cheese maker and blacksmith's delight, the poster, which is now on display in the home demonstration agent's office in the Liberty building, conveys a message of special interest to overweights and underweights, and will probably be a feature in the swine pavilion at next fall's county fair.

definite estimate could be obtained, is beyond salvage value. It had been moved last night to the east side of the store, preparatory to involving it today, following completion of a closing out sale, the establishment had been carrying on for some time.

In view of closing out the business, several insurance policies on the stock had been ordered cancelled by J. D. Russell, proprietor, and today he did not know the extent of his protection on the loss.

Mr. Russell left the store at 12:30 last night and did not learn of the fire until this morning. Despite the fact that Fire Chief Roy Elliott had requested several persons to call Mr. Russell, they failed to do so.

When he arrived at the scene this morning, he was visibly affected by the sudden blow. He had been in business for the past six years and his establishment was one of the best known in the entire southern Oregon and northern California trading area, dealing in general lines of women's and children's goods.

An empty store room, formerly occupied by Mullin's ladies ready-to-wear establishment, adjoining Russell's on the east was also damaged, though flames failed to enter their way into the room to any great extent. The plate glass windows were shattered.

Building Loss $30,000

The damage to the building, owned by the Deuel estate, was estimated at $30,000. This figure, however, is flexible. Fire Chief Elliott said today that the walls were not damaged by the heat, contrary to street reports that they had been cracked.

While the fire siren blew long and loud, most of Medford's residents slept through the time of the blaze and knew nothing of the happening until this morning. It is said that the siren can not be heard well in all parts of the city and it is possible some steps may be taken to remedy the fault.

A large crowd, never-the-less, gathered about the blazing structure, which sent flames and billows of smoke high in the air.

An inspection of the ruins this forenoon revealed most of the second floor, badly burned, still in place, but the roof was gone on a large section, indicating the fire had its start at the top, burning downward.

Safe Believed Intact.

The store safe was resting on some burned rafters at the rear of the building and its contents were expected to be found in good condition.

The building was on fire twice in the past year or two before the destructive flames last night. Once the roof caught fire and on another occasion a blaze began in an upstairs office.

The apartment in which the women were living was on the east side of the building on the second floor. Shortly after their escape from the burning structure, they were taken to the home of Larry Schade on South Oakdale, where they were supplied with clothes. Mrs. Wilson is an employe of the Schade jewelry store, and Miss Peterson is an employe of the Fox Craterian theater.

Crowds of local citizens spent most of today looking over the ruins, which were still being watched by firemen for any other possible outbreak. The firemen have been coming in for their share of praise for creditable work in coping with a dangerous situation.

Explosions heard during the fire were caused by revolver bullets in an office on the second floor which had been kept there by H. S. Deuel along with a collection of war relics, all of which were destroyed or badly damaged. There was no oil in the building, which has no basement with the exception of a very small one.

Dental equipment in the late Dr. L. Bundy, on the second floor and which was to have been moved out last week by Mrs. Bundy, was badly damaged.

The late glass windows of the building were not broken by firemen but were shattered by intense heat.

Following the call received by the fire department from Harvey, several other calls were also received, including one from a local newspaperman enroute home from work. The central telephone office also received a number of calls from Medford residents who saw the glow in the heavens.

awarded Gerald Fitzgerald and Roger Tresham, both of Sams Valley.

Special mention was given a poster made by Olive Davis of Sams Valley, who was absent from school when the contest was carried on. The poster pictures six goblins—"Stuffy Colds," "Decayed Teeth," "Rickets," "Old Man Disease," "Underweight" and "Overweight"—sitting on a fence. A little girl is running from them toward a milk bottle and the slogan says: "The goblins will get you if you don't drink milk."

Three Judges

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Glen Smith of this city, Mrs. Lydia King, county nurse, and Miss Louise Hollenbeck, instructor in the local schools.

Prizes, which were: First, $5; second, $1.50; third, $1; fourth, 50 cents, and fifth 50 cents, for each district, were furnished through the courtesy of the milk distributors' association with the following contributors: Snider's Dairy Gold Seal Creamery, Van Dyke's Dairy, Madrona Dairy, Swiss Dairy, L. A. Murphy and James Kershaw.

Prize winners in the essay contest, which is being sponsored in the seventh and eighth grades, will be announced tomorrow.

milk the poster contains some very fine art work.

The second prize was won by Eloise Ashcraft, pupil in the second grade at the Washington school in Ashland. She will receive $1.50 for her poster, which shows a huge white milk bottle with a faucet mounted on a black background with two children rushing up to fill their cups. The slogan reads, "Milk! Oh, Boy!"

Donald Krons, Eleanor Oltum and Raymond Erickson, all of the Washington school, Medford, won third, fourth and fifth prizes respectively.

Eunice Sanden of Jacksonville entered the poster which won first prize in the second class district. "A Cargo of Health" it is entitled, and shows a ship loaded with milk. Winner of the second prize is Albert Clayton of Central Point; third Evelyn Lyons of Jacksonville; fourth, Shelley Littell of Jacksonville, and fifth, Zoe Beach of Jacksonville.

Many Fine Posters

A surprising number of excellent posters were entered by pupils of the third class district. Mrs. Mack stated this morning. The first prize was awarded Verle Edwards of Sams Valley, who entered one portraying a small child holding a globe of the world in his hand and reading "It's Built on Milk."

Frederick Guetzloff of Foots Creek, winner of the third prize, entered a free hand drawing of a cow.

Fourth and fifth prizes were

"Couldn't Feel Any Better"

"I was nervous and rundown and weighed less than a hundred pounds. I felt tired and weak and often had to lie down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I saw it advertised. Now I eat well, sleep well and have good color. In fact, I couldn't feel any better and I weigh one hundred fifty-five pounds. I am glad to answer letters from any woman who wants to know more about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Bertha Stephens, 21 E. Ross Street, Lancaster, Pennsylvania.
