

MANY ATTRACTED TO CRATER PARK BY FINE WEATHER

Yesterday was the biggest day of the year so far at Crater Lake national park as 300 cars, including tourists, took advantage of the fact that the road through the park was cleared all the way to the rim, to see the lake. The day was perfect, with sunshine, and the lake never looked more beautiful. In its new setting, the park management had cleared away a parking place near the rim, and among the cars parked were a number from eastern states. There were many California and other western cars.

At the rim the snow depth varies from six to 11 feet, according to the way the snow had drifted, and besides enjoying the view of the lake and park snow scenes from the rim, the visitors yesterday greatly enjoyed the auto ride through the tunnel-like wide path that the snow plow had cleared, with snow heaped up on both sides, especially from beyond Anna Spring camp to the rim.

Superintendent E. C. Solinsky and Miss Ethel Wilkinson, his stenographer, returned last evening from having spent the week end at the national park, preparatory to the park headquarters being moved from the Federal building in Medford about next Thursday to government camp for the season.

HOUSEWIVES CAN LOWER FOOD BILLS BY USE OF SUGAR

Sugar Makes Inexpensive, Wholesome Foods More Appetizing

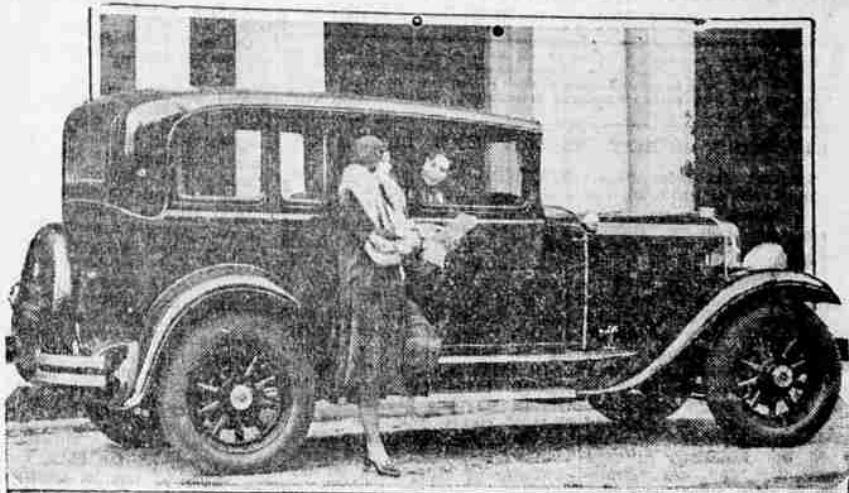

Although most foods rise in price at seasonal periods during the year, the price of sugar varies but little, and is always low. The cost of sugar to housewives in the United States is much lower than it is in any other country.

The value of sugar in reducing food bills is quickly apparent. Wholesome desserts, which can be inexpensively made, round out the simplest meal in a satisfying way. The same is true of jellies, jams and relishes. Sugar, of course, is one of the chief ingredients in these foods.

When sugar is used as a seasoning in cooking essential vegetables, their appetizing qualities are noticeably increased. Try a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt in cooking carrots, turnips, beans, tomatoes, and other vegetables—canned or fresh. The sugar blending with the salt and vegetable juices is delicious. Stewed fruits become most inviting when sugar is added. And sugar sprinkled on breakfast cereals develops their flavor in a taste-pleasing way.

The opportunity to buy ice cream and bakery products at the "store around the corner" should not be overlooked. These delicious, wholesome desserts are sold at a price within the reach of all. A bit of sugar makes the meal complete. The sugar institute.

'BORN RECKLESS' GRIPPING DRAMA OF UNDERWORLD

With "Louis Beretti," gang leader and "Big Shot," a member of the gang, who had been bosom friends since childhood until a difference arose between them through Beretti violating the gangland code by "not keeping his nose clean," or in other words interfering with a part of the gang's kidnaping of the child of the woman he loved, standing face to face, with hand on gun, but determined to "shoot it out," and then doing so—that is the gripping climax of "Born Reckless," thrilling racketeer melodrama of the underworld, starring Edmund Lowe with 12 prominent actors in his support, which so well entertained audiences at the Fox Bialto theater yesterday with its excitement and dramatic episodes. This feature film will run until Wednesday.

