

PARAMOUNT AGES ENTERTAIN WITH SONG, DANCE, FUN

The all star film frolic, "Paramount on Parade," a song, dance and fun reel in which merely all of Paramount's stars and featured players appear in numbers, including a number of beautiful technical scenes, lives up to its advance notices and all the praise that has been showered on this big and good entertainment by moving picture and magazine critics.

MAURICE CHEVALIER fire order. The stars and other players are so well known and their acts so dissimilar that a reviewer finds difficulty in pointing out what he deems the best ones—all are so good and interesting. Be sure and see "Paramount on Parade," which runs at the Fox Criterion theater until Sunday. You will enjoy it. Big audiences did so last night.

The huge cast, in alphabetical order, includes the following players: Richard Arlen, Jean Arthur, William Austin, George Bancroft, Clara Bow, Evelyn Brent, Mary Brian, Olive Brook, Virginia Bruce, Nancy Carroll, Ruth Chatterton, Maurice Chevalier, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol, Stuart Erwin, Kay Francis, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green, Mitzl Green, James Hall, Phillip Holmes, Helen Kane, Dennis King, Abe Lyman and his band, Fredric March, Nino Martini, Mitzl Mayfair, David Newell, Jack Oakie, Warner Oland, Zelma O'Neil, Eugene Pallette, Joan Peers, W.H. Foxall, Powell, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Lillian Roth, Stanley Smith and Fay Wray.

One of the most charming and sentimental scenes was "The Dream Girl" in Technicolor, in which Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen, James Hall, Skeets Gallagher, David Newell, Phillip Holmes, Mary Brian, Fay Wray, Joan Peers, Jean Arthur and Virginia Bruce take part and sing "Let Us Drink to the Girl of My Dreams."

Another was the big Technicolor finale in which Maurice Chevalier and a chorus of 42 pony-circus girl beauties sing and dance "Sweeping the Clouds Away," first appearing as chimney sweeps on roofs, then floating away in the clouds.

The inimitable Chevalier with his charming personality, songs and ability seemed to dominate the entire big review, and appears often throughout.

Leon Errol, the comedian, who shows that he can be very funny without even working his famous wobbly leg, Jack Oakie and Skeets Gallagher open the show and introduce the various acts, besides each taking prominent part in several scenes.

Altho Paramount on Parade is filled with humor and travesty containing many laughs, the most absurdly laughable sketch was labeled "The Toreador," given in period costume with Harry Green as the torador and that sleek temptress, Kay Francis, as Carmen, the former singing "I'm Isadore, the Toreador," during dance ensembles amid Spanish settings.

Ruth Chatterton scores in a "Parisian cafe sketch singing "My Marine" to a group of marines, including Fredric March, Stanley Smith and Stuart Erwin.

Clara Bow, the famous "It" redhead, makes a hit by singing "I'm True to the Navy Now," accompanied by a large chorus of sailors. But what a different Clara Bow—more likeable and demure and ever so slim, like when she first broke into moving picture fame. Her long sickness certainly did no harm to her looks.

Another interesting act, "Impulses," featured the burly George Bancroft at a social affair with Kay Francis, Wm. Austin, Henry Pink and Cecil Cunningham—the star and act furnishing much humor.

Nancy Carroll in a singing and dance act, "Dance Mad," to music by Abe Lyon and his band, also scores.

PENNEY ASSISTANT NOW IN HILLSBORO

P. A. Anderson, assistant manager of the J. C. Penney store of this city, who received a promotion to manager of the new store to be opened in Hillsboro at an early date, is now in that city. His place on the local staff will be filled by H. B. Foulger, who has been with the store for some time. The store being opened by the J. C. Penney Co. in Hillsboro, is furnished with the most modern equipment and fixtures available. W. S. Bolger, manager of the Medford store, stated this morning, and will be a beautiful addition to the northern city.

Maek, or Moran and Mark fame and Chevalier, and singing of "All I Want is One Girl." In a gorgeous Technicolor set Dennis King appears in a travesty of the stage and screen operetta in which he won fame, and sang the dramatic Russian love song in his fine tenor voice, "Nichave."

One of the cleverest things of the entire revue is a burlesque on murder mystery stories in which they took leading parts, with Olive Brooks as Sherlock Holmes, Wm. Powell as Philo Vance, Eugene Pallette as Sergeant Heath, and Warner Oland as Dr. Manchu. Evelyn Brent and Chevalier do an interesting slapstick sketch to music, and Chevalier takes part in several other features.