There are other gangster killings in this realistic portrayal of gangland life, a kidnaping, jewelry store robbery scene and, oh, everyone had a really good time seeing the racketeers "bump" each other off. Contrast enjoyment is furnished by a talking news and a talking comedy, "The Smooth Guy."

As was a foregone conclusion with such an exceptional cast of players, some excellent acting is a feature of "Born Reckless," with of course Lowe, who is best known for his swashbuckling, leatherneck roles of "What Price Glory" and "The Cockeyed World," leading in this respect with his vivid, audacious and intensely human portrayal of Beretti.

Catherine Dello Owen, one of the most beautiful blondes in filmdom, plays the leading feminine role, and Marguerite Churchill, with her dainty screen personality and freshness, enacts the part of Beretti's sister, Warren Hymer as "Big Shot," Ben Bard as the leading villain in the gang, Frank Albertson, William Harrigan, Eddie Griffin, Lee Tracy, Mike Donlin, Roy Stewart, Ferike Boros and Paul Page are among others playing featured roles.

There is a short World War, in France behind the lines, sequence in "Born Reckless," but no battle scenes other than a very realistic aircraft attack on a marching column of soldiers. The dialogue and sound effects are in the main good, but in one or two places, probably due to faulty recording, the talking is too subdued or faint.

Local Officers Lead Auto Caravan Astray in Home Trip From Regatta

The grass, shrubbery and trees are all badly scorched on both sides of the road leading from beyond the other side of Bear creek to somewhere up in the Rocky Ann region because of remarks made late yesterday afternoon by the male occupants of 23 or more cars returning from the Emigrant dam boat races, who were still making sizzling comments today whenever they thought of Chief of Police Clotus McCredie and City Traffic Officer T. B. Robinson. In both, entirely lost confidence in the long procession of returning cars from the races in single file, Chief McCredie and Robinson were cutting out of the parade and crossing Bear creek near the Jackson Hot Springs vicinity to a road on the other side leading to Medford, and thereby avoid the long detour.

As their car left they were followed by the 24 other cars, whose smart occupants also knew of the other returning cars proceeding fast and in blissful ignorance failed to turn off several miles from Bear creek to this other Medford road, but kept on straight ahead until they and their followers reached a grain ranch in a little valley about eight miles from Medford, and could proceed no further. They were lost, and there was nothing to be had but back up eight miles until they reached the right turn in the road leading to Medford, reaching the city early last evening. As they were making the right turn on the return trip, the driver of a car at the turn shouted "Where have you been?" "Search us," yelled most of the disgruntled autoists, while the others confidently yelled in a chorus, "Hellenbeck."

Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Foy and William Vavter were in the cars following the officers. Mr. and Mrs. Foy, while following the latter's lead towards Rocky Ann, suddenly tumbled that they were on the wrong road, and Mr. Foy with a snicker at the ignorance of the others in the procession suddenly turned off into a by road which he thought would lead to the Medford road, and went a half mile until they ran into a farmer's barn. They backed up and went on until they met the head of the big backing-up procession.

It was "on again, off again, Finnegan," and cum again, for hours.

ADJUSTERS FINISH SURVEYING DEUEL BUILDING LOSSES

Insurance adjusters and officials of the state fire marshal's department Saturday concluded their survey of the flame-gutted F. K. Deuel building, Main and Bartlett streets, occupied by Russell's department store at the time.

Insurance on the building totaled $29,000 and on the Russell stock, when intact, $32,000—a total of $61,000.

In the ordinary course of business, final adjustment and the report, should be under way within a fortnight.

Several plans for rebuilding are under consideration by Hob S. Deuel, but no definite plans have been formulated.

H. Flyen Anderson, pianist and musician, was a heavy loser in the fire, and narrowly escaped, it was learned today. A collection and a number of compositions were destroyed, Mr. Anderson feeling the loss keenly.

He was asleep in an apartment in the building and was awakened by Mrs. Mabel Wilson and Miss Hazel Peterson. Anderson broke out a glass and walked out over the roof.

Miss Peterson searched the ashes again today in the hopes of finding a golden chain, heirloom, which was in a glass container, and was a gift from her mother, which she prizes highly.