Helen Kane of "Boop, Doopa Boop" fame, brings laughs as a teacher in a modernistic school room by giving a history lesson to the pupils. Chas. Buddy Rogers and Lillian Roth appear with a boy and girl chorus in a cuckoo clock setting in which they do some clever dancing, and sing "Any Time's the Time to Fall in Love."

Leon Errol appears in a funny number, "In a Hospital," assisted by Jean Arthur and others, and Jack Oakie and Zelma O'Neil also raise laughs by their sketch, "In a Girls Gymnasium." R. A. K.

DISTRICT STAFF METROPOLITAN LIFE TO ATTEND MEETING

Seven members of the Medford district staff of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, headed by the manager, C. H. Stratton, will go to Portland June 2 to attend a series of meetings with the company's president, Frederick H. Ecker of New York. The staff members who will attend are: Howard Scheffel and Ernest L. Scott, of Medford; L. G. Stack, Ashland; F. Nelson, Grants Pass; F. B. Robinson and H. F. Green, Klamath Falls. Mr. Ecker, who is making his first official tour of the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states since he became head of the Metropolitan a year ago, is accompanied by Francis O. Ayres, first vice-president; A. F. Flske and Ernest H. Wilkes, second vice-presidents; E. J. Williams, third vice-president and manager of the Pacific coast head office at San Francisco, and John H. Almy, superintendent of agencies. The meetings will be attended by more than 100 field representatives of the company in Oregon and Aberdeen, Washington. The meetings are being held in pursuance of Mr. Ecker's desire to extend his personal greetings to all the members of the Metropolitan field force in the United States and Canada and to bring them in closer contact with the purposes and ideals of the home office of the company. As head of this $2,000,000,000 institution, Mr. Ecker occupies a position unique in the business world. He must supervise the investment of a daily average of $2,000,000 of company funds. Also in directing head of a force of 44,000 workers, 25,000 of whom constitute the company's agency force, the rest being employed at the home and head offices in New York City, San Francisco, Ottawa, Canada and London, England.

AVIATOR BROWN AT AIRPORT FOR VALLEY FLIGHTS

Back in Medford today greeting old friends, W. J. Brown, former proprietor of the local Copper King Flying Service announced this afternoon that he will be in Medford until next Monday, accompanied by John Waage, well known Oakland, Cal. pilot, and will give short airplane and scenic trips at reasonable rates. Mr. Waage and Mr. Brown both have their own planes and arrived this afternoon from Redding, to be here over the Decoration Day holidays.

"Heavenly" as he is familiarly known, is flying a Travelair ship of late construction and is a pilot who became well known here last year for his aviation ability. He operated a flying service and airplane school here until the arrival of Major Gilbert Eckerson, who left several months ago. Since his departure, there has been no airplane service of a local nature at the field. The arrival of the two pilots is good news to local residents who have been craving airplane enjoyment.

Mr. Waage is flying a Curtiss Robin, powered with a Challenger motor, a sister ship to the famous St. Louis Robin, holder of the world's endurance record of 420 hours and 20 minutes. The sight of this ship will be sought by many and a ride in it will be regarded as a treat. Messrs. Waage and Brown plan to tour the country together and afterward is one of their first stops. Charles Gibson also here, has been named as their business manager.

ONE CONCERN MAKES 50,000 KINDS PAINT

Only a very few of our modern industrial institutions can boast of such an assorted and tremendous output as can Sherwin-Williams in Cleveland, "the world's largest paint manufacturer, whose product literally 'covers the earth.'" Seldom is the age of specialization more clearly defined than in this manufacturer's own shops, where paint for literally every article produced is made in apparently limitless quantities. Should you glance over a list of products this plant covers, you will find among other odd things toothpaste tubes, hairpins, ocean liners, pullman cars, locomotives, homes, furniture and even the metal frames of airplanes whose interiors likewise require a certain special finish.

During the past few years manufacturers have learned that new economies and new standards of durability result from proper paint protection. Unparalleled development has taken place in the paint industry. New finishes have supplanted the old; new colors never found previously are now on sale in almost every section of the world. Two things chiefly cause this. The greater demand for paint due to the greater public knowledge of its protective and beautifying qualities, and the impetus continually brought to bear by style—for like automobiles and clothing—paint, today more than ever, follows the flag of fashion.
